Lodge Asks UN Aid In Freeing 11 U. S. Fliers

Expresses Confidence Support Will Come From Other Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. announced today the United States will request the U. N. to move for the release of 11 American aviators sentenced to jail as spies in Red China. Lodge said he is confident the United States will get support here.

The chief American delegate to the U. N. rushed from conferences at the State Department to a meeting of the 16 U. N. members who fought the Reds in Korea and then told newsmen:

"Great concern was expressed by all present at the fate of the 11 aviators and no doubt action will be taken by the United Nations.

"The United States is going to request action and we are confident we will be supported both for the sake of our prisoners and others.

Keep Faith With Men

"We are going to act to do everything we can to keep faith with these men. They are U. N. men as well as United States men.

"This organization can't go on if it does not stand by people who go to bat for it when it gets into trouble."

Lodge and other delegates in the conference, which lasted more than an hour, said there would be another meeting tomorrow. They said the delegates in the conference will consult their governments at once in an effort to decide the best course of action.

Meeting with Lodge were top delegates of Britain, France, Canada, Australia, Belgium, Colombia, Ethiopia, Greece, Luxembourg, The Netherlands, New Zealand, The Philippines, Thailand and Turkey. South Africa has held aloof from the political talks on the future of Korea but rejoined the group this afternoon on the case of the American aviators.

The Red Chinese announced that 13 Americans had been sentenced to jail terms on charges of spying. James J. Wadsworth, deputy United States delegate, denounced that action in the U.N. political committee yesterday as having been taken on "trumped up charges." Several senators in Washington have called for action. President Eisenhower in his news conference this afternoon, while Lodge was talking with the delegates, said he did not see how the U.N. could disabuse itself of the responsibility for dealing with the problem and at the same time retain its self respect.

Others Were Civilians

Lodge confined his statement to 11 American aviators in the U.N. forces. He said the other two Americans mentioned in the Red Chinese announcement were not in the U.N. forces and therefore were not included in the action contemplated here. He indicated they should be released, however, and said they are Americans just like the others.

The cases of the aviators overshadowed the debate on the Korean situation. At a committee meeting, Britain's Anthony Nutting, speaking for the U.N. side in the Korean War, rejected a Soviet proposal for a new Korean peace conference between the U.N. side and the Communists.

Human Alarm Clock Bugles His Town Awake

BAXTER, Tenn., Dec. 2 (AP)—Charlie Hughes—Baxter's bugling bachelor—hasn't let these chilly mornings stop him from blowing reveille on his bugle at 5 a.m. daily, just as he has for over 30 years.

Hughes, known as the human alarm clock, started climbing a 20-foot pole to wake up the neighbors back in March 1924. He has been at it ever since.

He said he started the practice as a good "healthy hobby" and has seen no reason to discontinue it, despite his 66 years. Hughes is a letter carrier.

British Seek To Curb Battle Among Chinese

LONDON, Dec. 2 (AP) — The Churchill government has intervened in the Formosa dispute with a direct appeal to Red China to not take any "precipitate action." The British also have urged the United States to curb Chinese Nationalist attacks on the Red-held China mainland.

The Foreign Office, striving to head off a possible clash in the Formosa Straits between the U.S. 7th Fleet and Red Chinese forces, disclosed today that it had made the unusual peace appeal to Mao Tze-tung's regime through his embassy in London.

A British spokesman, answering questions from newsmen, said Red China's charge d'affaires here, Huan Hsiang, replied to the British request, but the spokesman refused to disclose the nature of the reply.

The Foreign Office said Britain has counseled moderation on both sides in the Formosa quarrel in keeping with "Her Majesty's government's policy towards the islands off the Chinese coast which has been to urge on all concerned the dangers of fighting, the importance of lowering tension and of avoiding precipitate action."

Britain, which has diplomatic relations with Red China and extensive commercial interests in the Far East, has kept a worried eye on the repeated flare-ups over Formosa. But this is the first time the Churchill government has openly intervened to forestall the possible outbreak of a general Far East war.

The foreign press office spokesman, asked about Britain's attitude towards the status of Formosa, recalled Prime Minister Churchill's statement of July 14, in which he said:

"I certainly do not see anything in the conduct of China which has yet happened which should lead the American government to deliver Formosa to Communist China."

Comedian Jan Murray Collapses At His Home

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Television comedian Jan Murray, 37, collapsed at his suburban home today. He was taken to Beth David Hospital for observation, where his condition was described as "fair."

The American Broadcasting Co. said Murray apparently suffered from "complete fatigue."

The network said it did not know at this time if Murray would be able to appear on his program, "Dollar a Second," tomorrow night.

Security Pact Signed

Sheppard's Brother Takes Stand In Doctor's Behalf

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2 (AP) — Dr. Stephen Sheppard launched the defense of his brother's life today, testifying there was tampering on the scene of Marilyn Sheppard's July 4 murder.

The brother, Dr. Samuel Sheppard, is on trial for his life, accused of murdering his wife after an affair with another woman.

Dr. Steve said police pictures show Marilyn's lifeless arms in a different position than he found them that morning. And he testified Dr. Sam's brown jacket was not neatly folded on a downstairs couch—a key claim in the state's attempt to send the 30-year-old Dr. Sam to the electric chair.

The witness, 34, described his youngest brother as a kind parent, a thoughtful, loving husband who brought home unexpected gifts and was ready with compliments on his wife's new dress. He also called him "the most level-headed of our entire family."

Dr. Samuel, one of a family of four osteopaths, is accused of beating Marilyn to death for love of Susan Hayes, a 24-year-old former technician in his hospital.

The defendant claims a bushy-haired prowler killed his wife and twice knocked him unconscious when he rushed to her aid.

Dr. Stephen still was under direct questioning by the defense when court adjourned for the day. He will resume his testimony tomorrow.

Much of the afternoon was devoted to emphasizing injuries Dr. Samuel claims he suffered at the hands of the alleged prowler. Dr. Stephen testified he examined his brother and found a brain concussion, a spinal cord injury, that some of his teeth were jarred loose and two of them apparently chipped. The state has minimized the extent of the injuries.

Dr. Stephen also tried to show there was no protective wall of relatives and friends thrown around his brother to keep investigators from questioning him. On the contrary, he testified, Dr. Samuel was reduced to tears by a browbeating in which Cleveland detectives accused him of murdering Marilyn only a few hours after the crime.

Common Pleas Judge Edward Blythin directed the defense to proceed today after overruling the usual motions for a dismissal of the indictment or a directed verdict of acquittal. The state rested its case yesterday.

Cardinals Will Name Successor

ROME, Dec. 2 (AP)—Who would succeed Pope Pius XII in the event of his death?

The College of Cardinals, now numbering 64, would make the decision.

For the first time in 600 years Italians are not a majority in the College of Cardinals, but it is generally thought here another Italian most likely would be chosen.

Italians sometimes mentioned as possibilities for the papacy have included Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini, Archbishop-designate of Milan; Marcello Mimmi, archbishop of Naples; Giacomo Lercaro, Archbishop of Bologna; Ernesto Ruffini, Archbishop of Palermo; Giuseppe Siri, Archbishop of Genoa; and Msgr. Domenico Tardini, a Pro-secretary of State at the Vatican.

Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, Patriarch of Armenia, French-born Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, and the Australian Archbisop Norman Thomas Gilroy have been mentioned as possible choices from abroad.

Iowa Girl Gets $16,650 For Steer

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—An Iowa farm girl added $16,650 today to her prize awards and gifts when her grand champion steer, "Shorty," was auctioned off for the second highest price in the history of the International Live Stock Exposition.

Janice Hullinger, 16, Manly, Iowa, received $15 a pound for her Aberdeen-Angus which weighed in at 1,110 pounds. The animal was judged grand champion Tuesday.

The girl previously had received $820 in cash awards in the junior and open class competitions at the show. She said she would use the money to install inside plumbing in her parents' farm home.

Crane Co. of Chicago then offered to donate both the plumbing and labor, which a company official today estimated would total about $5,000 for the 13-room home.

Fairbanks Morse & Co. also of Chicago, offered a water system to bring running water to the house. This cost was estimated at approximately $1,000.

In addition some $500 in other gifts were reaching Miss Hullinger.

Soviet, Seven European Nations Plan Armed Pact

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Soviet Union and seven Eastern European Communist states tonight signed a pledge to pool their armed forces and put them under a joint command if the Western Powers ratify the Paris agreements to rearm West Germany.

Premier Georgi Malenkov and top members of the Soviet government attended the ceremony in the great Kremlin Palace. The signing wound up a four-day security conference called by the Russians to counter the West's defensive alliance, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, with an Eastern version of NATO.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov signed for the Soviet Union. The other nations committed by the signatures of their chief delegates are East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Albania.

Red China was represented at the conference by an observer, Chang Wen-tien, its ambassador in Moscow, who declared his government threw its full support behind the eight-nation declaration.

A communique said the participants agreed to meet again, in case the Paris accords are ratified by Western parliaments, to take action putting the Communists' mutual security pact into effect.

Western leaders have set March 1 as the target date for ratification. When this is done 500,000 West German troops will be brought under the North Atlantic banner.

The Western nations snubbed invitations to attend the Moscow security conference. The United States, Britain, France and others said ratification must precede meetings with Communist leaders on European problems.

The fact that Premier Otto Grotewohl of East Germany signed the declaration clearly indicates that Red leaders here intend that his government should have armed forces to contribute to the pool.

Man Survives 16-Story Drop

He was aboard a construction elevator that was released for a "free" drop from the 21st floor of the Martin Brown Building being built in downtown Louisville.

The elevator operator learned at the last minute Garth was aboard and started braking the car at the 5th floor level. Usually he lets it drop free to the 3rd floor.

Garth, 51, was sprawled in a wheelbarrow during the drop. He suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Negro Is Removed To Another Jail

FLORENCE, Ala., Dec. 2 (AP)—A 28-year-old Negro man charged murdering a white grocer was removed to an undisclosed jail because of threats of mob violence, Sheriff James J. Rose said today.

Rose said Delano Jones was moved from the Lauderdale County jail following the death of Lewis Wade Kilgore, 49, yesterday.

Kilgore was shot last week. Rose said Jones told officers Kilgore had threatened to "skin my head" if an old bill wasn't paid.

Senate Refuses To Censure On Zwicker Charge

Special Session Ends Following 67-22 Vote

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Senate voted official condemnation of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's conduct on two counts today by a 67-22 vote, but refused to censure him for a "denunciation" of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker.

In a tense, hushed finale to weeks and months of blazing controversy, the Senate completed its sole major item of business at a four-week extraordinary session by declaring:

1. The Wisconsin Republican's failure to help a 1951-52 investigating subcommittee, and his "abuse" of the group's members, are "condemned" on the ground they obstructed "the constitutional processes of the Senate."

2. McCarthy's "Communist handmaiden" and other charges against the Watkins committee, which recommended censure for him, likewise are "hereby condemned."

Never Came To Vote

But another count—abuse of Zwicker when the general appeared before McCarthy's Investigations subcommittee last February—never even came to a vote. By a 64-23 margin, the Senate voted to rebuke McCarthy for his blasts at the Watkins committee instead.

Finally, after rebuking one of its own members for the fourth time in American history, the Senate adjourned sine die at 7:10 p.m., EST. That means, in this case, until Jan. 5.

McCarthy, his injured arm in a sling, came into the chamber when the final vote was in progress.

He paused at the center rear door, then walked slowly behind the last row of seats on the Republican side just as the man who started the censure move, 74-year-old Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), sang out a firm "Aye!"

Grinning, McCarthy laid a hand on Flanders' shoulder with a sort of let-bygones-be-bygones air. Flanders looked up, shook a forefinger at McCarthy and, his expression unsmiling, said something inaudible from the galleries.

McCarthy took his seat then, voted "present" rather than "aye" or "no" when his name was called, and was deep in a conversation with Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), who had voted against him, when the final tally was announced. McCarthy didn't even look up.

Some of his supporters put on a burst of hilarity at the end.

Laughing, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) asked if the word "censure" appeared anywhere in the resolution finally adopted at this "McCarthy censure session." Vice President Nixon, in the chair, replied that it did not.

"Then it is not a censure resolution?" inquired Bridges, while Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) doubled up with laughter and other McCarthy backers grinned broadly.

Nixon replied that the resolution relates to the conduct of McCarthy—and that senators can make their own interpretation of it.

There was another immediate followup:

Flanders, who launched the now successful rebuke-McCarthy drive with a floor speech last June 1, arose and apologized to the Senate and to McCarthy—who had left by that time—for some of his remarks.

Flanders didn't say exactly what he was apologizing for, but asked unanimous consent to have "a few paragraphs" stricken from the Senate's permanent files.

Picks Time For Apology

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho), McCarthy's unofficial floor manager, demanded of the elderly Vermonter: "Why did you not apologize before this later hour?"

Flanders replied he would pick his own time for apologies.

"Then I object," Welker shouted, and so Flanders' whole June 1 speech, which compared McCarthy with Hitler and referred to a "mystery" about McCarthy's personal relationship with two aides,

President Asks Patience During Red Turbulence

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower counseled patience for Americans today, saying the United States must stand steady in the face of Communist provocations "and refuse to be goaded" into impulsive acts which could lead to war.

Calling that "the hard way" to face such tactics as the imprisonment of 13 Americans by the Chinese Communists, Eisenhower said the easy course would be "to adopt a truculent, publicly bold, almost insulting attitude."

Specifically, the President told his news conference he believes a blockade of Red China, such as has been urged by Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, would be an act of war.

Eleven of the 13 imprisoned men are airmen and Eisenhower commented indignantly that these 11 "by the Communists' own propaganda and testimony made public, were in uniform."

"They were soldiers captured in the Korean War," he said. "Consequently they were to be treated as prisoners of war under the terms of the armistice."

The Chinese accused the 13 of spying, a charge the State and Defense Departments have already vigorously denied.

The President was reticent in the case of the two civilians whom the Red Chinese charged were espionage agents for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Asked about the status of these two, Eisenhower said it was cloudy, he thought, and he couldn't discuss it in detail.

He also:

1. Paid tribute to Pope Pius XII, desperately ill in Vatican City, for "his strong stand for peace, and for liberty and freedom in the world, and his stand against communism."

2. Said the now-ending Inter-American Economic Conference at Rio de Janeiro has achieved results which "will be very much to the good." He said it should make for easier cooperation by the American nations to the advantage of all.

3. Called the McCarthy censure proceedings a matter for the Senate to handle according to what senators feel is required for preservation of the Senate's dignity.

4. Endorsed the idea of a slight pay raise for the military services, but said it was more important to give service families good medical care, housing and community prestige.

5. Said he has found very little difference in his and Sen. Knowland's basic philosophies, and he acknowledged the right of anyone to differ with him on methods.

Pontiff Has Bad Collapse, Heart Is Weak

78-Year-Old Vatican Leader Unconscious For Several Moments

VATICAN CITY, Friday, Dec. 3 (AP)—Pope Pius XII has suffered a severe collapse, with a weakening of the gallant heart that has served him through 55 years of priesthood. Early today there was grave anxiety for his life.

Through the night, troubled Romans gathered in spacious St. Peter's Square and knelt on the cobblestones to pray for recovery of their Pope and bishop.

The Vatican's vicar general, Clement Cardinal Micara, urged the world's 425 million Roman Catholics to join in the prayers.

Constantly At Side

Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, physician to the 78-year-old pontiff, was constantly at his side. He had made emergency X-rays and called in a surgeon for consultation.

The Pope had been ill before in the nearly 16 years he had headed the church, but never so gravely.

This illness—starting as a recurrence of the gastritis and hiccuping that sapped the Pope's strength last winter—became serious last weekend. His collapse yesterday weakened his heart, and there also was an indication that his condition was aggravated by an ulcer.

He was extremely weak and had been unable to take any food by mouth for several days. His physician yesterday afternoon described the Pope as conscious and completely lucid. But apparently he was unconscious for a time after his collapse.

One Rome newspaper said he had asked for Extreme Unction, the sacrament administered to Catholics in danger of death. But the Vatican press office denied that Pius had asked for the last sacrament.

Situation Unchanged

In the hushed corridors of the vast Vatican palace, church dignitaries waited anxiously.

At midnight, Msgr. Angelo Dell 'Acqua, substitute secretary of state, had a word of cheer with the announcement, "The situation is unchanged. There is nothing new."

But highly placed sources made it clear the Pope's condition was indeed serious.

Cardinal Micara announced the Pope would be unable to attend the closing ceremony of the Marian year, to be held Dec. 8 in Rome's Basilica of St. Mary Major.

Rome's Mayor Salvatore Rebecchini interrupted a session of the City Council to express the wish for preservation of the Pope's life. The entire Council, including Communists, stood in hushed silence as the mayor spoke.

Ike Wishes Recovery

From Washington, President Eisenhower also expressed hope for Pius' speedy recovery.

The Pope lay pale and feeble on a three-quarter mahogany bed in his simple white-walled bedroom overlooking St. Peter's Square. His Swiss Guard in their colorful uniforms knelt in prayer in the Vatican corridors. Outside, a small group gathered in the square gazed intently at his bedroom windows.

Only the Pope's physicians were permitted to enter the chamber, where the pontiff passed his perilous hours. It is on the top floor of the yellowish brick palace from which he has ruled the church for 15 years.

Band Leader Fred Waring, Pianist Wed In Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 2 (AP) — Fred Waring, whose fame as a band leader dates back to the Roaring Twenties, took his "last chance for happiness" today and married his pianist, Virginia Morley.

The famous entertainers were married in a small, private ceremony in fashionable North Methodist Church just a day after Waring's second wife won a divorce in Las Vegas, Nev.

When they bought their marriage license shortly after noon Waring gave his age as 54, Miss Morley's as 39.

Miss Morley got a divorce in September from her first husband, Livingston Gearhart, who was her partner in a piano team in the Waring troupe. Gearhart is a music arranger for Waring.

The Waring troupe arrived today from Champaign, Ill., to play two programs in the Murat Theater. Waring said there's another appearance coming up in Cincinnati tomorrow, and honeymoon plans will have to wait till the road tour is finished.

"This is my last chance for happiness," the gray-haired band leader told newsmen at the Marion County courthouse.

He and his second wife, Evalyn Nair Waring, had been separated six years. The Las Vegas decree gave her an undisclosed financial settlement and custody of their three children—Dixie Lyn, 20; Frederick Monroe, 18, and William Griffith, 16.

For the first time in 600 years Italians are not a majority in the College of Cardinals, but it is generally thought here another Italian most likely would be chosen.

Italians sometimes mentioned as possibilities for the papacy have included Msgr. Giovanni Battista Montini, Archbishop-designate of Milan; Marcello Mimmi, archbishop of Naples; Giacomo Lercaro, Archbishop of Bologna; Ernesto Ruffini, Archbishop of Palermo; Giuseppe Siri, Archbishop of Genoa; and Msgr. Domenico Tardini, a Pro-secretary of State at the Vatican.

Gregory Peter Cardinal Agagianian, Patriarch of Armenia, Frenchborn Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, and the Australian Archbisop Norman Thomas Gilroy have been mentioned as possible choices from abroad.

Iowa Girl Gets $16,650 For Steer

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—An Iowa farm girl added $16,650 today to her prize awards and gifts when her grand champion steer, "Shorty," was auctioned off for the second highest price in the history of the International Live Stock Exposition.

Janice Hullinger, 16, Manly, Iowa, received $15 a pound for her Aberdeen-Angus which weighed in at 1,110 pounds. The animal was judged grand champion Tuesday.

The girl previously had received $820 in cash awards in the junior and open class competitions at the show. She said she would use the money to install inside plumbing in her parents' farm home.

Crane Co. of Chicago then offered to donate both the plumbing and labor, which a company official today estimated would total about $5,000 for the 13-room home.

Fairbanks Morse & Co. also of Chicago, offered a water system to bring running water to the house. This cost was estimated at approximately $1,000.

In addition some $500 in other gifts were reaching Miss Hullinger.

Soviet, Seven European Nations Plan Armed Pact

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Soviet Union and seven Eastern European Communist states tonight signed a pledge to pool their armed forces and put them under a joint command if the Western Powers ratify the Paris agreements to rearm West Germany.

Premier Georgi Malenkov and top members of the Soviet government attended the ceremony in the great Kremlin Palace. The signing wound up a four-day security conference called by the Russians to counter the West's defensive alliance, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, with an Eastern version of NATO.

Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov signed for the Soviet Union. The other nations committed by the signatures of their chief delegates are East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Poland, Hungary, Romania, Bulgaria and Albania.

Red China was represented at the conference by an observer, Chang Wen-tien, its ambassador in Moscow, who declared his government threw its full support behind the eight-nation declaration.

A communique said the participants agreed to meet again, in case the Paris accords are ratified by Western parliaments, to take action putting the Communists' mutual security pact into effect.

Western leaders have set March 1 as the target date for ratification. When this is done 500,000 West German troops will be brought under the North Atlantic banner.

The Western nations snubbed invitations to attend the Moscow security conference. The United States, Britain, France and others said ratification must precede meetings with Communist leaders on European problems.

The fact that Premier Otto Grotewohl of East Germany signed the declaration clearly indicates that Red leaders here intend that his government should have armed forces to contribute to the pool.

Man Survives 16-Story Drop

He was aboard a construction elevator that was released for a "free" drop from the 21st floor of the Martin Brown Building being built in downtown Louisville.

The elevator operator learned at the last minute Garth was aboard and started braking the car at the 5th floor level. Usually he lets it drop free to the 3rd floor.

Garth, 51, was sprawled in a wheelbarrow during the drop. He suffered only minor cuts and bruises.

Negro Is Removed To Another Jail

FLORENCE, Ala., Dec. 2 (AP)—A 28-year-old Negro man charged murdering a white grocer was removed to an undisclosed jail because of threats of mob violence, Sheriff James J. Rose said today.

Rose said Delano Jones was moved from the Lauderdale County jail following the death of Lewis Wade Kilgore, 49, yesterday.

Kilgore was shot last week. Rose said Jones told officers Kilgore had threatened to "skin my head" if an old bill wasn't paid.

Special Session Ends Following 67-22 Vote

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Senate voted official condemnation of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's conduct on two counts today by a 67-22 vote, but refused to censure him for a "denunciation" of Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwicker.

In a tense, hushed finale to weeks and months of blazing controversy, the Senate completed its sole major item of business at a four-week extraordinary session by declaring:

1. The Wisconsin Republican's failure to help a 1951-52 investigating subcommittee, and his "abuse" of the group's members, are "condemned" on the ground they obstructed "the constitutional processes of the Senate."

2. McCarthy's "Communist handmaiden" and other charges against the Watkins committee, which recommended censure for him, likewise are "hereby condemned."

Never Came To Vote

But another count—abuse of Zwicker when the general appeared before McCarthy's Investigations subcommittee last February—never even came to a vote. By a 64-23 margin, the Senate voted to rebuke McCarthy for his blasts at the Watkins committee instead.

Finally, after rebuking one of its own members for the fourth time in American history, the Senate adjourned sine die at 7:10 p.m., EST. That means, in this case, until Jan. 5.

McCarthy, his injured arm in a sling, came into the chamber when the final vote was in progress.

He paused at the center rear door, then walked slowly behind the last row of seats on the Republican side just as the man who started the censure move, 74-year-old Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), sang out a firm "Aye!"

Grinning, McCarthy laid a hand on Flanders' shoulder with a sort of let-bygones-be-bygones air. Flanders looked up, shook a forefinger at McCarthy and, his expression unsmiling, said something inaudible from the galleries.

McCarthy took his seat then, voted "present" rather than "aye" or "no" when his name was called, and was deep in a conversation with Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich), who had voted against him, when the final tally was announced. McCarthy didn't even look up.

Some of his supporters put on a burst of hilarity at the end.

Laughing, Sen. Bridges (R-NH) asked if the word "censure" appeared anywhere in the resolution finally adopted at this "McCarthy censure session." Vice President Nixon, in the chair, replied that it did not.

"Then it is not a censure resolution?" inquired Bridges, while Sen. Jenner (R-Ind) doubled up with laughter and other McCarthy backers grinned broadly.

Nixon replied that the resolution relates to the conduct of McCarthy—and that senators can make their own interpretation of it.

There was another immediate followup:

Flanders, who launched the now successful rebuke-McCarthy drive with a floor speech last June 1, arose and apologized to the Senate and to McCarthy—who had left by that time—for some of his remarks.

Flanders didn't say exactly what he was apologizing for, but asked unanimous consent to have "a few paragraphs" stricken from the Senate's permanent files.

Picks Time For Apology

Sen. Welker (R-Idaho), McCarthy's unofficial floor manager, demanded of the elderly Vermonter: "Why did you not apologize before this later hour?"

Flanders replied he would pick his own time for apologies.

"Then I object," Welker shouted, and so Flanders' whole June 1 speech, which compared McCarthy with Hitler and referred to a "mystery" about McCarthy's personal relationship with two aides,

President Asks Patience During Red Turbulence

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP) — President Eisenhower counseled patience for Americans today, saying the United States must stand steady in the face of Communist provocations "and refuse to be goaded" into impulsive acts which could lead to war.

Calling that "the hard way" to face such tactics as the imprisonment of 13 Americans by the Chinese Communists, Eisenhower said the easy course would be "to adopt a truculent, publicly bold, almost insulting attitude."

Specifically, the President told his news conference he believes a blockade of Red China, such as has been urged by Sen. Knowland of California, the Senate Republican leader, would be an act of war.

Eleven of the 13 imprisoned men are airmen and Eisenhower commented indignantly that these 11 "by the Communists' own propaganda and testimony made public, were in uniform."

"They were soldiers captured in the Korean War," he said. "Consequently they were to be treated as prisoners of war under the terms of the armistice."

The Chinese accused the 13 of spying, a charge the State and Defense Departments have already vigorously denied.

The President was reticent in the case of the two civilians whom the Red Chinese charged were espionage agents for the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. Asked about the status of these two, Eisenhower said it was cloudy, he thought, and he couldn't discuss it in detail.

He also:

1. Paid tribute to Pope Pius XII, desperately ill in Vatican City, for "his strong stand for peace, and for liberty and freedom in the world, and his stand against communism."

2. Said the now-ending Inter-American Economic Conference at Rio de Janeiro has achieved results which "will be very much to the good." He said it should make for easier cooperation by the American nations to the advantage of all.

3. Called the McCarthy censure proceedings a matter for the Senate to handle according to what senators feel is required for preservation of the Senate's dignity.

4. Endorsed the idea of a slight pay raise for the military services, but said it was more important to give service families good medical care, housing and community prestige.

5. Said he has found very little difference in his and Sen. Knowland's basic philosophies, and he acknowledged the right of anyone to differ with him on methods.

Pontiff Has Bad Collapse, Heart Is Weak

78-Year-Old Vatican Leader Unconscious For Several Moments

VATICAN CITY, Friday, Dec. 3 (AP)—Pope Pius XII has suffered a severe collapse, with a weakening of the gallant heart that has served him through 55 years of priesthood. Early today there was grave anxiety for his life.

Through the night, troubled Romans gathered in spacious St. Peter's Square and knelt on the cobblestones to pray for recovery of their Pope and bishop.

The Vatican's vicar general, Clement Cardinal Micara, urged the world's 425 million Roman Catholics to join in the prayers.

Constantly At Side

Dr. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, physician to the 78-year-old pontiff, was constantly at his side. He had made emergency X-rays and called in a surgeon for consultation.

The Pope had been ill before in the nearly 16 years he had headed the church, but never so gravely.

This illness—starting as a recurrence of the gastritis and hiccuping that sapped the Pope's strength last winter—became serious last weekend. His collapse yesterday weakened his heart, and there also was an indication that his condition was aggravated by an ulcer.

He was extremely weak and had been unable to take any food by mouth for several days. His physician yesterday afternoon described the Pope as conscious and completely lucid. But apparently he was unconscious for a time after his collapse.

One Rome newspaper said he had asked for Extreme Unction, the sacrament administered to Catholics in danger of death. But the Vatican press office denied that Pius had asked for the last sacrament.

Situation Unchanged

In the hushed corridors of the vast Vatican palace, church dignitaries waited anxiously.

At midnight, Msgr. Angelo Dell 'Acqua, substitute secretary of state, had a word of cheer with the announcement, "The situation is unchanged. There is nothing new."

But highly placed sources made it clear the Pope's condition was indeed serious.

Cardinal Micara announced the Pope would be unable to attend the closing ceremony of the Marian year, to be held Dec. 8 in Rome's Basilica of St. Mary Major.

Rome's Mayor Salvatore Rebecchini interrupted a session of the City Council to express the wish for preservation of the Pope's life. The entire Council, including Communists, stood in hushed silence as the mayor spoke.

Ike Wishes Recovery

From Washington, President Eisenhower also expressed hope for Pius' speedy recovery.

The Pope lay pale and feeble on a three-quarter mahogany bed in his simple white-walled bedroom overlooking St. Peter's Square. His Swiss Guard in their colorful uniforms knelt in prayer in the Vatican corridors. Outside, a small group gathered in the square gazed intently at his bedroom windows.

Only the Pope's physicians were permitted to enter the chamber, where the pontiff passed his perilous hours. It is on the top floor of the yellowish brick palace from which he has ruled the church for 15 years.

Band Leader Fred Waring, Pianist Wed In Indianapolis

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 2 (AP) — Fred Waring, whose fame as a band leader dates back to the Roaring Twenties, took his "last chance for happiness" today and married his pianist, Virginia Morley.

The famous entertainers were married in a small, private ceremony in fashionable North Methodist Church just a day after Waring's second wife won a divorce in Las Vegas, Nev.

When they bought their marriage license shortly after noon Waring gave his age as 54, Miss Morley's as 39.

Miss Morley got a divorce in September from her first husband, Livingston Gearhart, who was her partner in a piano team in the Waring troupe. Gearhart is a music arranger for Waring.

The Waring troupe arrived today from Champaign, Ill., to play two programs in the Murat Theater. Waring said there's another appearance coming up in Cincinnati tomorrow, and honeymoon plans will have to wait till the road tour is finished.

"This is my last chance for happiness," the gray-haired band leader told newsmen at the Marion County courthouse.

He and his second wife, Evalyn Nair Waring, had been separated six years. The Las Vegas decree gave her an undisclosed financial settlement and custody of their three children—Dixie Lyn, 20; Frederick Monroe, 18, and William Griffith, 16.

Five Saved, Two Die In Plane Crash

Helicopter Hoists Stewardess, Crew From Desolate Area

BERLIN, N.H., Dec. 2 (AP) — A brave young stewardess and four men were hoisted by helicopter from a frozen, desolate mountainside today—45 hours after an airliner crashed killing two of the plane's personnel.

The Northeast Airlines DC3 was discovered this morning by searchers as it nestled in a glistening forest of ice-coated evergreen trees. The search had gone on during all the daylight hours since the plane was reported overdue Tuesday noon on a flight from Boston to Berlin.

The fatalities were the first involving employes in any scheduled operation of the airline which never has suffered a passenger fatality.

During World War II, a spokesman said, Northeast had "some" casualties suffered in ferrying operations. The line also reported that "about 1933 an employe was killed in a ferrying assignment."

Dead were the co-pilot, George McCormick, 37, of West Hurley, N.Y., and John McNulty, 39, of Boston, a flight superintendent. They were crushed against the windshield as the big ship nosed into the side of Mt. Success, 7 miles due east of Berlin and 1 mile from the Maine border.

The crash occurred at an altitude of 3,362 feet near the Appalachian Trail. The plane's left engine burst into flames and it took the five survivors 3½ hours to extinguish the blaze with snow in near zero weather.

Then began the struggle against cold and hunger for Capt. W. Peter Carey, 37, the pilot, from Swampscott, Mass.; the stewardess, Miss Mary McEttrick, 23, of Boston, and three passengers, James W. Harvey, 52, of Watertown, Mass.; William Miller of Germantown, Pa. and Daniel Hall of Montclair, N.J.

None suffered serious injury except Carey.

His face was smashed, but he tried to make the others comfortable. Miss McEttrick used the first aid kit material to bind the injured. Aspirin was the only medication.

They went to bed Tuesday afternoon before sundown, huddling two and three in a seat to avoid frostbite. Treetops that were sliced off by the plane's wings cut into the fuselage leaving gaping holes through which the howling mountain wind echoed hour after hour.

Carey, his face swatched in bandages, gave these first-hand details from his cot in St. Louis Hospital:

The plane was coming in for a landing at the Berlin airport, in nearby Milan, on a "normal instrument let down" through overcast skies. The speed was about 120 miles an hour. They were getting some turbulence when the plane suddenly hit the mountainside.

McCarthy's supporters held the floor throughout most of this last bitter day of the controversy—and they made the most of the Senate's refusal to go along with the Watkins committee's recommendation that the senator be censured for the tongue-lashing he gave Gen. Zwicker.

Early in the day it became evident there was going to be a collapse of the move to censure McCarthy for "abuse" of Zwicker when the general testified before McCarthy's committee on the Irving Peress case.

Didn't Like Language

Several influential senators—among them Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass), chairman of the Armed Services Committee-made it plain they didn't necessarily endorse McCarthy's language, but at the same time took a severe view of the Army's attitude too.

Peress is the dentist who was promoted from captain to major and then honorably discharged despite his refusal to tell McCarthy whether he was or had been a Communist. McCarthy wanted Peress kept in the Army and court-martialed.

Zwicker, then commanding the Camp Kilmer, N.J., separation center was the officer who approved Peress' discharge—on orders from above, he said. And, at a later hearing, he said he personally was strongly opposed to releasing Peress.

In the McCarthy hearing, however, Zwicker refused to comment on the actions of his superiors. In the end McCarthy told him no officer with Zwicker's views was fit to wear the uniform of an American general. Zwicker has a number of decorations for combat valor in World War II.

With expressions of reluctance Sen. Watkins, chairman of the select committee which recommended censure of McCarthy, agreed today to having the Zwicker count replaced by an amendment submitted by his fellow Utah Republican, Sen. Bennett.

Bennett's amendment was the one condeming McCarthy's action in calling the censure session a "lynch party," Watkins stupid and cowardly, and the Watkins committee "the unwitting handmaiden" and its members "attorneys in fact" for the Communist party.

Security Pact Between U. S., China Is Signed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The United States and Nationalist China today signed a mutual security treaty in which the United States pledged that it would consider an attack on Formosa "dangerous to its own peace and safety."

The pact, which will last indefinitely, was signed by Secretary of State Dulles for the United States and by Foreign Minister George Yeh of the Republic of China. This is the formal name of Chiang Kai-shek's regime.

The key position in the text, which the State Department released after it was signed, says:

"Each party recognizes that an armed attack in the West Pacific area directed against the territories of either of the parties would be dangerous to its own peace and safety and declares it would act to meet the common danger in accordance with its constitutional processes."

Dulles said yesterday that in the case of extreme urgency he thought the President would have the power to order U. S. forces into action if Red China attacks Formosa after the treaty becomes effective, but if time permitted the President would go to Congress.

The treaty made clear that the reference to territories covered Formosa and the nearby Pescadore Islands and U. S.-ruled islands in the Western Pacific. The Republic of China granted and the United States accepted formally the right to base land, air and sea forces in or about Formosa and the Pescadores.

One of the key provisions pledges that the two governments "will consult together from time to time" on defense problems. Dulles said yesterday he expected this would take care of the problem of Nationalist China's operations against the mainland.

The key position in the text, which the State Department released after it was signed, says:

"Each party recognizes that an armed attack in the West Pacific area directed against the territories of either of the parties would be dangerous to its own peace and safety and declares it would act to meet the common danger in accordance with its constitutional processes."

Dulles said yesterday that in the case of extreme urgency he thought the President would have the power to order U. S. forces into action if Red China attacks Formosa after the treaty becomes effective, but if time permitted the President would go to Congress.

The treaty made clear that the reference to territories covered Formosa and the nearby Pescadore Islands and U. S.-ruled islands in the Western Pacific. The Republic of China granted and the United States accepted formally the right to base land, air and sea forces in or about Formosa and the Pescadores.

One of the key provisions pledges that the two governments "will consult together from time to time" on defense problems. Dulles said yesterday he expected this would take care of the problem of Nationalist China's operations against the mainland.

Women Drivers Cause Unusual Mishaps

By SAUL PETT

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP) — Automobiles may be here to stay but can you say the same for people?

In Long Beach, Calif., a bee buzzed into the car driven by Mrs. Florence Lassiter. She picked up a book and attacked. The book missed the bee and flew out of Mrs. Lassiter's hand. As she reached down to pick it up, her car ran into a second car which ran into a third car. Five people, in all, were injured. All three cars were badly damaged. The bee escaped unharmed.

In Passaic, N. J., a woman driver was about to make a turn when she leaned over to kiss a male friend. The car jumped a curb, touching off a fire box which brought two engine companies, one truck company and one emergency truck. Then it ran into a store, which touched off a burglar alarm system. The woman was given a traffic ticket. The charge? Driving the wrong way on a one-way street, naturally.

In New Haven, Conn., Mrs. Ernest L. Ewell backed her car out of a driveway and into an ornamental marble slab in front of a fur shop. She thought she'd never hear the end of it from her husband. But this week, he backed his car out of the same driveway into the plate glass window of the same store. Result: Peace.

Robert Cantrell drove into Lafayette, Ind., this week and quickly returned 130 miles to Deerfield, Ill., to pick up his wife. He told her: "I thought you were asleep in the back seat."

Department of utter skepticism: In Amarillo, Tex., drugstore owner H. G. Maxfield put silver dollars on sale for 95 cents each "to see what would happen."

What happened was that more than 1,000 people stopped to look at the window display but only one in nine hours bought.

In Indianapolis, a man took a piano from his rumpus room and donated it to the Fairview Presbyterian Church. The church had quite a redecorating problem. The piano was liberally adorned with nude women.

Expert Urges Action To Curb Abuse Of Press

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Dec. 2 (AP)—A U. N. expert on freedom of information charged here that newspapers and editors are still being harrassed throughout the world and urged immediate bold action here to curb what he called abuses of the press by some governments.

Salvador P. Lopez, Philippines delegate and until early this year a one-man inquiry board for the U. N. on the question of censorship, proposed to the U. N. Economic and Security Council that the General Assembly quickly create a three-member panel or appoint another individual to study the situation.

The expert or board would be instructed to investigate "the effect of the media of information on relations between peoples, with particular attention to war tensions."

Ade Johnson, U. S. delegate, said "within certain political areas of our twentieth century world, we find governmental systems which not only hamper and restrict the flow of information across their borders, but maintain a strangling control over everything that their citizens may read in their newspapers and magazines . . . "

Such a situation, he added, "can contribute nothing to peace," but would create misunderstandings that "conceivably could lead to war."

He said there was no basic right to which Americans are more alert than the freedom to speak and be heard. He cited some 20,000 newspapers and periodicals published in the United States regularly. The United States was protected from monopoly of news sources because the three major wire services and other communication media are in direct competition with each other, he said.

To really know what information monopoly is, Johnson said, one should look at the Soviet Union, "where there are no private news services at all; where a government exercises the most rigid controls over all information media; where a government exercises the most rigid controls over all information media; where that government specifies what a newspaper or magazine may say or not say . . . . "

G. F. Saksin, Soviet delegate, answered that both Lopez and Johnson based their statements on reports of The Associated Press about the censorship situation.

(The Associated Press makes a semi-annual survey of censorship over the world).

"Perhaps in the United States, The Associated Press is a high standard," he said, but, he added, the same does not apply in the 59 other countries of the U. N.

Neither men had been in the Soviet Union, Saksin said. They had merely copied the report on censorship from The Associated Press and accepted it as truth, he asserted.

Baptist Church Men To Organize

FROSTBURG — The men of Welsh Memorial Baptist Church will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the church to form a Brotherhood. Jack Beck, of Second Baptist Church, Cumberland, will speak and help organize the group.

Following the election of officers and program a social hour will be held.

One Jumbo Shot May Immunize

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP) — An Army researcher announced here the successful development of a combination injection against both diptheria and lockjaw for adults. He said it might eventually be possible to put almost all available protective injections against other diseases into "one jumbo shot."

"But," declared Dr. Geoffrey Edsall, "even if this should eventually prove possible, it is by no means just around the corner."

A "jumbo shot" would be a blessing to overseas travelers. Americans going to some countries, particularly military personnel, usually take multiple injections against various diseases in rapid succession.

Dr. Edsall, chief immunologist of the Army Medical Service Graduate School, told the Assn. of Military Surgeons that this "jumbo shot" possibility is suggested by findings in connection with development of the diptheria-lockjaw combination. The latter already has been standardized for issuance to all troops.

He said that a still newer combination — incorporating typhoid vaccine with diphteria and lockjaw toxoids — is now under study. He said Army researchers also planned to explore the possibilities of further combinations, such as cholera, typhus and plague.

Modern Weapons Bring City Halls Close Together

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today a new and direct relationship has sprung up between the White House and city halls because the American city is "presumably the special or favored target of some of the modern weapons of war."

These modern weapons, the President added, are "capable of such destruction as to appall the imagination."

Eisenhower spoke informally at the opening of a two-day conference of mayors and city managers from throughout the country.

The President said the old relationship between federal and state governments is still important, but he declared that in this atomic warfare age the city is "after all moving to the front line much faster than is a rural area which would not be a favored target for such weapons."

Therefore, he said, there is much need for federal, state and city governments to work together for security, as well as other, reasons.

From Gen. Benjamin W. Chidlaw, Continental Air Defense commander, the mayors heard that:

1. If Russia strikes, "we stand the most likely chance of being hit all-out in a mighty aerial blow as their first act of aggression."

"Those who know the masters of the Kremlin for the realists they are," he said, "know they would never make the mistake now of engaging our Allies first and leaving us alone to come in when ready."

2. Instead of the four or five year war of the past, the next global conflict could outdistance in four or five days the devastation and death of "all the wars we have fought in our national life, multiplied many times over."

Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, restated the warning that this country will not limit itself in its choice of weapons if attacked.

MAY HEAD CHURCHES—Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, Pa., scholarly Presbyterian, is expected to be named president of the National Council of Churches in Boston.

Honolulu Is Safe From Enemy Stab

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Neal S. Blaisdell, mayor-elect of Honolulu, was reported today to have asked Adm. Arthur W. Radford at a closed meeting of government leaders and mayors what protection is available against an enemy submarine attack, with guided missiles, on Hawaii.

The official who related the incident said the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff replied with a smile:

Celeste Holm To Drop Show

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Celeste Holm is dropping her Sunday night CBS television show "Honestly, Celeste" after the coming Sunday night performance at her own request, the network reported today.

Senate Confirms Several Nominees

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Senate tonight confirmed the following nominations:

Walter M. Bastian as a judge on the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia.

Senatorial Tempers Flare In Special Session

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—No doubt about it, a session like this is a strain on senatorial tempers. Today it reached the point where senators were snapping at each other on small, as well as large, issues.

The main business, of course, was what it has been all along, whether to censure Sen. Joe McCarthy. But there also was minor squabbling over such items as (a) what time is it? and (b) when do we eat?

Sen. Arthur Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of the select committee that brought in the report that McCarthy should be censured, got up to make an insert in the appendix of the Congressional Record.

Instantly Sen. William E. Jenner (R-Ind) was on the alert. "Can't hear,' he cried. Watkins turned and read to him directly, all about how much interest has been shown in a planned trip to the Antarctic.

A moment later, on the call for a vote on a resolution, it was Watkin's turn to be alert. "Mr. President, Mr. President," he called out. "What is that resolution?"

He obviously was embarrassed to learn that far from being controversial, it was an expression of regret over the death last night of Rep. Dwight Rogers (D-Fla).

The question of time came up during the first major speech of the day, by Jenner.

Jenner, a gymnastic orator who goes in for sweeping gestures, was in full swing when Sen. Thomas Kuchel (R-Calif), who was presiding, called "Time.'

Jenner was aghast. "I was looking at the clock," he said, "and I started talking at eight minutes after."

Kuchel whispered with the parliamentarian, who was the timekeeper, and then said, "the chair reiterates that the senator's time is up."

Parliamentary inquiry: "What clock is the parliamentarian using?"

"The clock facing the podium," Kuchel said.

Well, Jenner was given time to go on anyway, and again he was at an oratorical peak when interrupted, this time by Vice President Nixon who had taken over the gavel.

"An error was made in compiling the time," Nixon told Jenner. "The senator has ten minutes remaining."

Soon a quorum call was asked for, and the clerk drearily called the roll a couple of times before he finally announced that a quorum — 49 — had answered to their names.

Whereupon Sen. William F. Knowland of California, said this would be a good time to knock off for lunch.

Immediately Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH) and Sen. George Malone (R-Nev) objected. Bridges said here everyone was on hand ready to listen and he had a speech to make. Malone said he also had a speech to make and, anyway, in this place you never know when you are going to eat. Why aren't we told these things?

So Knowland withdrew his lunch request, and Bridges began to talk.

Twice during his speech he made the same error. "The junior senator from McCarthy," Bridges called him.

Some Western Observers Think Churchill May Have Talked Himself Out Of Big Four Confab

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP) — Some Western observers here have raised the question whether British Prime Minister Churchill has talked himself right out of the kind of Big Four conference he has been advocating for a year or more.

The Prime Minister in a speech last week disclosed that in 1945 he had ordered surrendered German arms to be stacked ready for reissue to captured German soldiers in case they were needed against Russian armies advancing across Western Europe.

Some observers in Moscow are wondering if any Soviet leader now would sit down with Churchill who has been accused by Pravda, the Communist party newspaper, of committing "treachery" against the Red Army, Britain's World War II ally, and of practicing longtime "hypocrisy" against the Soviet Union.

These questions arose Sunday as the Moscow radio's home service repeated at length Pravda's bitter three-column article which likened Churchill to Rudolph Hess, Hitler's wartime deputy. Pravda said Hess, who parachuted into a Scottish moor in the midst of the war, was on a mission of allying the Germans and British against the Russians.

Pravda printed alongside its article Soviet documents recalling that during the 1944 "Battle of the Bulge" in the west, Churchill had appealed to Stalin for a massive Red army offensive and said Stalin obliged, thus diverting German strength to the eastern front.

Several other points in Pravda's charges of treachery were considered significant here.

2. Pravda declared "the Soviet people cannot be indifferent" to what it called the Prime Minister's duplicity.

2. The newspaper quoted from a 1943 speech by Foreign Minister Sir Anthony Eden which hailed the Red army as an ally which, with Western forces, would crush "the terrible danger for the whole of Western civilization." Did this mean Eden, Churchill's heir apparent to the Prime Minister's place, would be acceptable to Moscow as the British representative in a Big Four parley "at the summit" such as Churchill has advocated?

3. Will Soviet anger remain concentrated only against Churchill? The Pravda article contained no jabs at Americans, though in the past year, Moscow has appeared to be much warmer toward Britain than the United States, especially in trade and cultural matters.

Mercury is the swiftest moving of all the planets.

Jr. Extension Club Elects Homer Staggs, Plans Party

Two main topics of the Junior Extension 4-H Club, Wednesday evening were the election of officers for next year and formulating plans for a Christmas party. The dinner-meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Johnson, Winchester Road.

Homer Staggs was elected president; Miss Rachel Portmess, vice president; Miss Bonnie Clem, secretary; Mrs. Edna Johnson, treasurer and Herbert Shipe, sergeant at arms.

Plans were laid for the Christmas blue jean party to be held December 20 at the LaVale fire hall, from 8 until 12 o'clock. The Garrett county older 4-H members are invited to be guests. There will be square and round dancing with music by the Mountaineers from Garrett county.

It was announced that the Girls Trail and the Boys Federation paid for the 4-H signs erected at the county line on Routes 220 and 40.

Discussing the possibility of changing the name of the organization to Older Youth Group, it was decided to keep the Junior Extension 4-H Club name.

In order to interest the older 4-H club members in the Junior Extension, it was decided to invite those 14 or over to club meetings. When they are 16 they will be eligible to join. They are invited to the next meeting, which will be January 5 at the court house, and will be an organization meeting.

Two boys from Garrett county were guests and 12 members attended the meeting.

Scholarship Is Discussed, Party Held

The scholarship fund was discussed by members of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women at a brief business session preceding the Christmas party held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, Schley Street.

Mrs. Aden Everstine presided at the meeting, when a policy for the future of the scholarship fund was outlined. The discussion is to be continued at the next general meeting, which will be held in February unless a special meeting is called in January.

A total of 118 members was announced by Mrs. Earl Nonnenmann. Six new members were introduced.

The Creative Writing group was in charge of the entertainment. It was an audience particiption hour. It included games, charades, a limerick contest, won by Mrs. Harold Reese, and a Christmas card contest, won by Mrs. John A. Cupler II.

Mrs. Howard L. Tolson, Mrs. David Sigel and Miss Adele Malcolm presided at the punch bowl. The decorations by the Garden Group featured dried flowers, which the group has been studying.

The program was under the chairmanship of Mrs. Willim C. Van Newkirk; refreshments, Miss Ruth McColley, and decorations, Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger.

There were 68 members present.

1954 Holiday Decorations

NEW GIFT WRAPS—There are hundreds of ways to make a package gay and individual. One is the "silhouette" wrap. This requires two pieces of contrasting wrapping paper. One is taped smoothly around the box. On the other an outline of the article inside the package is sketched, a stocking, slipper or bracelet, this is then cut out. When the second piece of paper is applied to the package, the first shows through in the silhouette shape of the cut-out. Indicating the contents may also be done by pasting something in the same line on the outside of the package. If you do not trust your own skill or imagination, you can buy readymade gift package trimmings this year. These are usually three-dimensional, come in sizes for big or little packages, and often are embellished with crushed sequins for extra glitter. You just paste them on. They include large glittering snowflakes, Santas, pert reindeer, Christmas trees, snowmen and other seasonal symbols.

W.Md.-Memorial Alumnae Makes $50 Christmas Gift

The usual $50 Christmas gift was made by the Western Maryland-Memorial Hospital Alumnae at its Christmas party, Wednesday evening. The donation was given to the American Legion for a gift for soldiers.

Jingle gifts were exchanged and the holiday theme was carried out in the Christmas decorations with candles, miniature trees and a Christmas table cloth and appointments.

Concluding the evening cards were played. There were 36 members present.

The next meeting will be January 5.

1942 Class Meets Dec. 11

LaSalle Class of 1942 is holding a reunion in the form of a stag dinner followed by an "old time session."

It is to be held December 11 at 6:30 o'clock in Cas Taylor's rathskeller.

Among the members who will be here from Washington are Philip Minke, Robert Brown, Edward Stapleton, Philip Greenya, Robert Seefeld and William McDermott.

The committee of arrangements consists of Donald Palmer and Francis Mullen.

Class Makes Dolls

Raggedy Ann dolls were made by members of the Scribner Memorial Bible Class of Centre Street Church, at the meeting held recently at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Shallenberger, McMullen Highway. They will be given to the nursery class of the church.

Galen Metzger presided and plans were made for the December meeting to be in the form of a Christmas dinner. Ralph Hoelzer read the Scripture.

Young Business Women Plan Christmas Party, Project

A Christmas party and Christmas project were discussed by members of the Young Business Women's Club at the meeting Wednesday evening at the Central YMCA.

The Christmas party is to be held December 15 at 8 o'clock. It will be at the home of Mrs. Beatrice Haywood, Bowling Green. It is to be in the form of a jingle party, at which secret sisters will be revealed. Mrs. Haywood and Miss Naomi Parks are co-chairmen of Decorations and Refreshments.

Plans also were formulated to make up Christmas baskets for needy families.

Members attending were Mrs. Barbara Merritt, Mrs. Dorothy Shroyer, Mrs. Mary Frye, Mrs. Mary Lynn Null, Miss Joan Nichols, Miss Ellen Newnam, Mrs. Clara June Daugherty, Mrs. Joan Hymes and Mrs. Haywood.

The next business session is to be held January 5 at 7:45 at the Y.

Soroptimists Friendship Dinner Held

The Soroptimist Club of Cumberland held a "Friendship" dinner Wednesday evening at the Ali Ghan Country Club, to which guests were invited.

In order to acquaint the guests with the Soroptimist program, three members presented a skit on Soroptimism followed by a picture of the service club activities. Participating in the skit were Mrs. Dorothy Klavuhn, Miss May Tomilson and Mrs. Bessie Hanks.

Vocal solos were presented by Miss Carole Blackburn, with Mrs. Susan Mostoller at the piano. Greetings were extended by Mrs. Fay Stillwagon, president, and the invocation given by Mrs. Blanch Ridgeway.

The table was centered with yellow chrysanthemums, tied with blue ribbons, carrying out the club colors of blue and gold. A large replica emblem also was used. There were 24 members present.

The next meeting will be held in January.

Proficiency Badges Awarded At Dinner

The annual mother-daughter meeting of Guards and Sunbeams of the Salvation Army Citadel was here last night.

The meeting opened with a covered-dish dinner on the third floor of the Citadel, with over 40 members of the clubs and their mothers present.

Mrs. Daniel Biggs presented proficiency badges to the girls, and an educational film was shown at the close of the meeting.

There are 14 Sunbeams and 24 Girl Guards at the Citadel.

Appointments Made

Mrs. William Mather and Mrs. Donald Kinsey were appointed chairmen of Club Interests and Ways and Means, respectively; and Mrs. Nickolas Yost, historian, at the meeting of the LaVale Century Club Monday evening. Mrs. Lloyd Buchanan was hostess and Mrs. Richard Johnson presided.

Miss Ella Hodgson, First District Library chairman, reported on the Maryland Library Association meeting in Frostburg, which she, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. William Douglas attended. Mrs. Richard Heacox reported on Book Week activities.

Concluding the meeting a film on homes in Natchez, Miss., was shown. Other hostesses were Mrs. Joseph Coulehan, Mrs. Louis Shinnamon and Mrs. John Waugh.

Supper Partner

Stuffing left from the big dinner comes to the supper table with more than a bit of glamour. Over slices of stuffing fried to a golden brown, arrange piping not asparagus spears. Top all with a rich golden cheese sauce.

Jr. Extension Club Elects Homer Staggs, Plans Party

Two main topics of the Junior Extension 4-H Club, Wednesday evening were the election of officers for next year and formulating plans for a Christmas party. The dinner-meeting was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Royce Johnson, Winchester Road.

Homer Staggs was elected president; Miss Rachel Portmess, vice president; Miss Bonnie Clem, secretary; Mrs. Edna Johnson, treasurer and Herbert Shipe, sergeant at arms.

Plans were laid for the Christmas blue jean party to be held December 20 at the LaVale fire hall, from 8 until 12 o'clock. The Garrett county older 4-H members are invited to be guests. There will be square and round dancing with music by the Mountaineers from Garrett county.

It was announced that the Girls Trail and the Boys Federation paid for the 4-H signs erected at the county line on Routes 220 and 40.

Discussing the possibility of changing the name of the organization to Older Youth Group, it was decided to keep the Junior Extension 4-H Club name.

In order to interest the older 4-H club members in the Junior Extension, it was decided to invite those 14 or over to club meetings. When they are 16 they will be eligible to join. They are invited to the next meeting, which will be January 5 at the court house, and will be an organization meeting.

Two boys from Garrett county were guests and 12 members attended the meeting.

Scholarship Is Discussed, Party Held

The scholarship fund was discussed by members of the Cumberland Branch of the American Association of University Women at a brief business session preceding the Christmas party held Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. A. J. Mirkin, Schley Street.

Mrs. Aden Everstine presided at the meeting, when a policy for the future of the scholarship fund was outlined. The discussion is to be continued at the next general meeting, which will be held in February unless a special meeting is called in January.

A total of 118 members was announced by Mrs. Earl Nonnenmann. Six new members were introduced.

The Creative Writing group was in charge of the entertainment. It was an audience particiption hour. It included games, charades, a limerick contest, won by Mrs. Harold Reese, and a Christmas card contest, won by Mrs. John A. Cupler II.

Mrs. Howard L. Tolson, Mrs. David Sigel and Miss Adele Malcolm presided at the punch bowl. The decorations by the Garden Group featured dried flowers, which the group has been studying.

The program was under the chairmanship of Mrs. Willim C. Van Newkirk; refreshments, Miss Ruth McColley, and decorations, Mrs. Rudolph Steinberger.

There were 68 members present.

Nationalist Soldiers Appear Ready If Reds Attack Tachen Islands

Fred Waters of the Associated Press staff in Tokyo and other news cameramen were taken on a tour of the Tachens, important Chinese Nationalist islands 200 miles north of Formosa. This is his report from the Tachens, which the Nationalists believe are marked for a Communist invasion.

By FRED WATERS

TACHEN ISLANDS, Dec. 2 (delayed) (AP)—The Chinese Communists have 200,000 troops threatening Chiang Kai-Shek's offshore islands, a briefing officer told visiting news cameramen here.

They are part of the 600,000 soldiers which the Reds have deployed in coastal areas of Chekiang and Fukien Provinces, close to the string of Nationalist offshore islands.

Forces in this northern area, he added, were backed up by 65,000 tons of naval craft and 403 planes, including 185 MIG jets and 55 twin-engine Russian built TU bombers.

Outpost islands near the Tachens are being bombarded by Red artillery. And at least one hostile submarine contact has been made in Tachen's waters.

The briefing officer spoke for Lt. Gen. Liu Lien-yi, tough, cocksure commander of all Nationalist islands off Chekiang Province.

Nationalist troops in the Tachens are tough and amazingly cheerful. Morale appears excellent. They are well dug in. Command posts are in deep tunnels.

The Tachens have few landing sites for a possible Red invasion force. If the Nationalists fight as they vow to do, the invasion would be a pretty costly business.

The troops appear as confident as their commander, and that's saying a lot.

The Tachens consist of two main islands, Upper and Lower Tachen. Upper Tachen is 3.12 miles long and 2.78 miles wide. It is extremely rocky and hilly with high cliffs fronting the sea almost all the way around the island.

Lower Tachen is 3.75 miles long and 1.3 miles wide. The two islands have a civilian population of 14,578. The garrison has been estimated at 20,000 regulars and guerrillas.

The briefing officer described the Tachens, which are 14 miles off the Red China coast, as "an advance base" for both Formosa and the U. S. base island of Okinawa, which lies about 375 miles to the east.

From the Tachens, the Nationalists watch Communist air and sea movements and alert Formosa. The islands are valuable for infiltration to the mainland and could be used for a springboard for attack.

The briefing officer said the 200,000 troops which the Reds could throw against the offshore islands are from the 7th Army. They include the 3rd Armored Division, the 7th, 12th, 13th, and 14th Artillery Regiments, an unidentified special group and four "public security" divisions.

The briefing officer said the Communists had their 5th Naval Squadron at Tinghai, in the Chu Islands 100 miles north of here.

He also quoted intelligence reports that five submarines had left North China's naval base at Tsingtao, presumably heading south. Three thousand rummber boats have been shipped out of Tsingtao.

Rear Adm. Ni Yu-Hseh, deputy commander in chief of the Nationalist Navy, said the Nationalist destroyer escort Taikang made contact Nov. 26 with a submarine 10 miles southeast of the Tachens. He reported three depth charges were dropped and the next day three oil slicks were seen.

Communist planes since August have been over the Tachens 37 times, the briefing officer said. A few 250 and 500-pound bombs were dropped but most were smaller antipersonnel bombs.

Communist frogmen have made raids on Yikiangshan, eight miles north of the Tachens, and on Pishan, 30 miles to the southwest. One frogman has been killed and a sampan load captured.

Pishan and Yikiangshan also have been bombarded from nearby Red islands.

On our visit here we saw busy preparations for war, but nothing of war itself. There were two air alerts during our visit but no enemy planes came over.

Nationalist Soldiers Appear Ready If Reds Attack Tachen Islands

Fred Waters of the Associated Press staff in Tokyo and other news cameramen were taken on a tour of the Tachens, important Chinese Nationalist islands 200 miles north of Formosa. This is his report from the Tachens, which the Nationalists believe are marked for a Communist invasion.

By FRED WATERS

TACHEN ISLANDS, Dec. 2 (delayed) (AP)—The Chinese Communists have 200,000 troops threatening Chiang Kai-Shek's offshore islands, a briefing officer told visiting news cameramen here.

They are part of the 600,000 soldiers which the Reds have deployed in coastal areas of Chekiang and Fukien Provinces, close to the string of Nationalist offshore islands.

Forces in this northern area, he added, were backed up by 65,000 tons of naval craft and 403 planes, including 185 MIG jets and 55 twin-engine Russian built TU bombers.

Outpost islands near the Tachens are being bombarded by Red artillery. And at least one hostile submarine contact has been made in Tachen's waters.

The briefing officer spoke for Lt. Gen. Liu Lien-yi, tough, cocksure commander of all Nationalist islands off Chekiang Province.

Nationalist troops in the Tachens are tough and amazingly cheerful. Morale appears excellent. They are well dug in. Command posts are in deep tunnels.

The Tachens have few landing sites for a possible Red invasion force. If the Nationalists fight as they vow to do, the invasion would be a pretty costly business.

The troops appear as confident as their commander, and that's saying a lot.

The Tachens consist of two main islands, Upper and Lower Tachen. Upper Tachen is 3.12 miles long and 2.78 miles wide. It is extremely rocky and hilly with high cliffs fronting the sea almost all the way around the island.

Lower Tachen is 3.75 miles long and 1.3 miles wide. The two islands have a civilian population of 14,578. The garrison has been estimated at 20,000 regulars and guerrillas.

The briefing officer described the Tachens, which are 14 miles off the Red China coast, as "an advance base" for both Formosa and the U. S. base island of Okinawa, which lies about 375 miles to the east.

From the Tachens, the Nationalists watch Communist air and sea movements and alert Formosa. The islands are valuable for infiltration to the mainland and could be used for a springboard for attack.

The briefing officer said the 200,000 troops which the Reds could throw against the offshore islands are from the 7th Army. They include the 3rd Armored Division, the 7th, 12th, 13th, and 14th Artillery Regiments, an unidentified special group and four "public security" divisions.

The briefing officer said the Communists had their 5th Naval Squadron at Tinghai, in the Chu Islands 100 miles north of here.

He also quoted intelligence reports that five submarines had left North China's naval base at Tsingtao, presumably heading south. Three thousand rummber boats have been shipped out of Tsingtao.

Rear Adm. Ni Yu-Hiseh, deputy commander in chief of the Nationalist Navy, said the Nationalist destroyer escort Taikang made contact Nov. 26 with a submarine 10 miles southeast of the Tachens. He reported three depth charges were dropped and the next day three oil slicks were seen.

Communist planes since August have been over the Tachens 37 times, the briefing officer said. A few 250 and 500-pound bombs were dropped but most were smaller antipersonnel bombs.

Communist frogmen have made raids on Yikiangshan, eight miles north of the Tachens, and on Pishan, 30 miles to the southwest. One frogman has been killed and a sampan load captured.

Pishan and Yikiangshan also have been bombarded from nearby Red islands.

On our visit here we saw busy preparations for war, but nothing of war itself. There were two air alerts during our visit but no enemy planes came over.

Deer Violations Prove Costly To District Hunters

The quest for venison in West Virginia during the three-day season that ended Wednesday proved expensive to a number of hunters.

In fact, one justice of the peace, collected $1,365 in fines from the 16 hunters who appeared before him for trials on charges of violating the state game laws.

The 16 hunters who appeared before Justice of the Peace Maurice Beall at Wardensville were arrested just prior and during the season by Basil C. Thompson and S. H. Baiden, conservation commission officers.

Man From Cumberland

Those convicted were:

Grey McCullough, Cumberland, $205.50, killing deer out of season.

Roy Ritchie, Ridgeley, $103.50, illegal possession of deer meat.

James E. Painter, Mathias, W. Va., $103.50 and 45 days in jail, killing deer out of season.

Eldridge Biller, Lost City, $28.50 and 45 days in jail, conspiring in an illegal deer kill.

More Are Listed

Arling Swisher, Rio, W. Va., $165.50, illegal possession of parts of a deer.

Emory Adkins, West Hamilton, W. Va.; Howard Curry, Marmet, W. Va.; William Buellis, Odenton, Md., $103.50, Paul Walter Johnson, Clarksburg, and Elden McWhorter, Moundsville, each $103.50 for carrying a loaded gun after making legal deer kills.

George Cain, Stevens City, Va., $23.50, hunting with an improper license.

Lloyd Mongold, Moorefield, spotlight hunting with a loaded firearm in his possession.

Action In Tucker

Seven hunters, including two from Cumberland, were fined Wednesday by Justice of the Peace O. B. Collins of Thomas for violating federal and state game regulations.

Fines of $20 and costs were paid by W. E. Lawyer, Cumberland; Dennis L. Jackson and Dorsey C. Jackson, Tunnelton, W. Va.; George Ruble, Terra Alta, and William Meisler and Ralph Burdette, Parkersburg, for carrying loaded guns in their cars on the highway.

A fine of $10 and costs was imposed on H. B. Dyer, Cumberland, for hunting on national forest land without a national forest hunting stamp. The cost of the federal stamps is $1 each.

The arrests were made by Conservation Officer Lester Miller, Tucker County, and W. C. Bostic, Logan County.

Friends Aware Meeting Reset

A meeting with two State Department of Education officials in behalf of Friends Aware of Handicapped Children has been rescheduled for Thursday, December 16 at 8 p. m. in City Hall.

Senator Robert B. Kimble informed the association yesterday it would be impossible for the two, Dr. Geneva Flickinger and Dr. David W. Zimmerman, to be here Monday, the original meeting date, but said they would be here December 16.

Kimble has set up plans for the session and Mrs. John J. Long, president, said it will be open to the public. Civic and fraternal groups are urged to send delegations and learn of plans for developing a training program for mentally retarded and physically handicapped children of Allegany County.

Mrs. Long said to be successful, the program responsibility must be shared by all community services and civic organizations.

Saturday Designated VHS Booster Day

LONACONING—It Will be "Boosters Day" on Saturday for the Valley High School area, which includes Barton and Midland.

Sponsored by the Boosters Club of Valley High School, a campaign will be underway to raise funds for the support of the school by the club, which is in its second year of organization.

Booster pins, in the black and white school colors, will be distributed with the Seventh and Eighth grade cheerleaders, junior varsity and varsity cheerleaders assisting in the towns and the sections assigned.

It is hoped to have a thousand Boosters pins worn Saturday by the parents and patrons of the Valley School.

Instrument Society Plans Meeting Today

The Cumberland Section of the Instrument Society of America will hold a dinner meeting at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club today at 6:30 p. m.

The speaker at the meeting will be Everitt B. Smith Jr., sales engineer for the Brown Division of the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company. A graduate of the University of Delaware, Smith was formerly associated with Raybestos-Manhattan as a research physicist

Railroaders Advance To New Positions

Four B&O Railroad Company men, three of whom are natives of Cumberland, have been promoted in the Stores Department of the company.

Benjamin F. Hotchkiss Jr., 28, who has been chief clerk to the Cumberland Division storekeeper here since November 1, 1951, has been named storekeeper at Zanesville, Ohio.

Stanley R. Fretwell, 47, of 304 Furnace Street, who had been assistant chief clerk to the Cumberland Division storekeeper, has been named chief clerk at the Bolt and Forge Shops here.

Morton Comes Here

Robert C. Morton, 54, who was storekeeper at Zanesville, Ohio, has been named storekeeper for the Maintenance of Way at Cumberland.

Leo C. Boyd, 39, of Bowling Green, who had been chief clerk at the Bolt and Forge Shops, has been named chief clerk to the Cumberland Division storekeeper.

Hotchkiss entered the service of the railroad in 1942 as a messenger and after serving three years in the Navy during World War II returned to work as a clerk. In 1948 he became a clerk in the Stores Department and three years later was made chief clerk to the division storekeeper.

Hotchkiss left yesterday for his new job in Zanesville. His wife and daughter will join him in the near future.

Started As Caller

Fretwell entered the service of the railroad in 1918 as a caller. In 1933 he became a section stockman in the Stores Department. In 1942 he was a time clerk in the Accounting Department here and in 1950 moved to the Stores Department as assistant chief clerk to the division storekeeper.

Boyd entered the service of the railroad in 1937 as a gateman. In 1940 he became a stores helper and later a diesel material clerk. He was a maintenance of way account clerk and requisition clerk until he came to Cumberland from Chicago in 1950. In 1951 he was named chief clerk at the Bolt and Forge Shops.

Morton's career with the railroad began in 1919 as a laborer in the stores department. He worked in various positions in the Stores Department here until about six years ago he was named storekeeper at Zanesville. He retained his residence in Cumberland at 520 Shriver Avenue during the time he held the Zanesville post.

Governor Promises Help For Crownsville Hospital

CROWNSVILLE, Md., Dec. 2 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin promised after a tour of Crownsville State Hospital today that crowded conditions criticized by an Anne Arundel County Grand Jury will be improved.

He indicated the State would go ahead with plans to transfer some mentally deficient Negro children from Crownsville to Rosewood Training School at Reisterstown, despite protests from white parents there.

Such a transfer was proposed by the 1953 General Assembly but was delayed by the protests. McKeldin was told by Asst. Atty. Gen. Giles Parker today that the transfer is a matter of administrative procedure and there is nothing in the law to prevent it.

"If we have the right to transfer them, we ought to do it," McKeldin said.

Dr. Clifton T. Perkins, director of the Department of Mental Hygiene, who toured Crownsville, the state's only Negro mental hospital, said a survey is being made to determine how many of the mentally retarded children from Crownsville can be accommodated at Rosewood.

The grand jury also charged that some of the 316 children found in facilities built to accommodate 200 were naked on a visit there by the jurors and that there was no bedding on some of the beds.

The governor was advised the jurors arrived there on a Monday when an unusually large amount of laundry was being done, thus causing the clothing shortage.

Missing Man's Jacket Found

DEAL ISLAND, Md., Dec. 2 (AP)—A jacket recovered in dragging operations in Tangier Sound today has been identified as belonging to Delmas Webster, missing waterman.

Webster and Allison Webster, no relation, left here last Monday in a fishing vessel called the Marvelo for Crocheron in lower Dorchester County.

Allison Webster's body was washed ashore Tuesday. He was buried today.

Meanwhile, Coast Guard officers decided wreckage discovered in the area was an old vessel and not the Marvelo. The search for the missing man and the vessel is being continued.

Watermen found a huge finished log, about 30 feet long and five feet in diameter today. They theorized it was an old ship mast which the Marvelo may have hit in Monday's rough weather. They said the log could have smashed the bottom of the Marvelo, causing it to sink.

Charged With Holdup

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—The FBI said today Robert S. Purcell, 29, of West Hyattsville, Md., has been charged with a $720 holdup at a Western Maryland Trust Co. branch bank in Jefferson, Md., last Nov. 8.

Washington Area Population Gains

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP) — The Washington Board of Trade reported today the population of the Washington metropolitan area was 1,780,000 as of Jan. 1, 1954. This is a gain of 316,000 in four years.

The board gave this breakdown:

District of Columbia—850,000.

Montgomery County, Md.—248,000.

Prince Georges County, Md. — 283,000.

Commission Error Delays Swearing In

FREDERICK, Dec. 2 (AP) — The swearing in of Circuit Court Clerk Ellis C. Wachter was postponed today pending receipt from Annapolis of a corrected copy of his commission.

Wachter, re-elected to succeed himself, was to be sworn in today but Judge Patrick Schnauffer found the commission defective. It read: "Clerk of the court" instead of "clerk of the circuit court."

At Annapolis the secretary of state's office said it was probably a typing error and would be promptly fixed.

Harriman Election Edge Is 11,954 Votes

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Gov.-Elect Averell Harriman defeated his Republican gubernatorial opponent, U.S. Sen. Irving M. Ives by a plurality of 11,954 votes, a completed recanvass of the vote showed today.

The recanvass figure gave Harriman 2,560,046 and Ives 2,548,092.

The recanvass figures are based on returns from the county election boards. Official figures will be released after certification by the State Board of Canvassers after a meeting in Albany Dec. 16.

Two Infants Die In Blaze

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—Two infant girls died in a house fire today when smoke and flame cut off rescuers in the nearby Parkville section of Baltimore County.

The baby girl cousins were identified as Leah Ann Knapp, six-month-old daughter of Mrs. Viola Knapp, and Geraldine Ruth Major, 13-month-old daughter of Mrs. Eva Major.

"It was impossible to get to them," said an uncle, Donald Mathewson, 25, as he told of hearing the babies screaming as he tried to save them.

He and his mother, Mrs. Leah Mathewson, were burned on the face and hair in efforts to reach the babies. The children were on the second floor. The fire wrecked the six-room house.

Firemen also were unable to reach the infants.

Dr. Rollin Hudson, county medical examiner, said the youngest girl was still clutching a baby bottle when firemen found her.

Mothers of both children, at work when the fire broke out, collapsed after they hurried home and learned of the deaths.

Roberts Kidnap, Murder Trial To Begin Feb. 28

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 2 (AP) — Feb. 28 was set today for the trial of Baltimore attorney James T. Roberts, charged with first degree murder in the kidnap-slaying of his 7-year-old daughter Judith Ann.

Prosecutors had asked a March trial date but Defense Atty. Saul T. Von Zamft protested, saying "we're tired of delay." Circuit Judge Pat Cannon set the February date.

Knickerbockers were named "plus fours" because four inches extra width was allowed in the inside seam of each leg. Plus fours originated in the British army.

Two Ocean City Business Places Robbed Of $335

OCEAN CITY, Md., Dec. 2 (AP)—Two Ocean City business places were entered last night and a total of $335 was stolen. A third break-in attempt at the Post Office was unsuccessful, police said.

Paul's Bridge Amoco service station reported a thief entered through the rear window and pried open the safe. Paul Workman, the owner, said $300 was stolen.

Miss Jones, employe at City Lunch restaurant, said $35 was stolen from the cash register after entry was gained through a rear window. The owner of the restaurant is Scott Wallace.

Minister Left Well-Paid Pulpit For New Fling

By HERMAN R. ALLEN
(For George Cornell)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—It isn't often that a minister will leave a well-paid pulpit on the gamble that he can make a go of a new thing.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Lowry did it a year and a half ago and now thinks he's "around the corner."

The new thing is the Foundation for Religious Action in the Social and Civil Order, which is dedicated to two aims:

"1. To stress the importance of religious truth in the preservation and development of genuine democracy.

"2. To unite all believers in God in the struggle between the free world and atheistic communism, which aims to destroy both religion and liberty."

Rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, in the fashionable Chevy Chase section here, Dr. Lowry had seen totalitarianism at first hand in Europe in the early '30s when he was attending Oxford on a fellowship.

He observed national socialism in Germany while serving an American church in Munich and concluded it was simply communism adapted for German consumption.

"And I had a grandstand seat to watch the Communist movement in England," he says, "in the October Club, the Communist student club at Oxford. I got an insight into the intellectual appeal of communism, which is still misunderstood in America. Some of the smartest boys at Oxford fell for it."

For 20 years after returning to this country, serving as student chaplain at the University of California, professor at the Virginia Seminary, Alexandria, Va., and 10 years as rector of All Saints', Dr. Lowry mulled the problem of how the rising threat of communism could be repelled.

The idea of the Foundation for Religious Action was shaping in his mind, but All Saints' was in the middle of a building program and he didn't feel he should leave.

Finally, in the spring of 1953, Dr. Lowry resigned — "took a gamble" as he puts it — to set up the foundation. He is chairman and Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of National Presbyterian Church, where President and Mrs. Eisenhower worship, is cochairman.

Together the two clergymen enlisted a national advisory council of such Americans as Herbert Hoover; the Rev. Billy Graham; the Most Rev. John J. Wright, Roman Catholic bishop of Worcester, Mass.; Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, of Los Angeles; Dr. Gordon Gray, president of North Carolina University; Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, minister of Christ Methodist Church, New York; Thomas E. Murray, member of the Atomic Energy Commission; and Henry Ford II.

Dr. Lowry had no office, no funds beyond what "friends" contributed.

"It was rough for a year," he said, "but we're around the corner now, and if what we're doing is right the money will come in."

"Unless we can mount counterforces," he says, "communism will continue its sweep. The key is whether the free world can come to itself and get on its feet ideologically and spiritually. The strategy should be to throw communism back and capture the initiative.

"Of course this will be very difficult. I'm not starry-eyed about it.

"The foundation is simply an attempt to take the first practical step to implement a total ideological strategy — to try to unite the religious forces of he United States, and ultimately the world, on the basis of their common belief in God."

High spot of the foundation's life so far was the National Conference on the Spiritual Foundations of American Democracy Nov. 8-10. President Eisenhower spoke, and representatives of the three major religious faiths and diverse other segments of American life attended.

As resources become available, Dr. Lowry hopes to begin a three-part program:

1. To sell American leaders, particularly religious and educational, on their role in fighting communism.

2. Take the foundation's message to the American people through radio, TV, newspapers, magazines, mass meetings and forums.

3. "A dream," Dr. Lowry calls it — "an 'Operation Literature' which would flood the world with books and pamphlets at all educational levels, subsidized by the American people's contributions so that they could be sold cheaply. Literature that would sell the world on the basic integrity, sincerity and friendliness of the American people.

"The Russians do this, in reverse. We should too."

Motorist Dies After His Car Hits Child

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—Police said that a motorist, whose car hit a seven-year-old girl Tuesday and who became ill at the scene of the accident, died several hours later at Johns Hopkins hospital.

The driver was identified as John W. Ammenhauser, 53. Police said his car struck Nadine Johnson, 7, late in the afternoon.

Nadine was hospitalized with a fractured skull.

Ammenhauser, who became ill at the scene of the accident, was taken to the hospital in the same ambulance which carried the child.

He died at 10:30 p. m. Doctors said an attempt would be made to determine the exact cause of his death.

MRS. WANDA JENNINGS, of St. Louis, who was chosen "Mrs. America," takes a Yorkshire pudding out of the oven in London as Mrs. Anna Evershed, a British housewife, gives a few instructions. Mrs. Jennings is on a European tour, one of her prizes. (International)

Minister Left Well-Paid Pulpit For New Fling

By HERMAN R. ALLEN
(For George Cornell)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—It isn't often that a minister will leave a well-paid pulpit on the gamble that he can make a go of a new thing.

The Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Lowry did it a year and a half ago and now thinks he's "around the corner."

The new thing is the Foundation for Religious Action in the Social and Civil Order, which is dedicated to two aims:

"1. To stress the importance of religious truth in the preservation and development of genuine democracy.

"2. To unite all believers in God in the struggle between the free world and atheistic communism, which aims to destroy both religion and liberty."

Rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, in the fashionable Chevy Chase section here, Dr. Lowry had seen totalitarianism at first hand in Europe in the early '30s when he was attending Oxford on a fellowship.

He observed national socialism in Germany while serving an American church in Munich and concluded it was simply communism adapted for German consumption.

"And I had a grandstand seat to watch the Communist movement in England," he says, "in the October Club, the Communist student club at Oxford. I got an insight into the intellectual appeal of communism, which is still misunderstood in America. Some of the smartest boys at Oxford fell for it."

For 20 years after returning to this country, serving as student chaplain at the University of California, professor at the Virginia Seminary, Alexandria, Va., and 10 years as rector of All Saints', Dr. Lowry mulled the problem of how the rising threat of communism could be repelled.

The idea of the Foundation for Religious Action was shaping in his mind, but All Saints' was in the middle of a building program and he didn't feel he should leave.

Finally, in the spring of 1953, Dr. Lowry resigned — "took a gamble" as he puts it — to set up the foundation. He is chairman and Dr. Edward L. R. Elson, pastor of National Presbyterian Church, where President and Mrs. Eisenhower worship, is cochairman.

Together the two clergymen enlisted a national advisory council of such Americans as Herbert Hoover; the Rev. Billy Graham; the Most Rev. John J. Wright, Roman Catholic bishop of Worcester, Mass.; Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, of Los Angeles; Dr. Gordon Gray, president of North Carolina University; Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, minister of Christ Methodist Church, New York; Thomas E. Murray, member of the Atomic Energy Commission; and Henry Ford II.

Dr. Lowry had no office, no funds beyond what "friends" contributed.

"It was rough for a year," he said, "but we're around the corner now, and if what we're doing is right the money will come in."

"Unless we can mount counterforces," he says, "communism will continue its sweep. The key is whether the free world can come to itself and get on its feet ideologically and spiritually. The strategy should be to throw communism back and capture the initiative.

"Of course this will be very difficult. I'm not starry-eyed about it.

"The foundation is simply an attempt to take the first practical step to implement a total ideological strategy — to try to unite the religious forces of he United States, and ultimately the world, on the basis of their common belief in God."

High spot of the foundation's life so far was the National Conference on the Spiritual Foundations of American Democracy Nov. 8-10. President Eisenhower spoke, and representatives of the three major religious faiths and diverse other segments of American life attended.

As resources become available, Dr. Lowry hopes to begin a three-part program:

1. To sell American leaders, particularly religious and educational, on their role in fighting communism.

2. Take the foundation's message to the American people through radio, TV, newspapers, magazines, mass meetings and forums.

3. "A dream," Dr. Lowry calls it — "an 'Operation Literature' which would flood the world with books and pamphlets at all educational levels, subsidized by the American people's contributions so that they could be sold cheaply. Literature that would sell the world on the basic integrity, sincerity and friendliness of the American people.

"The Russians do this, in reverse. We should too."

Motorist Dies After His Car Hits Child

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—Police said that a motorist, whose car hit a seven-year-old girl Tuesday and who became ill at the scene of the accident, died several hours later at Johns Hopkins hospital.

The driver was identified as John W. Ammenhauser, 53. Police said his car struck Nadine Johnson, 7, late in the afternoon.

Nadine was hospitalized with a fractured skull.

Ammenhauser, who became ill at the scene of the accident, was taken to the hospital in the same ambulance which carried the child.

He died at 10:30 p. m. Doctors said an attempt would be made to determine the exact cause of his death.

GRIN AND BEAR IT By Lichty

"The research on these was done by alert scientists who recognize the fact that splitting atoms is no more important than crushing calories."

On The Line

by Bob Considine

CLEVELAND, Dec. 2 — (INS) — From here on, the trial of Sam Sheppard on the charge of sordidly eliminating his wife will be conducted against a background of life rather than death—the life inherent in the feast of the nativity.

The contrast was sharp and not a little poignant Monday. If you'll bear with me during a spell of shadow-boxing, I'll try to explain.

Sam had been braceleted to his keeper, Jim Kilroy, and led off to his fourth floor cell-block. There he took off his neat charcoal gray suit (which his family keeps pressed for him) and his inevitable white shirt with the buttoned down collar and the black knit tie that gives him the air of a somewhat overly detached Princeton post-grad. He replaced these with his gray athletic sweatshirt and slacks, and set about the ordeal of another night in prison.

Downstairs in the makeshift press room the reporters beat out their stories. Sometimes the typewriters struck back. The stories had to do with blood. Add to all the complications of the case the normal functional activities of a lady dog named Koko, the Sheppard pooch. It is the defense's contention that much or most of the blood flung about the Sheppard place was Koko's.

A witness named Mary Cowan, a mild woman who appeared freshly separated from a Salvation Army band, had this day called a good sampling of that blood human—and she was prepared to match it up with Sam's type and the poor wife's type. So there was much to write about. She is in the blood game.

In time there was only one reporter in the press room—this one—and a man with a broom was circling the place not unlike a vulture cleaning up a field of carnage. He'd lower and hold open the maw of a burlap bag and with the broom sweep into it all the literary litter of the place. Gave a fellow pause. Full many a trial-stained wretch had said secretly to himself (herself) as those words were completed, "Well, what'll I do with all that Pulitzer Prize money?"

Now the man was stashing the stuff in burlap and from there it would go to the incinerator, if it was lucky. He waited until I finished my last sentence and it was sent, then he added my story to the others—and to the half-empty paper coffee cups—and I wondered about how enraged would be the first folio people a generation hence.

It is black and abandoned and inexpressedly gloomy at night along the street in front of the Criminal Courts building, which contains both courtrooms, chambers and (aloft) cells. Sometimes, at this hour, relatives and friends of inmates will gather in the trafficless street, holding leather-lunged conversations with the imprisoned, appearing at barred windows high above. This night was cold and peppered with snow, and the silhouettes at the windows above, surrounded by a sickly yellow light, were without visitors.

I wondered as I looked up if Sam's was one of those silent heads. Probably not. He has been described as an ideal prisoner, content to eat the grub that is offered him, friendly with the assorted muggs and misfits of his block, and amenable to retiring to his little cell without urging—to listen to his radio and observe now and then his son's crayon drawings which he has stuck to steel walls with scotch tape.

Anyway, I made it to Terminal Square, where sits the Hotel Cleveland, and in melodious, colorful and quite unbearable contrast the area was alive with Christmas. There were lights, strung about, a huge Santa on the marquee of Higbee's store, softly-lighted creches, wreaths, red ribbons, and a public address system singing "Holy Night."

It's a bad time of year for a lengthy discussion of death.

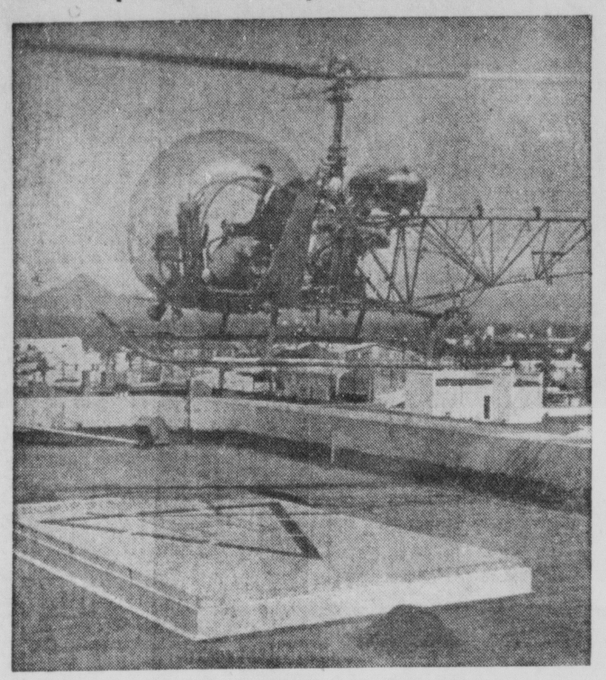
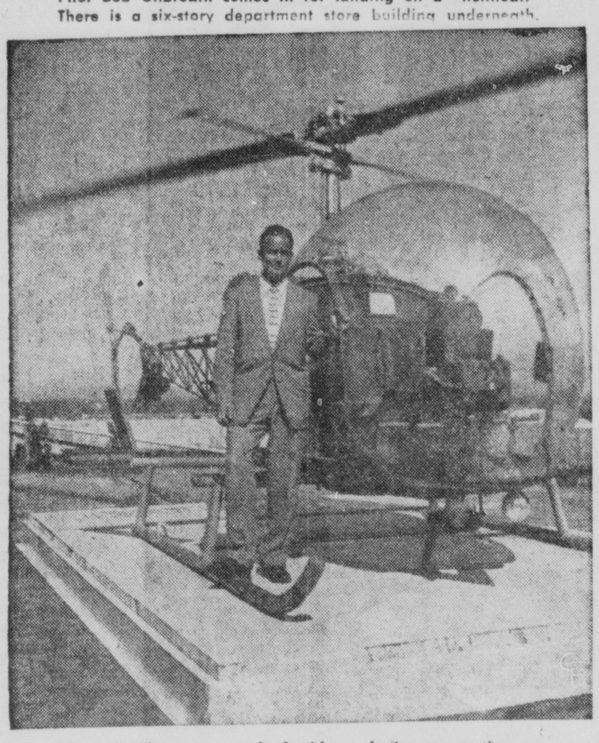
ANY ROOF A HELIPORT!

New 'Helifloat' Distributes Weight Of Copter, Greatly Lessens Stress



Pilot Bob Gilbreath comes in for landing on a "helifloat." There is a six-story department store building underneath.



Allan C. Thomson stands beside a helicopter resting on his "helifloat" which has converted this roof into a heliport.

By REX STANLEY
Central Press Correspondent

PHOENIX, Ariz.—A young, "practical" engineer who put four years of his own time and money into a revolutionary idea for helicopters has hit the jackpot of fame and potential fortune here.

Studious, 34-year-old Allan C. Thomson doesn't have an engineering degree. He worked nights to get through a technical school. His helicopter background is practical experience.

Recently, however, a 'copter whirled to the roof of a downtown Phoenix building and landed Thomson in the lap of a commercial bonanza. He had discovered a way to make almost any rooftop an airport, without expensive changes in the building.

Thomson's invention is a landing platform that floats in water. Aviation experts agree it's a real milestone in flying history. With the "helifloat," whirly-birds can use nearly any rooftop, carry passengers and freight on inter-city and feeder hops right to the centers of America's cities and towns.

Four cities have rooftop heliports in limited operation now, without Thomson's new floating platform. Roofs, however, had to be paved with thick concrete, and the cost of altering whole buildings to support this tremendous added weight had all but stalled our helicopter progress. As result, rooftop ports seemed impractical.

* * *

THOMSON, who sat up evenings and experimented in his backyard, found a simple solution in basic physics: the weight of a helicopter can be evenly distributed over a roof by water. It can be done on an ordinary, low-stress roof, without changes.

Thomson's success is assured, say aviation representatives, because his invention is simple and inexpensive. The floating section is made of honeycomb aluminum, covered top and bottom. The "tank" is just a wood-sided, low vat that fits closely around the float. Four inches of water support the float.

According to Thomson, even the largest helicopters, like the 50,000-pound Piasecki, can land and take off from his "helifloat." He points out that the float area would be increased for bigger craft, "and this would increase the weight distribution area on the roof."

A measure of Thomson's financial rewards is in comparative costs. Concrete heliports have been installed for $22 per square foot, the floating platform $10 per square foot in the test model, probably $5 in full production.

Executive Reserve In Industry Is Planned

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP) — An organized "executive reserve" of industry and labor union leaders trained for government duty in wartime will be created Wednesday by the Office of Defense Mobilization.

Officials who disclosed this today said it is expected to develop into a government-wide reserve of executives pledged to drop their private affairs and report to Washington immediately on receiving notice of full mobilization.

Some 30 or more industry men, almost all of whom served in emergency control agencies during World War II or the Korean crisis, have been invited by ODM Director Arthur S. Flemming to Wednesday's initial meeting here.

Before being appointed, the businessman reservists must volunteer to stand by for a call to full-time government duty in an emergency, and to report to Washington periodically for brief terms of refresher training.

Each will be tabbed in advance for his wartime post in ODM or the successor agencies which would sprout out of ODM in wartime—defense production, price administration, wage control, rationing and so on.

Flemming thus hopes to avoid the delay and confusion encountered in each previous emergency, when vital agencies possessing vast war powers were organized on what in government language is called a crash basis. That means get it going in a hurry at any cost.

In keeping with its idea of creating a sort of civilian counterpart of the military reserves, ODM will summon its standby force to "war games" and assign sample mobilization problems to be solved.

It also will call for participation in such tests as the relocation drill of Nov. 20 when 2,000 government officials "ran" the government from emergency headquarters dispersed in a 300-mile radius from the presumably "bombed-out" capital.

ODM expects the pattern will be followed by other agencies which would have vital wartime duties, including the Interior, Treasury, Justice, State and Agriculture Departments and the commissions responsible for regulating transportation, communications and similar vital services.

ODM's own reserve may embrace eventually 200 or more executives. The list will be built up by analyzing the emergency jobs to be filled, then appointing reservists from the industries most appropriate to the tasks.

Rocket Plane May Reach 13,000 MPH

CHICAGO, Dec. 2 (AP)—A rocket expert tonight said rocket-propelled airliners with speeds up to 13,000 miles an hour can be built within the next 10 or 15 years.

Dr. Walter R. Dornberger, missile specialist for the Bell Aircraft Corp., calculated that such aircraft could flash:

From New York to London in one hour and 15 minutes at a maximum speed of 8,300 m.p.h.

Knowland Apparently Linking Political Future With McCarthy

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) appeared today to be linking his political future with Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) in what might develop into a battle for control of the Republican party.

Knowland, the Republican leader, led 20 other party members into a position of support for McCarthy on the first Senate roll call test of the censure charges against the Wisconsin senator yesterday.

When the Senate rejected, 66-21, a proposal by Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill) to clear McCarthy of these charges, Knowland and 20 other Republicans voted to absolve McCarthy and 22 GOP members voted against.

Actually, however, Knowland's stand was with a majority of the 48 Senate Republicans, since Sens. Bricker of Ohio and Capehart of Indiana were "paired" for the Dirksen proposal. Sen. Cordon of Oregon had said previously he was against censure and McCarthy did not show up for the vote.

Knowland failed to carry other members of the GOP Senate leadership with him into McCarthy's corner. Sens. Millikin of Colorado, chairman of the conference of all Republican senators, Ferguson of Michigan, chairman of the party Policy Committee and Saltonstall of Massachusetts, the assistant leader, all voted against Dirksen's proposal.

However, Sen. Bridges of New Hampshire, the Senate's president pro-tempore, went along with Knowland and McCarthy.

Knowland's dramatic announcement earlier in the day that he would vote against censure stirred some evident bitterness among his colleagues and started speculation about a challenge to his leadership.

However, Sen. Flanders (R-Vt), who started the censure ball rolling against McCarthy, said he certainly would not head — and probably wouldn't even subscribe to — any attempt to replace Knowland as party leader when the new Senate organizes in the 84th Congress.

"Sen. Knowland has made a serious mistake, in my judgment," Flanders said. "But I believe it is a matter of personal judgment and while I deplore his judgment, I certainly defend his right to make it."

A strong supporter of President Eisenhower who asked not to be quoted by name, said "there wouldn't be any use" to challenge Knowland's Senate leadership and doubted the political wisdom of any such attempt.

On the Dirksen proposal test vote, Knowland marshalled behind him colleagues who, with some exceptions, are regarded as inclined toward what used to be known as the Taft wing of the party.

Some of these senators have sided with Knowland in his recent disagreements with Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles over foreign policy. McCarthy has joined Knowland in demanding a naval blockade of Communist China, opposed for the present at least by Eisenhower and Dulles.

Knowland's decision to oppose censure obviously left some wounds with Sens. Watkins of Utah and Carlson of Kansas, who served on the special committee which recommended the Wisconsin senator be rebuked, but they declined to discuss it. Sen. Case of South Dakota, third GOP member of the committee, already had announced he had changed his mind and would vote against one of the censure counts.

It was Knowland who urged the Senate last August to send the censure charges to a special committee before acting on them. He personally persuaded the Republican members, largely against their will, to take on the job of investigating McCarthy.

But Knowland's friends said he had been consistent in today's announcement, since he made it clear he opposed taking any action on the original censure proposal made last July by Flanders.

Knowland paid high tribute to the Watkins committee members who he said had done a "very distasteful job." He protested what he said was "unfair abuse" of the committee by McCarthy.

Knowland is regarded as having future presidential ambitions, and control of the California delegation to the 1956 Republican nominating convention has been a matter of some controversy between him, GOP Gov. Goodwin J. Knight and Vice President Nixon.

Nixon had taken a compromiser's role behind the scenes in the McCarthy censure case. However, he has aligned himself with Eisenhower, who has not spoken out publicly, but who has been represented in some quarters as favoring censure.

The brontosaur, long extinct plant eating dinosaur, was the largest animal ever to walk the earth. It averaged 70 feet in length and often weighed more than 30 tons.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

The most successful people in public life are those who can talk with sense and coherence "off the cuff." Their words roll along so casually — yet so assuredly — as to sound entirely spontaneous.

Maybe they are, maybe not. The most natural-sounding phrase is usually the best rehearsed. The words may not have been written, or the speech memorized, but the speaker has outlined what he wants to say before mounting the platform. When pinned down with a question, he parries for time to think through a logical answer.

You can acquire this facility to think on your feet, wtih the apparent offhandedness of the expert. The first requisite is confidence, which comes only with speaking. Though you do no more than announce your name and address when called upon, speak up clearly. If you are self-conscious among strangers, remember that they, by nature, may all be as retiring as you are!

Create Occasions

Should opportunities for speaking not arise often enough, create them. Instead of waiting for your neighbor to nominate next year's club president, you put a name before the meeting. Or when the presiding officer asks for discussion, allow yourself a moment to crystalize your ideas, then stand up to offer an opinion.

Each time you're on your feet, you'll find the ideas flow more freely. Don't worry if you mispronounce a word or stumble over a syllable. The important thing is to speak without being timid at the sound of your own voice.

Speech instructors often assign brief talks on some general topic, to be outlined mentally — but not on paper — before class. The student is held to a time limit, but has latitude in presentation and expression. If he wants to keep his hands in his pockets, all right. If he wishes to pound his fist on the table, that is permissable, too. The aim of the assignment is merely to encourage ease and relaxation before an audience by talking from personal experiences and convictions.

Your Practice

I suggest you conduct your own speech clinic in front of a mirror. talk about anything you like, expressing your thoughts as clearly and succinctly as possible. You'll get the "feel" of being on your feet and thinking out loud, some of which will transfer — without conscious effort — to your public appearances.

YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE

You can achieve an appealing, resonant, sonorous voice — one that can be a vibrant attribute to charm and success — by reading the new booklet, YOUR MOST ATTRACTIVE VOICE, which gives complete instructions on how to overcome such wearisome speaking qualities as tonelessness, dullness, and lack of proper modulation. Legislation Is Aired By Labor Group

The Allegany County delegation to the General Assembly and State Senator Robert B. Kimble met with two groups Wednesday night at the AFL Labor Temple on South Liberty Street.

Officials of a number of American Federation of Labor unions discussed the so-called "right-to-work" laws which have been enacted in some of the other states. The union officials told the delegation they are strongly against such legislation.

The union group also discussed adjustments in the Workmen's Compensation law and safety regulations in connection with construction and manufacturing work. The AFL group said it would submit a written resume of their position on various legislative matters prior to the opening of the General Assembly next month at Annapolis.

A small group interested in obtaining equipment for the Flintstone School auditorium-gymnasium also met with the delegation and Sen. Kimble. The group was represented by Earl E. Manges, local attorney, and Joseph Mullenax, an official of the Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company.

The delegates and Sen. Kimble said they would discuss the matter of equipment for the school with the Board of Education in the near future.

DEATHS and FUNERALS

MRS. CAROLINE LIPPOLD

Mrs. Caroline B. Lippold, 73, of 215 Fayette Street, died yesterday morning at her home. She had been in ill health for the past year.

A native of Cumberland, she was a daughter of the late Joseph and Barbara (Reichert) Ackerman. She was a member of SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, a past president of the Christian Mothers of the parish, and a member of the Third Order of St. Francis. Her husband, John Lippold, preceded her in death.

Survivors include a sister, Miss Margaret Ackerman, Fairmont, W. Va., and several nieces and nephews.

The body will remain at the George Funeral Home.

The Christian Mothers will recite the rosary today at 8:30 p. m. at the funeral home.

Tomorrow at 9 a. m. a solemn high requiem mass will be celebrated in SS. Peter and Paul Church with burial in the parish cemetery.

Pallbearers will be Louis, Carl L. and John Seethe, Frank Weisenmiller, Charles and Edward Ackerman.

MRS. GERTIE CAVE

Mrs. Gertie (Haines) Cave, native of Slanesville, W. Va., died yesterday in a Rochelle, Ill., hospital. She was 74 and resided in Scarborro, Ill.

Her husband, Joseph Cave, died about two years ago. She was a daughter of the late Noah and Annie (Easter) Haines of Slanesville.

Mrs. Cave moved with her family to Illinois about 40 years ago and was a frequent visitor here. This past summer she visited with a cousin, Mrs. Clara Beery, city, and other relatives in the area. Mrs. Cave returned to her home about two weeks ago.

She was a member of the Methodist Church and Ladies Aid Society. Surviving are two sons, James Cave, Monroe Center, Ill.; Paul Cave, Sycamore, Ill.; a brother, Victor Haines, of Earlville, Ill.; and a number of nieces and nephews.

The body is at the Forman Funeral Home in Paw Paw, Ill. A service will be conducted on Saturday afternoon with burial in a cemetery near her home.

JOSEPH SWAUGER

GRANTSVILLE — Joseph Swauger, 78, a former resident, died November 26 in a Bedford, Ohio, hospital after suffering a heart attack.

Born near here, a son of the late Henry and Martha (Glotfelty) Swauger, he had resided in Bedford since 1935.

B&O Employe Retires After Long Service

52 Years Completed By William H. Shaw

After 52 years service, William H. Shaw, 77, of 1815 Bedford Street, has retired as storekeeper for the Maintanence of Way Department of the B&O Railroad in Cumberland.

Wednesday night he was honored at a testimonial dinner attended by more than 100 B&O workers and friends at Minke's Cottage Inn on Christie Road.

It was in July of 1902 that Shaw entered the service of the railroad as a laborer in the Maintenance of Way Department. In 1907 he was named assistant storekeeper in the MW department and for many years was storekeeper of that section.

Principal speaker at the dinner was H. P. McQuilkin, Baltimore, purchasing agent for the B&O Railroad. The topic of his talk was "Our Friend Bill."

McQuilkin at one time was employed by the railroad in Cumberland and told of those early years when he and Shaw worked in the South End. Much of McQuilkin's talk was on the humorous line, but he pointed out that the extra effort put into any job is the main reason for the success of most men.

Toastmaster was Charles R. Wheeler, storekeeper at the Mt. Clare Shops in Baltimore, who is a Cumberlander and former storekeeper of the Cumberland Division of the B&O.

The invocation was given by Charles E. Shaw, brother of the honored guest. A toast was offered to Mr. Shaw by L. M. Gump, storekeeper at the Bolt and Forge Shops here.

A certificate of retirement was presented to Shaw by A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Cumberland Division. A gold pocket watch was presented to the honored guest by W. T. Dillon, storekeeper for the Cumberland Division, on behalf of fellow employes of Shaw.

THE "FLORACON," shown in three views in Miami Beach, Fla., is the Beauty Salon Council of Miami Beach's answer to the national short hairdo trend. It is said to be a composite of 12 different coiffures. Models (from top) are Betty Cuoco, Myrtle Doering, Therese Lapointe. (International)

Officers Elected By Pythian Lodge

Lloyd E. Scheurling, chancellor commander; Richard Collins, vice chancellor; Frank J. Davis Jr., prelate; Frank J. Davis Sr., master of work; Charles C. Wolford, secretary; Joseph Wilson, treasurer; Nelson W. Russler, financial secretary.

E. S. Crist, master at arms; W. E. Kline, inner guard; Howard Fleegle, outer guard, and A. F. Weltman, E. S. Crist and Howard Fleegle, trustees.

Frank J. Davis Sr., was elected as the official lodge delegate to the 1955 state convention, to be held September 8-10 in Frederick. Charles C. Wolford was named alternate.

The new officers will be installed at a meeting Wednesday, January 5, by Julius E. Schindler, past grand chancellor of the state organization.

Wiley Ford Woman Hurt In Mishap

A 30-year-old woman suffered facial injuries Wednesday afternoon in a lumber truck-car collision near the intersection of Virginia Avenue and Oldtown Road.

Mary Virginia Browning, of Wiley Ford, was admitted to Memorial Hospital for X-rays after the crash at 3:20 p. m.

Police said she hit the one and a half ton truck operated by Robert S. Peer, 30, RD 1, Wiley Ford, who had stopped on Virginia Avenue.

The woman made a wide turn off Oldtown Road and struck lumber protruding from the rear of the truck. Windows on the left side of the car were broken.

No charges were filed pending further investigation.

Speakers Will Aid In S-D Day Program

Local graduates of the Dale Carnegie public speaking course will aid President Eisenhower's S-D Day (Safe-Driving Day) program December 15.

The graduates are now being briefed on what is considered one of the nation's most critical problem's—death and injury on streets and highways resulting from automobile collisions.

The 24-hour demonstration of accident-free driving will serve to illustrate that public education is a fertile field in mishap prevention.

Catholic War Veterans Will Meet Tonight

Victor J. Tambolleo Post 1712, Catholic War Veterans, will meet today at 8 p. m. at the Christopher Colombo Lodge home, North Mechanic Street.

The meeting will be the first to be conducted by the new officers of the post, and C. Earl Humbertson, commander, is expected to announce his committee appointments.

Youth Meet Saturday

The Tri-State Youth for Christ will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, North Mechanic Street. The speaker will be Rev. Chance Ickes, pastor of Laurel Hill Tabernacle, Jennerstown, Pa.

Church Clothing Drive Proving Successful

Representatives of the three local Catholic parishes yesterday reported good progress in the clothing appeal being conducted in the Baltimore Archdiocese.

The local collection, being carried out independently by the three parishes, is part of a nationwide appeal sponsored annually by the War Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Usable clothing, blankets and shoes are the items being sought, and following the close of the drive they will be sorted here and shipped to the appeal headquarters in New York City. From there, the items will be sent overseas to refugees and homeless victims of war.

Rev. Kenan Crowley, OFM, Cap., assistant pastor of SS Peter and Paul Church, yesterday morning said an estimated 1,500 pounds of items had already been sorted by the students of Ursuline Academy and that they will begin to be packed following the devotions this evening. With additional articles being turned in, Father Crowley said it was expected that the parish would exceed the 2,000 pounds donated by parishoners last year.

Very Rev. Lawrence J. Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, termed his parish collection as "very good" and stated he expected the total weight to equal last year's donations by the close of the appeal.

Contributions at St. Mary's Church were said to be "satisfactory" by Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor. The work of the pupils of St. Mary's School was singled out for particular praise by Father Landrigan.

B&O Employe Retires After Long Service

52 Years Completed By William H. Shaw

After 52 years service, William H. Shaw, 77, of 1815 Bedford Street, has retired as storekeeper for the Maintanence of Way Department of the B&O Railroad in Cumberland.

Wednesday night he was honored at a testimonial dinner attended by more than 100 B&O workers and friends at Minke's Cottage Inn on Christie Road.

It was in July of 1902 that Shaw entered the service of the railroad as a laborer in the Maintenance of Way Department. In 1907 he was named assistant storekeeper in the MW department and for many years was storekeeper of that section.

Principal speaker at the dinner was H. P. McQuilkin, Baltimore, purchasing agent for the B&O Railroad. The topic of his talk was "Our Friend Bill."

McQuilkin at one time was employed by the railroad in Cumberland and told of those early years when he and Shaw worked in the South End. Much of McQuilkin's talk was on the humorous line, but he pointed out that the extra effort put into any job is the main reason for the success of most men.

Toastmaster was Charles R. Wheeler, storekeeper at the Mt. Clare Shops in Baltimore, who is a Cumberlander and former storekeeper of the Cumberland Division of the B&O.

The invocation was given by Charles E. Shaw, brother of the honored guest. A toast was offered to Mr. Shaw by L. M. Gump, storekeeper at the Bolt and Forge Shops here.

A certificate of retirement was presented to Shaw by A. W. Conley, superintendent of the Cumberland Division. A gold pocket watch was presented to the honored guest by W. T. Dillon, storekeeper for the Cumberland Division, on behalf of fellow employes of Shaw.

THE "FLORACON," shown in three views in Miami Beach, Fla., is the Beauty Salon Council of Miami Beach's answer to the national short hairdo trend. It is said to be a composite of 12 different coiffures. Models (from top) are Betty Cuoco, Myrtle Doering, Therese Lapointe. (International)

Officers Elected By Pythian Lodge

Lloyd E. Scheurling, chancellor commander; Richard Collins, vice chancellor; Frank J. Davis Jr., prelate; Frank J. Davis Sr., master of work; Charles C. Wolford, secretary; Joseph Wilson, treasurer; Nelson W. Russler, financial secretary.

E. S. Crist, master at arms; W. E. Kline, inner guard; Howard Fleegle, outer guard, and A. F. Weltman, E. S. Crist and Howard Fleegle, trustees.

Frank J. Davis Sr., was elected as the official lodge delegate to the 1955 state convention, to be held September 8-10 in Frederick. Charles C. Wolford was named alternate.

The new officers will be installed at a meeting Wednesday, January 5, by Julius E. Schindler, past grand chancellor of the state organization.

Wiley Ford Woman Hurt In Mishap

A 30-year-old woman suffered facial injuries Wednesday afternoon in a lumber truck-car collision near the intersection of Virginia Avenue and Oldtown Road.

Mary Virginia Browning, of Wiley Ford, was admitted to Memorial Hospital for X-rays after the crash at 3:20 p. m.

Police said she hit the one and a half ton truck operated by Robert S. Peer, 30, RD 1, Wiley Ford, who had stopped on Virginia Avenue.

The woman made a wide turn off Oldtown Road and struck lumber protruding from the rear of the truck. Windows on the left side of the car were broken.

No charges were filed pending further investigation.

Speakers Will Aid In S-D Day Program

Local graduates of the Dale Carnegie public speaking course will aid President Eisenhower's S-D Day (Safe-Driving Day) program December 15.

The graduates are now being briefed on what is considered one of the nation's most critical problem's—death and injury on streets and highways resulting from automobile collisions.

The 24-hour demonstration of accident-free driving will serve to illustrate that public education is a fertile field in mishap prevention.

Catholic War Veterans Will Meet Tonight

Victor J. Tambolleo Post 1712, Catholic War Veterans, will meet today at 8 p. m. at the Christopher Colombo Lodge home, North Mechanic Street.

The meeting will be the first to be conducted by the new officers of the post, and C. Earl Humbertson, commander, is expected to announce his committee appointments.

Youth Meet Saturday

The Tri-State Youth for Christ will meet tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Salvation Army Citadel, North Mechanic Street. The speaker will be Rev. Chance Ickes, pastor of Laurel Hill Tabernacle, Jennerstown, Pa.

Church Clothing Drive Proving Successful

Representatives of the three local Catholic parishes yesterday reported good progress in the clothing appeal being conducted in the Baltimore Archdiocese.

The local collection, being carried out independently by the three parishes, is part of a nationwide appeal sponsored annually by the War Relief Services of the National Catholic Welfare Conference.

Usable clothing, blankets and shoes are the items being sought, and following the close of the drive they will be sorted here and shipped to the appeal headquarters in New York City. From there, the items will be sent overseas to refugees and homeless victims of war.

Rev. Kenan Crowley, OFM, Cap., assistant pastor of SS Peter and Paul Church, yesterday morning said an estimated 1,500 pounds of items had already been sorted by the students of Ursuline Academy and that they will begin to be packed following the devotions this evening. With additional articles being turned in, Father Crowley said it was expected that the parish would exceed the 2,000 pounds donated by parishoners last year.

Very Rev. Lawrence J. Kilkenny, pastor of St. Patrick's Church, termed his parish collection as "very good" and stated he expected the total weight to equal last year's donations by the close of the appeal.

Contributions at St. Mary's Church were said to be "satisfactory" by Rev. Lawrence P. Landrigan, pastor. The work of the pupils of St. Mary's School was singled out for particular praise by Father Landrigan.

B & O Machinists Plan Election

Cumberland Lodge No. 212, International Association of Machinists, will hold its annual election of officers Monday at the Odd Fellows Hall on Virginia Avenue.

The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad local has about 450 members who work at the Bolt and Forge Shops, the round house and back shops here.

The election will get under way Monday afternoon, with balloting from 1 to 4 p. m. in the IOOF Hall, and resume at 7:30 p. m., when a membership meeting is scheduled.

The chief contests are expected for the office of recording secretary, with W. W. Dunlap and C. F. Schelble nominated; financial secretary, M. J. Coleman and L. L. Reynolds, and local chairman, C. E. Hardy, Angelo Muscatell and Reynolds.

Miss Kompanek Choir Director

Miss Josephine Kompanek, 511 Pearre Avenue, has been appointed director of the Youth Choir of Centre Street Methodist Church.

She is a graduate of Western Maryland College, class of 1953, where her major was public school music. Miss Kompanek is currently the teacher of Junior High School Music at Allegany High School and is a well-known soloist here.

Her appointment completes the staff of music leaders of Centre Street Methodist Church. Charles I. Sager, head of the music department at Frostburg State Teachers College, is the director of music and director of the Sanctuary Choir. Mrs. W. Valgene Routch, instrumental music teacher of Allegany County, is director of the Junior Choir.

The three choirs will number about 100 voices and on occasions will appear together in the worship services.

Court Probates Wills Of Two

Wills of two Cumberlanders who died in old age last month were admitted to probate this week in Allegany County Orphans' Court.

One was the last testament of John Wesley Ryan, who was 81 and lived at 113 East Elder Street at the time of his death November 13. He bequeathed $2,000 to be divided equally among four children, Raymond R. Ryan, Mildred Ryan Wigfield, Melvin E. Ryan and Irvin B. Ryan. All the rest of his estate was left to another son, Elmer N. Ryan, who qualified as executor of the estate under a $500 bond. The will was dated February 23, 1949.

Also probated was the will of Mrs. Mollie J. Rosenmerkel, who was 91 when she died November 14. Her son, Perry Rosenmerkel, 708 Shriver Avenue, qualified as executor under a $200 bond.

A daughter, Freida M. Rosenmerkel, was left all of her personal property. The son and daughter jointly were left Mrs. Rosenmerkel's two-story residence at 719 Shriver Avenue. The will was dated December 30, 1936.

Appeals Granted By Zoning Board

Two occupancy permits were granted last night by the Board of Zoning Appeals.

Herbert Broll, 327 Arch Street, was given authority to use his home, located in a Residential B district, for a beauty salon.

Permission was granted after James C. Gardner, a member of the board, pointed out that the business would come under a professional classification.

C. R. Nuzum, 782 MacDonald Terrace, was given a permit to use Lots 32 and 33 of that street as the site of a 32.9 by 52 foot frame dwelling.

Permission was granted to set the house back 15 feet, instead of the 20 required in the code, because of the steep terrain.

Rites Planned

January 1, 1912 to December 31, 1915.

He returned to private practice in 1916. In 1923 he re-entered the political scene when he ran for state's attorney and was defeated by former Chief Judge William A. Huster.

Named By Ritchie

In 1927, he began his first four-year term as a trial magistrate in Cumberland, being appointed by Governor Albert C. Ritchie. He was reappointed in 1931, by Governor Ritchie, and in 1939 and 1943 by Governor Herbert R. O'Conor, and again in 1947 by Governor Lane. His last term ended May 7, 1951.

He was a member of Central Methodist Church, Cumberland Lodge 271, Loyal Order of Moose; Chosen Friends Lodge 34, Independent order of Odd Fellows; the Maryland and Allegany County bar associations.

Mr. Perdew is survived by his widow, Mrs. Virginia (Beasley) Perdew; two sons, Wilbur W. Perdew, Baltimore, and Robert B. Perdew, Washington; one daughter, Dorothy, wife of James E. Pitzer, Cincinnati; five grandsons; one brother, Carl Perdew, this city, and one sister, Mrs. Thomas R. Gibson, Centerville, Pa.

The body is at the Kight Funeral Home.

Members of the Moose Lodge will conduct a ritualistic service today at 7:30 p. m. at the funeral home. All members are urged to be present.

Marriage Licenses

T-Sgt. Harmon Learning Radar

T/Sgt. Paul K. Harmon, Fort Hill High School graduate, one of three brothers now serving in the Armed Forces, is attending school at the Lockheed Aircraft Company in Burbank, Calif., and upon completion of a ten-weeks course will be a radar mechanic.

He will then transfer to Sacramento, Calif. Sgt Harmon served two years in the Pacific as a tail gunner on a Flying Fortress which bombed ships and installations at Raboul, New Guinea.

Later he was forced down and was reported missing in action with 14 other crew members. However they were rescued from the jungles. Sgt. Harmon received the Silver Star. He left the service in July of 1945 and reenlisted two years later.

He graduated from Fort Hill High School in 1938. Also serving in the Armed Forces are two brothers, Sfc. Donald E. Harmon, with the Infantry in Germay and S/Sgt. Robert A. Harmon with Air Force Band at Langley Field, Va. They are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Harmon, of 309 Vine Street, Westernport. T/Sgt. Harmon's wife is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Medford Nicholson Sr., of 130 Grand Avenue, Cumberland.

"Unspeakable Gang" Shows Its Colors

By sentencing 13 Americans to jail on trumped-up spying charges, Red China has thrown out the window whatever chances it may have had of gaining admission to the United Nations. Those in Washington and in other capitals who had been in favor of taking China into the UN, must see by now that the Peiping government does not belong in the company of decent nations.

Continued Red Chinese attacks on Nationalist-held islands off Formosa only serve to establish more firmly Red China's position as a disturber of the peace.

It is possible that what Henry Cabot Lodge calls the "unspeakable gang in Peiping" has at last overreached itself. If its conduct continues to boomerang, as is already indicated by expression of opinion in London and elsewhere, it will lose what few friends it has left and may also interfere with whatever plans the Soviet Union may have for buying time by reaching some sort of accord with the West.

Whether Peiping is proceeding under direct orders from Moscow or simply cannot restrain its enthusiasm for proceeding forthwith with plans for extension of communism is not entirely clear. But certainly Red China is not actuated by peaceful intent. It passes up no opportunities to take pot shots at the United States, and seems to have definite plans for invasion of Formosa.

Its harassing attacks on Chiang Kai-shek's islands can have grave consequences, as the Chinese Communists must know. Washington has not officially backtracked from its announced determination to defend Formosa. And an eventual attempt to seize Formosa can be the only object of tentative Red attacks on outlying islands.

The Constitution Of China

While some Americans continue to believe that Red China will separate from Soviet Russia, Mao Tze-tung and his associates have answered the question by proclaiming a new Constitution that follows the Marxist line in every detail. That this should be so is historically inevitable as the Chinese Communist party has continuously taken an orthodox Marxist position isnce 1921. The first paragraph of the preamble clearly states the position:

"The Chinese people, after more than a century of heroic struggle, finally achieved in 1949, under the leadership of the Communist party of China, their great victory in the people's revolution against imperialism, feudalism and bureaucratic capitalism, thereby ending the long history of oppression and enslavement and setting up the People's Republic of China, a people's democratic dictatorship. The system of people's democracy—new democracy—of the People's Republic of China ensures that China can in a peaceful way eliminate exploitation and poverty and build a prosperous and happy socialist society."

The last paragraph of the preamble to the constitution deals with the relations of Red China to Soviet Russia. It is not a matter left to individual judgment; friendship for Russia is the organic law of the land:

"China has already built up an indestructible friendship with the great Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and the People's Democracies; the friendship between our people and peace-loving people throughout the world is growing day by day . . ."

The form of government adopted is described as "democratic centralism," the current Soviet substitute for the "dictatorship of the proletariat." "Democratic centralism" means that while the officialdom is chosen at a so-called democratic election, the control is from the top down, requiring a blind and abject obedience to the dictates of those in control of government.

Article 4 of Chapter I specifically says:

". . . through socialist industrialization and socialist reconstruction, (the state) ensures the gradual abolition of the exploiting system and the building of a socialist society."

Article 10 explains the method for the abolition of capitalism.

Recognizing temporarily private ownership, Article 6 states:

". . . The state ensures priority of development for the state sector of the economy.

"All mineral resources and waters, as well as forests, undeveloped land and other resources which the state owns by law, are the property of the whole people."

Article 8 has this to say of landlords:

"The policy of the state towards kulak enterprise is one of restriction and gradual elimination."

As to the rights of landlords and capitalists as individuals, Article 19 states:

"The state deprives feudal landlords and bureaucratic capitalists of political rights for a specified period, in accordance with the law, at the same time providing them with opportunities to earn a livelihood, so that they may reform themselves by work and become citizens living by their own labour."

In a word, landlords and bureaucratic capitalists become in Red China, as they were in the early days of Soviet Russia, secondary citizens with limited civil rights. The term, "bureaucratic capitalists," as used in this constitution is puzzling. By it they mean large companies, corporations, mostly foreign-owned.

Chapter III of the constitution is a bill of rights which, while adapted to special conditions in Red China, closely follows the constitution of Soviet Russia. The rights to work, to leisure and to social security are guaranteed. Article 100 reads:

"Citizens of the People's Republic of China must abide by the constitution and the law, observe labour discipline and public order and respect social ethics."

By observing "labour discipline" the worker renounces his right to strike or even to object to stakhanovism which is the Soviet method of speed-up. It reduces the worker to a slave of the state which alone determines wages, hours and working conditions. What specifically is meant by "social ethics" depends upon the interpretation of the moment. For instance, when Zhdanov was the arbiter of social ethics in the Soviet Union, he determined what music could properly be composed and what literature could be written. The theory is the same in all Marxist countries, although the application of social ethics cannot wholly be divorced from local custom.

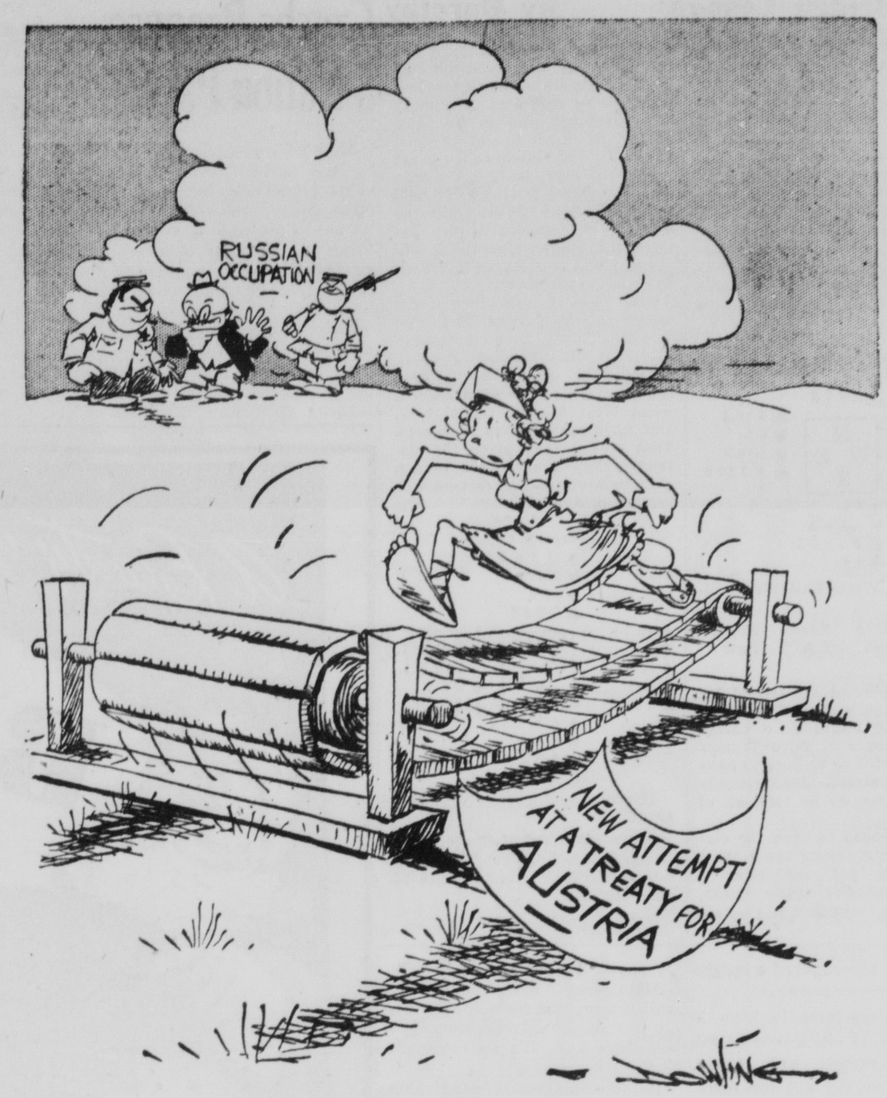
Peaceful Co-Existence Gets A Workout



McCarthy Censure Will Bring Change In Red Probes

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — This week marks a milestone in American history. For this week sees the beginning of the end of effective investigation by committees of Congress into communistic activities inside or outside the government.

Adoption of the censure motion against Senator McCarthy means the squelching of all effective efforts in that direction not only by the Wisconsin senator himself but those of any other senator.

For the die has been cast. In response to a widespread wave of passion throughout the country, the Senate, by an overwhelming majority, has voted resolutions of censure which will frighten any other senator in the future who ventures to pursue an investigation of communism.

Likewise, free speech as the Senate has known it heretofore has now been abolished and only those senators who conform — in their thinking and speaking—to the dictates of a temporary majority in the Senate can hereafter feel safe against the adoption of censure resolutions.

Chairmen Pilloried

It is ironical that a crusade which began on the theory that Senator McCarthy was stifling free speech and insisting on conformity of thought now has wound up with a restriction upon the members of the United States Senate themselves who may hereafter try to express a dissenting viewpoint.

Many senators—in fact, most of them—will deny vehemently that their censure resolution against Senator McCarthy means any such drastic change. They will insist that investigations of communistic activity will go on with unabated zeal. But, while that will be the claim, realism requires that the true situation be reported. One by one, the chairmen of committees investigating communism have been pilloried, beginning with Representative Martin Dies of Texas, Democrat. After the treatment given Senator McCarthy, what senator will wish to risk censure or public calumny? Recalcitrant witnesses will be encouraged to new defiance of congressional inquiries.

Already proposals are being made that a joint committee be formed from members of both houses to deal with the investigation of Communists. But anyone familiar with the techniques of congressional committees knows that this is an insidious way to kill off any effective inquiry. Joint committees have no centralized responsibility, and it is difficult for a staff to be assembled which can do an efficient job under such joint control.

So, for all practical purposes, the fight that has been made by a valiant group of Americans other than Senator McCarthy to expose communism inside America has been lost.

Much of the responsibility for what has happened, curiously enough, must be borne by Senator McCarthy himself. As a tactician in the fight against him personally, he has made blunder after blunder. He had a good case on legal and constitutional grounds but he muffed it—indeed, he forfeited it—by insisting on constant attacks on his fellow senators at the special session that began November 8.

"I realize," a senator who voted against McCarthy said to this correspondent privately, "that there are many good arguments against censure, but Joe simply showed his contempt for his fellow senators and they are all human after all."

Precedent Established

So Senator McCarthy lost his own battle, and his colleagues in the Senate were not able to rise above the passions of the hour or their own sense of indignation to refuse to write into the record a precedent that will pleague the Senators for decades to come. The closing hours of the debate on Wednesday showed how perplexed and bewildered some of the senators were as they struggled with the legal phases only to find themselves influenced finally by the personality prejudices involved.

Abuse of Senator McCarthy during the debate and the use of intemperate language about him rendered absurd the pious statement that the Senate was trying to uphold its own dignity. As for "traditional conduct," the Senate has never been any different from what it has been this week. Senator Lehman, for instance, made a bitter attack on Senator McCarthy in violation of Senate rules, but all that happened to him was an order to take his seat and a moment later he was permitted to proceed. Nobody mentioned censure for him.

The fact remains that only the man who fought communism has been or will be censured. Senator McCarthy, of course, deserved a rebuke for his attacks on fellow senators, but many of those same attacks were provoked. And the Watkins Committee itself held that provocation is a basis for withholding censure in certain circumstances.

The net result of it all is not only a defeat for Senator McCarthy—who will, of course, appeal to the country for vindication—but also a defeat for those who have felt that communistic activities should be exposed through relentless investigations by congressional committees.

Baering Down On The News

According to fresh atomic information we will soon have fissioned fermentation harnessed to waffle irons.

We just promulgated our peaceful symptoms by staking United Nations to 220 foot-pounds of pulverized eternity. This was supposed to be a double-ring ceremony with Moscow unloading its equivalent in radiant doom.

There's been enough whistling going past the diplomatic graveyard to start a fife-and-drum corps. Now that U.N.'s hope chest is primed with disintegrating tremors all official mail will be opened under water.

This is the premier of the peaceful atomic age. The lamb aged to mutton while waiting for the lion to drop that other shoe.

Our Ambassador Henry Cabbage Lodge circularizes our curiosity with end figures. Hank says we will soon be carrying our coal bins around in our vest pockets.

One grain of nuclear gravel will run a 60-acre farm with the stadium-type barn and self-filling silo. Eggs will glow in the dark.

The lead-line delegates to the chatter-stack on the East River have their choice of voluntary deactivation or quarantine in the isotope strata.

This will direct the course of civilization for the next thousand investigations.

Never will serenity be so theatening or the thunder-heads of mushrooming amicability so pungent. Our two civilizations can exist side by side. And be done brown on both sides.

We will watch this experiment in well-nourished trepidation. It's always dullest before the dawn of an idea.

No Substitute Exists For Normal, Well Balanced Diet

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

That many readers are interested in diet is obvious from our mail. Food is important to health and there is no substitute for a normal, well balanced diet unless the physician recommends a special regimen.

A Chicago reader stated she could not afford vitamin tablets and wanted to know what foods supply these supplements. She was told that fruits and vegetables contain vitamin C and that orange juice has more C than does any other citrus fruit.

By coincidence, I noted an editorial in Postgraduate Medicine, on the vitamin C (ascorbic acid) content of the West Indian cherry. This tree has grown wild in Puerto Rico for centuries but no one paid much attention to it until 1945. At that time, the suggestion was made that the fruit might have special properties and subsequent studies showed it to be rich in vitamin C.

The initial investigation was handicapped by the fact that the vitamin C content was too high to be measured by the usual methods. When one part of this cherry juice is added to 10 parts of pear, peach, pineapple, or grape juice, the vitamin C yield of the mixture is well above that of ordinary orange juice. Undoubtedly we will hear more of the Puerto Rico product.

Numerous questions are asked about seasoning. To my knowledge, little research has been done along this line. The amount used is dictated by custom and taste and it is surprising how much condiments the normal gastrointestinal tract can take without rebelling. But these substances are the first to be crossed from the list when ulcer or other digestive disorders arise.

To make meals tasty, some nutritionists recommend natural flavoring such as celery stalks, leaves, seed, and salt, as well as sweet peppers, parsley, and soup greens. These seasonings would replace onion or garlic. Dressings made from lime, lemon, and grapefruit juice offer variety. In marinating meats, fish, and other proteins, lemon juice makes the dish more appealing.

Letters concerning the diet of oldsters also are plentiful. Again, we advocate normal, well balanced menus, making allowances for dental problems and medical conditions requiring special foods. The elderly do not tolerate radical changes, hence the meals should follow the old familiar pattern except in overweights who ought to decrease the caloric intake. The common belief that the old must avoid proteins is erroneous.

An Illinois reader closed her letter with the question: "What do you think of oldsters in an institution having to eat reguarly cream soups and sauces, barbecued and fried meats, fritters, and heavily spiced foods?" These menus are rich for most people. I feel certain she and her friends in the institution will have less indigestion if they can encourage the chef to serve plainer meals.

TOMORROW: Contrary and destructive tots.

CROSS-EYE IN ADULTS

T. W. writes: Can cross-eye in a grownup be operated on successfully?

REPLY

Yes, but the effect is mainly cosmetic and vision in the involved eye may not be improved by the procedure.

CHOCOLATE AND ULCER

J. W. writes: I love chocolate candy, ice cream, and cake and undoubtedly eat too much of these things. Could this be responsibile for the development of my ulcer?

REPLY

I doubt it even though the cause of ulcer is unknown. More ulcers develop because of too much tension and responsibility than from dietary indiscretions.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

John Straley tells about a lonesome draftee who had frittered away all but a 25 cent piece of the money he had saved for a wild and vaguely disappointing weekend. The last quarter was to be his bus fare back to camp. Slumped at the bar, however, the quarter slipped out of his hand, and before he could retrieve it, the proprietor's pet monkey had leaped from his perch, grabbed the coin, and swallowed it.

The grouchy proprietor, furthermore, flatly refused to make resutution. "Hang on to yer money better, bud," he growled. "I ain't responsible for dat monkey's actions."

The outraged draftee hauled off and socked the grinning monkey right in the solar plexus. "Grab my last quarter, will you?" he began,

but then let out a yell of glee.

"I'm rich," he cried, scooping up coins from the bar where the monk had coughed up nine dollars and twenty-five cents!

Debate On Censure Of Sen. McCarthy Aroused Some Religious Prejudice

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The more you study what went on behind the scenes in the McCarthy debate the more you reach the unfortunate conclusion that it resembled what took place in prewar Germany. And the better it is to have it terminated.

What fed the McCarthy controversy were ominous undertones of religious prejudice. And though the public phase of the debate fortunately has ended, the seeds of intolerance, recently unloosed, may continue — unless the American people are alert to scotch them.

Significantly, Ludwell Denny, able foreign editor of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, cabled from Bonn this week that "the religious-political strife which helped Hitler is rising again." He goes on to pinpoint Catholic-Protestant rivalry, plus anti-Jewish feeling—all playing into Communist hands.

That should not happen here.

But to a lesser extent, it did happen during the McCarthy debate. Southern senators from Protestant states received vitriolic letters from Northern Catholic areas berating their position on McCarthy. The letters, of course, represented but a small segment of the Catholic faith.

Furthermore, most Catholic senators were against McCarthy. Men like Murray and Mansfield of Montana, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Burke of Ohio, all Catholic, voted their conscience and were against McCarthy. They represent the great majority of Catholics who believe that religion and politics must not mix, and who follow the time-honored Catholic doctrine of brotherly love. But the prejudiced group that bombarded Washington with the idea that McCarthy was being censured because of his religion were so vocal that it hurt the cause of religious tolerance.

Anti-Semitism

Simultaneously, Gerald L. K. Smith, from a secret hiding place in Washington, began pouring a poisonous propaganda barrage into the blood stream of American politics.

Incidentally, it was not my intention, in recently reporting that Rabbi Benjamin Schultz had "joined forces with" Smith in defending McCarthy, to mean that he had physically and personally joined Smith; but rather that he had joined the political forces and groups defending McCarthy. Though Rabbi Schultz came to Washington while Smith was here, I am sure he would never associate himself with Smith's vicious anti-Jewish attacks.

In a fervent, clever appeal for money, dated November 23 and captioned "Still In Washington Tough Battle," Smith poured out this poison:

"Five million dollars are available to the forces that are determined to destroy Senator McCarthy by murder, character assassination, removal from the Senate—anything to make sure that the treason committed against our nation never will be uncovered." (Unfortunately, Monsignor Martin in New York had stated earlier that $5,000,000 had been raised to destroy McCarthy).

"Because of Congress and a few courageous men in both houses," Smith continued, "the conspirators who originally designed this Fabian bureaucratic alien-minded, Jew-financed dictatorship—yes, because of a handful of fighting patriots, they have been unable to set up the complete controls over your life and mine as they originally planned.

"When I came to this city," Smith continued, "I registered at a certain hotel under the name of an employe. I gave no one my hotel address. The second Sunday I was here, Drew Pearson announced where I was, including the room number of Mrs. Smith and myself."

Fulton Lewis Says No

This is a flat denial of a broadcast by Fulton Lewis, the radio champion of Senator McCarthy who has sometimes lent himself to the operations of Gerald L. K. Smith.

Reading at length from my column of November 17, Fulton Jr. correctly quoted me as reporting: "Smith registered as Stephen Goodyear in Room 1017 of the Mayflower Hotel."

Then Fulton continued: "I had a firsthand interest and sympathy, and let us say, curiosity about this Drew Pearson column. . . . As a result I did a little reportorial checking on my own responsibility.

"The records of the Mayflower Hotel show that a Stephen Goodyear was registered in a Room 1017 on Wednesday of last week and that he gave a Tulsa, Oklahoma, address. . . ." Mr. Lewis told his radio audience.

"I placed a long-distance call to Mr. Stephen Goodyear at the Tulsa address under which he was registered, found that no telephone was listed. I then called the police department in Tulsa, found out that there were several telephones listed nearby. I called one of them. The lady to whom I talked said there was such a person as Stephen Goodyear and that she would try to reach him and have him call back.

"In about an hour he did so, informed me that he was registered in Room 1017 at the Mayflower Hotel as of last Wednesday. So," triumphantly concluded Mr. Lewis, "the registration of Stephen Goodyear was his own registration and not any assumed name."

However, if my old friend Fulton had checked a little further he would have found, as Gerald L. K. Smith himself reported, that he did register under an assumed name; further he would have found, as I did, that the bill for Room 1017 was paid for by "E. M. Smith," who is Gerald's wife. In addition he would have found that phone calls for Smith at Room 1017 were being taken in Room 1008, which was occupied by Smith's secretary, Miss Renata le Gant.

This type of routine news-checking right here in Washington would have saved Fulton a lot of long-distance phone calls and bothering Goodyear's neighbors down in Tulsa to call him to the phone. It's the type of news checking I tried to teach Fulton when he worked for me many years ago.

Fulton would have also found, if he had checked a little further, that the use of Stephen Goodyear's name is an old dodge by Gerald L. K. Smith. On May 26, 1953, for instance, Smith announced in his confidential news letter that his followers should ask for him under the name "Stephen Goodyear" at the Willard Hotel in Washington in order to attend a secret meeting of the Citizens Congressional Committee.

The Piranha-Politician

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

To the frequent visitor to the Senate galleries, there is a mysterious fascination in watching the senators in the well below, their figures foreshortened and their balding heads emphasized by the angle of vision. It is something like the fascination some people find in watching fish in an aquarium. As in the case of the fish, after a certain amount of senator-watching, each senator acquires his own instantly recognizeable characteristics.

No group of men could be more oddly assorted. But the gallery watcher soon realizes that they get on amazingly well together. This is partly because the desire to be liked is a characteristic of most politicians. It is partly because, like fish in a tank, they have to get on well together, if the senatorial system is to work at all.

But there are now in the Senate a tiny handful of men who do not give a fig whether they are liked, and do not give a fig for the senatorial system. When they rise to speak, they do not really try to persuade their fellow senators. They hardly pretend to. Their purpose is rather to frighten or dismay or frustrate the Senate, and to use the Senate as an instrument for gaining political power outside the Senate.

Oddly Paralyzing Effect

The effect of the presence in the Senate of this different breed of senator is oddly paralyzing. It is a little as though a few piranhas—the tiny, voraciously carniverous Brazilian fish—had been dumped into a tank of amiable, elderly gold fish.

Three times last Tuesday, the last full day of debate on the McCarthy censure resolution, the piranha-spirit was on display. The first came when Jenner of Indiana leapt to his feet to attack the aging Flanders, of Vermont, with the shrieking, arm-waving frenzy which is his specialty. Everyone knew that Jenner's act was not really meant to convince anyone present that Flanders' rather routine propaganda broadcast to Russia was evilly motivated.

Everyone knew, instead, that it was intended to feed grist to the McCarthyite propaganda mill—and above all to serve notice on other senators of the treatment they could expect if they dared lift their voices against McCarthy and his band.

By no means all the pro-McCarthy senators are piranha-politicians — no man could be more clearly a gold fish-senator than Mundt of South Dakota, for example, and even Dirksen of Illinois, the Liberace of politics, is no political carnivore. The piranha spirit interrupted the habitual, droning senatorial rhythm once again, to be sure, when Welker of Idaho, whose speaking voice drips with almost audible venom, rose to attack Fulbright of Arkansas. But the real climax came late in the afternoon, when flash bulbs in the corridors announced the arrival of the grand inquisitor himself.

Gold Fish Or Piranhas

When McCarthy's oddly swollen figure entered the Senate, the chamber had been depopulated by a tedious pro-McCarthy speech by Mundt. McCarthy had been seated only a few minutes, when he rose to the attack.

Gesturing toward the Democratic side, he rumbled that the sparsely occupied chamber was "the most disgraceful spectacle I have ever seen . . ." He sat down grinning. The point of the grin was not lost on those present. McCarthy himself, the central figure in the debate, had not bothered to enter the chamber that day.

His complaint was, of course, a way of providing material for those busy picturing him as a martyr. But it was more than that. It was his way of expressing his contempt for the silly little gold fish-Senators who had all that day been earnestly debating what course the Senate should adopt in regard to him. As if to underline his contempt, McCarthy lumbered to his feet in a few minutes, and, still grinning, left the chamber for the day.

In its way, this small, unnoticed episode suggested what the censure debate has really been all about—who shall rule the Senate tank, the gold fish or the piranhas. In a more general sense, the debate has also been about whether the piranha-politicians, whose greatest weapon is what Fulbright called "contempt for the human personality," are to dominate American politics.

Chapter III of the constitution is a bill of rights which, while adapted to special conditions in Red China, closely follows the constitution of Soviet Russia. The rights to work, to leisure and to social security are guaranteed. Article 100 reads:

"Citizens of the People's Republic of China must abide by the constitution and the law, observe labour discipline and public order and respect social ethics."

By observing "labour discipline" the worker renounces his right to strike or even to object to stakhanovism which is the Soviet method of speed-up. It reduces the worker to a slave of the state which alone determines wages, hours and working conditions. What specifically is meant by "social ethics" depends upon the interpretation of the moment. For instance, when Zhdanov was the arbiter of social ethics in the Soviet Union, he determined what music could properly be composed and what literature could be written. The theory is the same in all Marxist countries, although the application of social ethics cannot wholly be divorced from local custom.

Peaceful Co-Existence Gets A Workout

McCarthy Censure Will Bring Change In Red Probes

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — This week marks a milestone in American history. For this week sees the beginning of the end of effective investigation by committees of Congress into communistic activities inside or outside the government.

Adoption of the censure motion against Senator McCarthy means the squelching of all effective efforts in that direction not only by the Wisconsin senator himself but those of any other senator.

For the die has been cast. In response to a widespread wave of passion throughout the country, the Senate, by an overwhelming majority, has voted resolutions of censure which will frighten any other senator in the future who ventures to pursue an investigation of communism.

Likewise, free speech as the Senate has known it heretofore has now been abolished and only those senators who conform — in their thinking and speaking—to the dictates of a temporary majority in the Senate can hereafter feel safe against the adoption of censure resolutions.

Chairmen Pilloried

It is ironical that a crusade which began on the theory that Senator McCarthy was stifling free speech and insisting on conformity of thought now has wound up with a restriction upon the members of the United States Senate themselves who may hereafter try to express a dissenting viewpoint.

Many senators—in fact, most of them—will deny vehemently that their censure resolution against Senator McCarthy means any such drastic change. They will insist that investigations of communistic activity will go on with unabated zeal. But, while that will be the claim, realism requires that the true situation be reported. One by one, the chairmen of committees investigating communism have been pilloried, beginning with Representative Martin Dies of Texas, Democrat. After the treatment given Senator McCarthy, what senator will wish to risk censure or public calumny? Recalcitrant witnesses will be encouraged to new defiance of congressional inquiries.

Already proposals are being made that a joint committee be formed from members of both houses to deal with the investigation of Communists. But anyone familiar with the techniques of congressional committees knows that this is an insidious way to kill off any effective inquiry. Joint committees have no centralized responsibility, and it is difficult for a staff to be assembled which can do an efficient job under such joint control.

So, for all practical purposes, the fight that has been made by a valiant group of Americans other than Senator McCarthy to expose communism inside America has been lost.

Much of the responsibility for what has happened, curiously enough, must be borne by Senator McCarthy himself. As a tactician in the fight against him personally, he has made blunder after blunder. He had a good case on legal and constitutional grounds but he muffed it—indeed, he forfeited it—by insisting on constant attacks on his fellow senators at the special session that began November 8.

"I realize," a senator who voted against McCarthy said to this correspondent privately, "that there are many good arguments against censure, but Joe simply showed his contempt for his fellow senators and they are all human after all."

Precedent Established

So Senator McCarthy lost his own battle, and his colleagues in the Senate were not able to rise above the passions of the hour or their own sense of indignation to refuse to write into the record a precedent that will pleague the Senators for decades to come. The closing hours of the debate on Wednesday showed how perplexed and bewildered some of the senators were as they struggled with the legal phases only to find themselves influenced finally by the personality prejudices involved.

Abuse of Senator McCarthy during the debate and the use of intemperate language about him rendered absurd the pious statement that the Senate was trying to uphold its own dignity. As for "traditional conduct," the Senate has never been any different from what it has been this week. Senator Lehman, for instance, made a bitter attack on Senator McCarthy in violation of Senate rules, but all that happened to him was an order to take his seat and a moment later he was permitted to proceed. Nobody mentioned censure for him.

The fact remains that only the man who fought communism has been or will be censured. Senator McCarthy, of course, deserved a rebuke for his attacks on fellow senators, but many of those same attacks were provoked. And the Watkins Committee itself held that provocation is a basis for withholding censure in certain circumstances.

The net result of it all is not only a defeat for Senator McCarthy—who will, of course, appeal to the country for vindication—but also a defeat for those who have felt that communistic activities should be exposed through relentless investigations by congressional committees.

No Substitute Exists For Normal, Well Balanced Diet

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

That many readers are interested in diet is obvious from our mail. Food is important to health and there is no substitute for a normal, well balanced diet unless the physician recommends a special regimen.

A Chicago reader stated she could not afford vitamin tablets and wanted to know what foods supply these supplements. She was told that fruits and vegetables contain vitamin C and that orange juice has more C than does any other citrus fruit.

By coincidence, I noted an editorial in Postgraduate Medicine, on the vitamin C (ascorbic acid) content of the West Indian cherry. This tree has grown wild in Puerto Rico for centuries but no one paid much attention to it until 1945. At that time, the suggestion was made that the fruit might have special properties and subsequent studies showed it to be rich in vitamin C.

The initial investigation was handicapped by the fact that the vitamin C content was too high to be measured by the usual methods. When one part of this cherry juice is added to 10 parts of pear, peach, pineapple, or grape juice, the vitamin C yield of the mixture is well above that of ordinary orange juice. Undoubtedly we will hear more of the Puerto Rico product.

Numerous questions are asked about seasoning. To my knowledge, little research has been done along this line. The amount used is dictated by custom and taste and it is surprising how much condiments the normal gastrointestinal tract can take without rebelling. But these substances are the first to be crossed from the list when ulcer or other digestive disorders arise.

To make meals tasty, some nutritionists recommend natural flavoring such as celery stalks, leaves, seed, and salt, as well as sweet peppers, parsley, and soup greens. These seasonings would replace onion or garlic. Dressings made from lime, lemon, and grapefruit juice offer variety. In marinating meats, fish, and other proteins, lemon juice makes the dish more appealing.

Letters concerning the diet of oldsters also are plentiful. Again, we advocate normal, well balanced menus, making allowances for dental problems and medical conditions requiring special foods. The elderly do not tolerate radical changes, hence the meals should follow the old familiar pattern except in overweights who ought to decrease the caloric intake. The common belief that the old must avoid proteins is erroneous.

An Illinois reader closed her letter with the question: "What do you think of oldsters in an institution having to eat reguarly cream soups and sauces, barbecued and fried meats, fritters, and heavily spiced foods?" These menus are rich for most people. I feel certain she and her friends in the institution will have less indigestion if they can encourage the chef to serve plainer meals.

TOMORROW: Contrary and destructive tots.

CROSS-EYE IN ADULTS

T. W. writes: Can cross-eye in a grownup be operated on successfully?

REPLY

Yes, but the effect is mainly cosmetic and vision in the involved eye may not be improved by the procedure.

CHOCOLATE AND ULCER

J. W. writes: I love chocolate candy, ice cream, and cake and undoubtedly eat too much of these things. Could this be responsible for the development of my ulcer?

REPLY

I doubt it even though the cause of ulcer is unknown. More ulcers develop because of too much tension and responsibility than from dietary indiscretions.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

John Straley tells about a lonesome draftee who had frittered away all but a 25 cent piece of the money he had saved for a wild and vaguely disappointing weekend. The last quarter was to be his bus fare back to camp. Slumped at the bar, however, the quarter slipped out of his hand, and before he could retrieve it, the proprietor's pet monkey had leaped from his perch, grabbed the coin, and swallowed it.

The grouchy proprietor, furthermore, flatly refused to make resutution. "Hang on to yer money better, bud," he growled. "I ain't responsible for dat monkey's actions."

The outraged draftee hauled off and socked the grinning monkey right in the solar plexus. "Grab my last quarter, will you?" he began,

but then let out a yell of glee.

"I'm rich," he cried, scooping up coins from the bar where the monk had coughed up nine dollars and twenty-five cents!

Debate On Censure Of Sen. McCarthy Aroused Some Religious Prejudice

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — The more you study what went on behind the scenes in the McCarthy debate the more you reach the unfortunate conclusion that it resembled what took place in prewar Germany. And the better it is to have it terminated.

What fed the McCarthy controversy were ominous undertones of religious prejudice. And though the public phase of the debate fortunately has ended, the seeds of intolerance, recently unloosed, may continue — unless the American people are alert to scotch them.

Significantly, Ludwell Denny, able foreign editor of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, cabled from Bonn this week that "the religious-political strife which helped Hitler is rising again." He goes on to pinpoint Catholic-Protestant rivalry, plus anti-Jewish feeling—all playing into Communist hands.

That should not happen here.

But to a lesser extent, it did happen during the McCarthy debate. Southern senators from Protestant states received vitriolic letters from Northern Catholic areas berating their position on McCarthy. The letters, of course, represented but a small segment of the Catholic faith.

Furthermore, most Catholic senators were against McCarthy. Men like Murray and Mansfield of Montana, O'Mahoney of Wyoming, Burke of Ohio, all Catholic, voted their conscience and were against McCarthy. They represent the great majority of Catholics who believe that religion and politics must not mix, and who follow the time-honored Catholic doctrine of brotherly love. But the prejudiced group that bombarded Washington with the idea that McCarthy was being censured because of his religion were so vocal that it hurt the cause of religious tolerance.

Anti-Semitism

Simultaneously, Gerald L. K. Smith, from a secret hiding place in Washington, began pouring a poisonous propaganda barrage into the blood stream of American politics.

Incidentally, it was not my intention, in recently reporting that Rabbi Benjamin Schultz had "joined forces with" Smith in defending McCarthy, to mean that he had physically and personally joined Smith; but rather that he had joined the political forces and groups defending McCarthy. Though Rabbi Schultz came to Washington while Smith was here, I am sure he would never associate himself with Smith's vicious anti-Jewish attacks.

In a fervent, clever appeal for money, dated November 23 and captioned "Still In Washington Tough Battle," Smith poured out this poison:

"Five million dollars are available to the forces that are determined to destroy Senator McCarthy by murder, character assassination, removal from the Senate—anything to make sure that the treason committed against our nation never will be uncovered." (Unfortunately, Monsignor Martin in New York had stated earlier that $5,000,000 had been raised to destroy McCarthy).

"Because of Congress and a few courageous men in both houses," Smith continued, "the conspirators who originally designed this Fabian bureaucratic alien-minded, Jew-financed dictatorship—yes, because of a handful of fighting patriots, they have been unable to set up the complete controls over your life and mine as they originally planned.

"When I came to this city," Smith continued, "I registered at a certain hotel under the name of an employe. I gave no one my hotel address. The second Sunday I was here, Drew Pearson announced where I was, including the room number of Mrs. Smith and myself."

Fulton Lewis Says No

This is a flat denial of a broadcast by Fulton Lewis, the radio champion of Senator McCarthy who has sometimes lent himself to the operations of Gerald L. K. Smith.

Reading at length from my column of November 17, Fulton Jr. correctly quoted me as reporting: "Smith registered as Stephen Goodyear in Room 1017 of the Mayflower Hotel."

Then Fulton continued: "I had a firsthand interest and sympathy, and let us say, curiosity about this Drew Pearson column. . . . As a result I did a little reportorial checking on my own responsibility.

"The records of the Mayflower Hotel show that a Stephen Goodyear was registered in a Room 1017 on Wednesday of last week and that he gave a Tulsa, Oklahoma, address. . . ." Mr. Lewis told his radio audience.

"I placed a long-distance call to Mr. Stephen Goodyear at the Tulsa address under which he was registered, found that no telephone was listed. I then called the police department in Tulsa, found out that there were several telephones listed nearby. I called one of them. The lady to whom I talked said there was such a person as Stephen Goodyear and that she would try to reach him and have him call back.

"In about an hour he did so, informed me that he was registered in Room 1017 at the Mayflower Hotel as of last Wednesday. So," triumphantly concluded Mr. Lewis, "the registration of Stephen Goodyear was his own registration and not any assumed name."

However, if my old friend Fulton had checked a little further he would have found, as Gerald L. K. Smith himself reported, that he did register under an assumed name; further he would have found, as I did, that the bill for Room 1017 was paid for by "E. M. Smith," who is Gerald's wife. In addition he would have found that phone calls for Smith at Room 1017 were being taken in Room 1008, which was occupied by Smith's secretary, Miss Renata le Gant.

This type of routine news-checking right here in Washington would have saved Fulton a lot of long-distance phone calls and bothering Goodyear's neighbors down in Tulsa to call him to the phone. It's the type of news checking I tried to teach Fulton when he worked for me many years ago.

Fulton would have also found, if he had checked a little further, that the use of Stephen Goodyear's name is an old dodge by Gerald L. K. Smith. On May 26, 1953, for instance, Smith announced in his confidential news letter that his followers should ask for him under the name "Stephen Goodyear" at the Willard Hotel in Washington in order to attend a secret meeting of the Citizens Congressional Committee.

The Piranha-Politician

By Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON

To the frequent visitor to the Senate galleries, there is a mysterious fascination in watching the senators in the well below, their figures foreshortened and their balding heads emphasized by the angle of vision. It is something like the fascination some people find in watching fish in an aquarium. As in the case of the fish, after a certain amount of senator-watching, each senator acquires his own instantly recognizeable characteristics.

No group of men could be more oddly assorted. But the gallery watcher soon realizes that they get on amazingly well together. This is partly because the desire to be liked is a characteristic of most politicians. It is partly because, like fish in a tank, they have to get on well together, if the senatorial system is to work at all.

But there are now in the Senate a tiny handful of men who do not give a fig whether they are liked, and do not give a fig for the senatorial system. When they rise to speak, they do not really try to persuade their fellow senators. They hardly pretend to. Their purpose is rather to frighten or dismay or frustrate the Senate, and to use the Senate as an instrument for gaining political power outside the Senate.

Oddly Paralyzing Effect

The effect of the presence in the Senate of this different breed of senator is oddly paralyzing. It is a little as though a few piranhas—the tiny, voraciously carniverous Brazilian fish—had been dumped into a tank of amiable, elderly gold fish.

Three times last Tuesday, the last full day of debate on the McCarthy censure resolution, the piranha-spirit was on display. The first came when Jenner of Indiana leapt to his feet to attack the aging Flanders, of Vermont, with the shrieking, arm-waving frenzy which is his specialty. Everyone knew that Jenner's act was not really meant to convince anyone present that Flanders' rather routine propaganda broadcast to Russia was evilly motivated.

Everyone knew, instead, that it was intended to feed grist to the McCarthyite propaganda mill—and above all to serve notice on other senators of the treatment they could expect if they dared lift their voices against McCarthy and his band.

By no means all the pro-McCarthy senators are piranha-politicians — no man could be more clearly a gold fish-senator than Mundt of South Dakota, for example, and even Dirksen of Illinois, the Liberace of politics, is no political carnivore. The piranha spirit interrupted the habitual, droning senatorial rhythm once again, to be sure, when Welker of Idaho, whose speaking voice drips with almost audible venom, rose to attack Fulbright of Arkansas. But the real climax came late in the afternoon, when flash bulbs in the corridors announced the arrival of the grand inquisitor himself.

Gold Fish Or Piranhas

When McCarthy's oddly swollen figure entered the Senate, the chamber had been depopulated by a tedious pro-McCarthy speech by Mundt. McCarthy had been seated only a few minutes, when he rose to the attack.

Gesturing toward the Democratic side, he rumbled that the sparsely occupied chamber was "the most disgraceful spectacle I have ever seen . . ." He sat down grinning. The point of the grin was not lost on those present. McCarthy himself, the central figure in the debate, had not bothered to enter the chamber that day.

His complaint was, of course, a way of providing material for those busy picturing him as a martyr. But it was more than that. It was his way of expressing his contempt for the silly little gold fish-Senators who had all that day been earnestly debating what course the Senate should adopt in regard to him. As if to underline his contempt, McCarthy lumbered to his feet in a few minutes, and, still grinning, left the chamber for the day.

In its way, this small, unnoticed episode suggested what the censure debate has really been all about—who shall rule the Senate tank, the gold fish or the piranhas. In a more general sense, the debate has also been about whether the piranha-politicians, whose greatest weapon is what Fulbright called "contempt for the human personality," are to dominate American politics.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2 (INS) — Marlon Brando is being paged to play Ben Hur in MGM's eight-million-dollar epic. This will be filmed in Rome, just as was the first "Ben Hur," and since Brando loves Rome, Sam Zimbalist, the producer, believes he'll accept.

It's very interesting that Sidney Franklin, who hasn't directed a picture in 15 years (not since "Good Earth"), has agreed to return to direct "Ben Hur." He hasn't done film work of any kind for a year-and-a-half, and he tells me he's put on 35 pounds, which he could well afford.

Sam says that he is happy that Dore Schary was able to persuade Sidney Franklin to return to directing because there is no more creative mind in Hollywood.

Let me tell you that Bing Crosby's performance as the weakling song and dance man fighting alcohol in "The Country Girl" will knock you right out of your theater seat — that's how great Der Bingle is in his most dramatic role.

"Country Girl," produced by William Perlberg and directed by George Seaton, has three fine performances, the other two contributed by Grace Kelly and William Holden.

Have no fears that Bing's popularity will suffer because of playing a drunkard. Art is art, and our Bing has completely lost himself in a characterization foreign to his own personality.

Rosalind Russell telephoned to invite me to the Flamingo in Las Vegas when she starts there on "Girl Rush," her next picture.

"We leave next Saturday," said Roz. "The equipment for our picture goes ahead and Freddie will set up everything before I arrive."

"What about your playing the school teacher in 'Picnic' with Bill Holden?" I asked her.

"I haven't said yes — but I haven't said no, and I really want to do it. I like the part."

"Then if you want to do it and Jerry Wald is enthusiastic about having you — you'll do it," I told her.

"Beach House," the book by Stephen Longstreet which pictured Hollywood in such a miserable way, is being put on the stage. And here's the laugh: Ralph Rose, the playwright, is changing the locale from Hollywood to a community outside of Detroit. Well, maybe the automobile industry can take it!

It's the story of an independent auotmobile manufacturer bucking the big combines. Marvin Miller, who was the announcer on my radio show for seven years, is being scught for the top role.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bing Crosby escorted Mona Freeman to Bobbie Perlberg's birthday party in Palm Springs.

Gregory Peck gets in town in about a week, at which time he will discuss settlement with Greta, who's now holding out for more. She's no longer as heartbroken as she was when they parted.

Vincent Price has been offered the Charles Laughton role in the road company of "Don Juan In Hell," produced by Paul Gregory.

Betty (Mrs. Robert) Young and the four daughters were on the telephone for an hour after father received the Sylvania award for the best family entertainment for his TV show "Father Knows Best."

Allan Jones is back from his Australian tour, and he has been seeing his ex-wife, Irene Hervey — but Irene says it's no reconciliation.

Dorothy Malone arrived home from Texas today. She's getting ready for a musical, and so she has enrolled at Arthur Murray's dance school.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

TRANSPOSE THE HANDS

NO STATISTICS exist to show how many contracts depend for their success upon which defender's hand is at the declarer's right and which at the left. But it is surely a considerable percentage of all contracts. Indeed, it can make a difference of much more than a single crucial trick, perhaps five or more tricks. In other words, you must not give yourself too much credit when you make certain contracts or blame yourself too much if you fail with them.

3 NT

West explained his second bid later as being because East, with a minimum, might have passed either 3-Spades or 2-No Trumps and he wanted to be sure to have a game contract. He certainly made a game, as he took all of the tricks.

North decided to open the diamond 7, the A taking the J. West immediately put the club Q through, ran five spade tricks, finessed the club J, dropped the K with the A, then took the rest of dummy's clubs. When the last was led, he had also in dummy two diamonds and in his own holding the heart K and diamond K-2. South had clung to the heart A and the diamond Q-9, but was squeezed by the final club. To hold the heart topper, he discarded the diamond 9, whereupon the diamond 6 to the K felled the Q and the diamond 10 took the last trick to give him all thirteen.

See what a difference there would have been if the North and South hands had been transposed, except for the diamond 7 being in place of the 8. South then could have won the second trick, when West finessed the club Q, and could have shifted to hearts. That would have given the defenders four heart tricks plus a club to beat the contract—a difference of five tricks.

Czechs Propose 8-Nation Pact

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP) — Spurred by the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia today proposed a combined eight-nation Communist military command and East Germany called for an army of its own as Eastern Europe's answer to the prospective rearming of the West Germans.

Czech Premier Vilem Siroky and East German Premier Otto Grotewohl advanced their proposals at the Communist nations' European security conference organized by the Soviet Union in an effort to prevent or delay ratification of the Paris agreements by the Western powers.

Those agreements—scheduled for ratification by March 1—would bring a near-sovereign, rearmed West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a defensive alliance against aggression.

A suggestion of a Communist combined military command appeared in a speech yesterday by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in opening the conference, to which Communist China has sent observers.

Besides the Soviet Union—which undoubtedly would head the combined command—Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Romania, East Germany, and six of the Soviet Union's republics are represented.

The magnetic poles change their positions.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2 (INS) — Marlon Brando is being paged to play Ben Hur in MGM's eight-million-dollar epic. This will be filmed in Rome, just as was the first "Ben Hur," and since Brando loves Rome, Sam Zimbalist, the producer, believes he'll accept.

It's very interesting that Sidney Franklin, who hasn't directed a picture in 15 years (not since "Good Earth"), has agreed to return to direct "Ben Hur." He hasn't done film work of any kind for a year-and-a-half, and he tells me he's put on 35 pounds, which he could well afford.

Sam says that he is happy that Dore Schary was able to persuade Sidney Franklin to return to directing because there is no more creative mind in Hollywood.

Let me tell you that Bing Crosby's performance as the weakling song and dance man fighting alcohol in "The Country Girl" will knock you right out of your theater seat — that's how great Der Bingle is in his most dramatic role.

"Country Girl," produced by William Perlberg and directed by George Seaton, has three fine performances, the other two contributed by Grace Kelly and William Holden.

Have no fears that Bing's popularity will suffer because of playing a drunkard. Art is art, and our Bing has completely lost himself in a characterization foreign to his own personality.

Rosalind Russell telephoned to invite me to the Flamingo in Las Vegas when she starts there on "Girl Rush," her next picture.

"We leave next Saturday," said Roz. "The equipment for our picture goes ahead and Freddie will set up everything before I arrive."

"What about your playing the school teacher in 'Picnic' with Bill Holden?" I asked her.

"I haven't said yes — but I haven't said no, and I really want to do it. I like the part."

"Then if you want to do it and Jerry Wald is enthusiastic about having you — you'll do it," I told her.

"Beach House," the book by Stephen Longstreet which pictured Hollywood in such a miserable way, is being put on the stage. And here's the laugh: Ralph Rose, the playwright, is changing the locale from Hollywood to a community outside of Detroit. Well, maybe the automobile industry can take it!

It's the story of an independent auotmobile manufacturer bucking the big combines. Marvin Miller, who was the announcer on my radio show for seven years, is being scught for the top role.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Bing Crosby escorted Mona Freeman to Bobbie Perlberg's birthday party in Palm Springs.

Gregory Peck gets in town in about a week, at which time he will discuss settlement with Greta, who's now holding out for more. She's no longer as heartbroken as she was when they parted.

Vincent Price has been offered the Charles Laughton role in the road company of "Don Juan In Hell," produced by Paul Gregory.

Betty (Mrs. Robert) Young and the four daughters were on the telephone for an hour after father received the Sylvania award for the best family entertainment for his TV show "Father Knows Best."

Allan Jones is back from his Australian tour, and he has been seeing his ex-wife, Irene Hervey — but Irene says it's no reconciliation.

Dorothy Malone arrived home from Texas today. She's getting ready for a musical, and so she has enrolled at Arthur Murray's dance school.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

TRANSPOSE THE HANDS

NO STATISTICS exist to show how many contracts depend for their success upon which defender's hand is at the declarer's right and which at the left. But it is surely a considerable percentage of all contracts. Indeed, it can make a difference of much more than a single crucial trick, perhaps five or more tricks. In other words, you must not give yourself too much credit when you make certain contracts or blame yourself too much if you fail with them.

	♠ 8 6 5 ♥ Q J 10 3 ♦ 7 4 ♣ K 8 7 3
♠ A K Q 4 2 ♥ K 9 6 ♦ A K 2 ♣ Q 2	N W E S	♠ J 10 3 ♥ 8 5 ♦ 10 6 3 ♣ A J 10 6 5
	♠ 9 7 ♥ A 7 4 2 ♦ Q J 9 8 5 ♣ 9 4

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 NT

West explained his second bid later as being because East, with a minimum, might have passed either 3-Spades or 2-No Trumps and he wanted to be sure to have a game contract. He certainly made a game, as he took all of the tricks.

North decided to open the diamond 7, the A taking the J. West immediately put the club Q through, ran five spade tricks, finessed the club J, dropped the K with the A, then took the rest of dummy's clubs. When the last was led, he had also in dummy two diamonds and in his own holding the heart K and diamond K-2. South had clung to the heart A and the diamond Q-9, but was squeezed by the final club. To hold the heart topper, he discarded the diamond 9, whereupon the diamond 6 to the K felled the Q and the diamond 10 took the last trick to give him all thirteen.

See what a difference there would have been if the North and South hands had been transposed, except for the diamond 7 being in place of the 8. South then could have won the second trick, when West finessed the club Q, and could have shifted to hearts. That would have given the defenders four heart tricks plus a club to beat the contract—a difference of five tricks.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

After South's 1-Spade and North's 2-Spades, what would you do in the East? Are you sure of your answer?

Military warrants, horses, cows, oxen, cowbells, acres of land and even whisky were used as mediums of exchange in the United States before the general use of currency and bank notes.

American coins are made of alloys so that the metal is harder and will wear longer. Dimes, quarters and halves are 90 per cent silver and 10 per cent copper.

Czechs Propose 8-Nation Pact

MOSCOW, Dec. 2 (AP) — Spurred by the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia today proposed a combined eight-nation Communist military command and East Germany called for an army of its own as Eastern Europe's answer to the prospective rearming of the West Germans.

Czech Premier Vilem Siroky and East German Premier Otto Grotewohl advanced their proposals at the Communist nations' European security conference organized by the Soviet Union in an effort to prevent or delay ratification of the Paris agreements by the Western powers.

Those agreements—scheduled for ratification by March 1—would bring a near-sovereign, rearmed West Germany into the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, a defensive alliance against aggression.

A suggestion of a Communist combined military command appeared in a speech yesterday by Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov in opening the conference, to which Communist China has sent observers.

Besides the Soviet Union—which undoubtedly would head the combined command—Albania, Bulgaria, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Poland, Romania, East Germany, and six of the Soviet Union's republics are represented.

Didn't Get To See Screen Star In Person

ROME, Dec. 2 (AP)—The Argentine national soccer team, here for a game against Italy on Sunday, went to the movies today to see Gina Lollobrigida.

They wanted to see the buxom Italian actress in person but had to settle for the celluloid version. Gina is on a personal appearance tour—in Argentina.

The magnetic poles change their positions.

Variety A-Plenty

With the addition of pork to both the strained and junior meat lines and veal and chicken to the strained, your baby now has as much variety flavorwise as the rest of the family. For he has specially packed for him in 3½-ounce glass jars a most tempting array of beef, beef heart, liver, liver and bacon, lamb, and now pork, veal and chicken. There's a different flavor for every day of the week —even Sunday!

Nutritionwise he's really taken care of, too! For these new meats are packed with bone-and-muscle building proteins and anemia-preventing iron. Since baby's demand for both these properties is higher in proportion to weight than that of an adult, these are mighty important foods.

Check with your doctor about feeding your baby these different varieties of meats, then stock up on those convenient, vacuum-sealed jars that you can find on your grocer's shelf. Open, heat and feed —that's all there is to treating your young son or daughter to health and happiness.

And, to round out the meal for the toddler, try junior green beans and potatoes. It's also new!

Frankfurter Two-Deckers

Stuffing The 20-Pounder

Use the same amount of stuffing for a turkey weighing 20 pounds or more. The abdominal cavities of large birds are approximately the same size, the difference in weight is due to the added amount of meat on the carcass. Allow three-quarters cup of stuffing per pound of poultry, dressed weight, or one cup per pound, ready-to-cook weight.

Stuffing Roll-Ups

Fashion a luncheon dish by first shaping the baked stuffing left from the holiday meal or Sunday dinner into finger rolls. Wrap rolls in thin slices of ham or bacon. Place "fingers" in a shallow pan and bake until meat is done.

CLOROX® makes linens more than white ...it makes them sanitary, too!

No other home laundering product does as good a job of protecting health as Clorox ...the most efficient germ-killer of its kind! And your own eyes tell you your white cottons and linens are snowy-white when they're Clorox-clean. For Clorox removes dinginess, stains, even scorch and mildew!

Clorox leaves cottons and linens... including diapers... fresh smelling, even when dried indoors, because Clorox deodorizes. Also, Clorox is extra gentle, free from caustic... made by a patented, exclusive formula. And there are no gritty particles in Clorox, a liquid, to damage your wash or washing machine.

CLOROX is easy and economical to use in routine cleaning, too!

Besides deodorizing and removing stains from kitchen and bathroom surfaces, Clorox also disinfects... protects family health. And, Clorox does all three jobs without scrubbing. Hundreds of public health departments recommend the Clorox type of disinfection. See the label for many other helpful cleaning hints and directions.

When it's CLOROX-clean...it's SAFER for family health!

Variety A-Plenty

With the addition of pork to both the strained and junior meat lines and veal and chicken to the strained, your baby now has as much variety flavorwise as the rest of the family. For he has specially packed for him in 3½-ounce glass jars a most tempting array of beef, beef heart, liver, liver and bacon, lamb, and now pork, veal and chicken. There's a different flavor for every day of the week—even Sunday!

Nutritionwise he's really taken care of, too! For these new meats are packed with bone-and-muscle building proteins and anemia-preventing iron. Since baby's demand for both these properties is higher in proportion to weight than that of an adult, these are mighty important foods.

Check with your doctor about feeding your baby these different varieties of meats, then stock up on those convenient, vacuum-sealed jars that you can find on your grocer's shelf. Open, heat and feed—that's all there is to treating your young son or daughter to health and happiness.

And, to round out the meal for the toddler, try junior green beans and potatoes. It's also new!

Frankfurter Two-Deckers

Stuffing The 20-Pounder

Use the same amount of stuffing for a turkey weighing 20 pounds or more. The abdominal cavities of large birds are approximately the same size, the difference in weight is due to the added amount of meat on the carcass. Allow three-quarters cup of stuffing per pound of poultry, dressed weight, or one cup per pound, ready-to-cook weight.

Stuffing Roll-Ups

Fashion a luncheon dish by first shaping the baked stuffing left from the holiday meal or Sunday dinner into finger rolls. Wrap rolls in thin slices of ham or bacon. Place "fingers" in a shallow pan and bake until meat is done.

Ideas Are Unlimited ForPot-Roasts

Beef pot-roasts can pop up on your menus is as many different ways as your imagination will stretch. In the first place, there are so many shapes and sizes of pot-roasts from which to choose—arm, blade, triangle, boneless chuck and rump pot-roasts. You can also vary them by the seasonings and by the liquid and vegetables with which they are cooked.

Braising is the method recommended for producing tender, juicy pot-roasts. Use a heavy kettle which has a tight fitting lid. Add about two tablespoons of lard or drippings, unless there is considerable fat on the meat itself. Brown meat slowly on all sides. The meat may be floured before browning, if desired. Season with salt and pepper. Any other desired seasoning may be added. Add a small amount of liquid, not more than ½ cup; more may be added later, if necessary, a little at a time. Cover closely, reduce the temperature and continue cooking until the meat is tender.

If you wish to cook the meat in the oven, use the some procedure. Brown meat on top of the range, add liquid and cover. Then transfer to a 300 degrees F. oven and cook until meat is tender.

Chilean Pot-Roast

3 to 4 pound beef arm or blade pot-roast; 3 tablespoons lard or drippings; 2 teaspoons salt; ¼ teaspoon pepper; 1 teaspoon chili powder; ½ cup juice from tomatoes 1 No. 303 can tomatoes, drained; 1 No. 303 can kidney beans; 4 tablespoons flour; 1 cup water.

Brown the pot-roast slowly in lard or drippings. Season. Add tomato juice. Cover closely and simmer 2½ hours or until almost tender, on top or range or in a slow oven (300°F.) Add additional liquid if necessary. Add tomatoes and kidney beans and simmer for 15 minutes. Remove meat and vegetables. Blend flour with water and thicken cooking liquid, allowing 2 tablespoons flour for each cup liquid. 6 to 8 servings.

You can prepare a fruit salad or fruit plate ahead of time. Cover it with waxed paper or aluminum foil and store in the refrigerator.

Oyster Stew For A Real Treat

There are several places in the United States that are famous for just one thing, and that is the oyster stew they serve. One of the most famous places prepares the stew to order right before your eyes, and many a homemaker would be amazed to find that it is a very simple operation. The recipe given here if followed to the letter makes a really delicious stew. Remember to cook the oysters lazily in butter, just until the edges curl, and make certain that your milk is scalding hot when the oysters reach this stage.

Not only is Oyster Stew a favorite of many for its fine flavor, but the use of butter and milk in the preparation, confirms its high nutritive value. Milk is one of the finest "blenders" available to the homemaker. The bland flavor blends well with many foods, and of course, there is no food like milk when it comes to supplying calcium and its many other valuable nutrients.

Oyster Stew satisfies the taste of those who enjoy good food, but it must be made with butter. Butter added for that extra flavor, gives a certain something to Oyster Stew that only butter can give.

OYSTER STEW

1 pint oysters
6 tablespoons butter
1 quart milk, scalded
½ teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
Paprika

Drain and save liquor from oysters. Melt butter in saucepan, add oysters, and cook slowly until edges begin to curl. Add oyster liquor, hot milk, salt and pepper. Pour into bowls and top with paprika and extra butter. Serves 6.

1 cup sugar
1 tbsp. flour
1½ cup water
¼ tsp. salt

With scissors, snip stems off the Figs. Then cut them into small bits and combine with remaining ingredients in a saucepan. Place over medium heat and stir constantly until the mixture thickens and the Figs are tender. Cool before placing on the cookies.

Unlike some other rabbits, the newborn snowshoe rabbit has its eyes open and can run around the day it is born.

The moon has a surface one-fourteenth as large as the earth.

Christmas Present Cookies

¾ cup shortening
½ tsp. salt
1¼ cups sugar
2 eggs
¼ cup milk
2 cups sifted all-purpose flour
2 tsps. baking powder
½ tsp. each vanilla and lemon flavoring

Cream the shortening. Add the salt, sugar and eggs and cream again. Add the milk and cream until very fluffy. Sift the flour, measure and sift again with the baking powder. Add the flavoring and mix well. Roll out and cut into circles. Place a teaspoonful of Fig Filling on half the rounds. Cover with the remaining rounds. Dampen edges slightly and press circles together firmly with a fork. Bake in a moderate oven (375° F.) for about 15 minutes or until delicate brown. To be very fancy, color the cookie dough pale green, decorate with red ornamental frosting if desired.

Little Beauty Plum And Fig Pudding

A simplified Plum and Fig Pudding that will bake while you prepare the Christmas Eve Supper or Christmas Dinner. Dress it up when you serve it right in the casserole. Border it with holly leaves, put a burning candle on a whole Fig stuck in the center of the pudding. Pass your best hard sauce made days ahead, covered tight and kept in the refrigerator for this moment:

About 20 California Dried Figs
1 package waffle-cream type cookies
2½ cups milk
3 eggs
½ cup sugar
2 tbsps. powdered cocoa
1 tsp. each cinnamon, all-spice and nutmeg
1 cup seeded raisins, cut into bits
1 cup chopped walnut meats
4 tbsps. butter or margarine

Cover the Figs with hot water and let stand for 10 minutes. Drain. With scissors, snip off the stems, then snip the Figs into small bits. Cut the raisins into thirds. Combine all ingredients in a casserole which has been buttered. Dot top of the pudding with the remaining butter. Place the casserole in a pan of hot water. Bake for about 40 minutes in a moderate oven (350° F.) or until pudding is "set." Serve warm with hard sauce. Serves 6-7.

At the time most automobiles are consigned to the scrap heap, they are about 14 year old and have gone 121,000 miles.

Dark Sweet Cherry Foldovers Straight Route To Man's Heart

Of course you know the way to a man's heart . . . but if you want a direct route with no detours, serve him plump, canned sweet cherries often, in dozens of different ways. Grown in the vast orchards of the West Coast where the climate is perfect for bringing out their superlative flavor, sweet cherries have a warmth and hominess about them that's as appealing to a man as a huge fire and a big leather chair.

Since there's not a man alive who doesn't like pastry, these cherry foldovers are bound to be doubly potent. The sweet juiciness of the cherries, combined with tender, flaky crust is a sure winner. Allow for seconds all round, because these are real taste-tempters. No need for you to mention how quickly and easily you stirred these foldovers up. Keep mum and let him think you spent hours over them just for him!

Cherry Dessert Foldovers

1 No. 2 can Bing Cherries
2 cups biscuit mix
½-⅔ cups milk
1 tablespoon melted butter

Drain cherries well and pit. Save juice to thicken for sauce. Add milk to biscuit mix to form a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently four or five times. Roll out into rectangle about 10 inches square. Cut dough into eight small rectagles approximately 2½" x 5" long. Brush with melted butter. Place three or four cherries on one-half of each strip. Fold other end of strip over fruit. Press edges together with fork tines. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 425 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes. Serve hot or cold with fruit sauce made from juice and remaining cherries in can.

Cherry Sauce

1 cup cherry juice
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoons lemon juice

Mix cornstarch thoroughly with sugar. Combine with cold cherry juice. Add lemon juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Add 1 teaspoon red food coloring, if desired. Put remaining cherries in syrup and heat through. Serve over Cherry Dessert Foldovers. Makes eight.

Traditional Holiday Pies Have Interesting History

It's pumpkin-pie and mince-pie time again! These traditional favorites in America since before the War for Independence now are being featured by bakers throughout America, to grace the tables in millions of homes at the Holiday Season.

The exact origin of mince pie has been lost in antiquity, but it is known that the pie's ingredients once symbolized the gifts of the Magi and its shape, originally oval, represented the cradle of the Christ Child.

Frequent reference to this Christmas favorite in English literature dating as far back as the Fifteenth century, enabled the American Bakers Association to reconstruct the appearance and contents of the mince pie and customs surrounding it over the centuries.

Always considered an essential part in the Christmas observances in England, the pies once were more of a main course than a dessert. They contained a large portion of boiled pork mixed with minced dates, cloves, mace, raisins, salt and ginger during the reign of King Henry V.

Boiled pork was replaced by finely shredded mutton as the chief ingredient in the mince-meat pies at the time of Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Queens Mary and Elizabeth. Thick rolls of dough were used to line large deep-sided dishes and this in turn was covered with another layer of thick pastry to form the top crust of the pie.

In America, the fruit content of the pie gradually was increased until today the mince pie has become a mixture of fruit and spices, with the addition of meat optional.

While the pumpkin pie always has been synonymous with the holiday season in America, it has changed its appearance and taste much more drastically over the years than has its mince-meat cousin.

Shortly after the Pilgrims arrived in the New World, failure of the grain crops resulted in a shortage of flour for pastry. However, their craving for bakery delicacies was satisfied because of the never-failing pumpkin crop which the Indians had taught them to raise. Pilgrim women used pumpkin flour to make pastry goods and the filling also was made from the pumpkin after it had been cooked and sweetened with sugar and honey.

For many years before, a variety of gourd similar to the American pumpkin was cultivated and eaten throughout Europe. An early English recipe called for the "Pompion" itself to be stuffed with apples.

It was not until the sea trade, on which the early colonists depended, was free to bring in the spices of the West Indies and the Orient, that the pumpkin pie began to taste anything like it does today. And it was the early Pennsylvania Dutch cooks who are credited with developing the flat pie as we know it now and with making the greatest improvements in all types of pies.

Knife Hints

Store knives properly to increase their use and your safety. Putting them in a drawer hit-or-miss dulls their edges and adds to the chances of your getting cut when you pick them up.

A wooden block which fits the drawer tightly and contains slots to hold the knife blades is a good solution.

Dark Sweet Cherry Foldovers Straight Route To Man's Heart

Of course you know the way to a man's heart . . . but if you want a direct route with no detours, serve him plump, canned sweet cherries often, in dozens of different ways. Grown in the vast orchards of the West Coast where the climate is perfect for bringing out their superlative flavor, sweet cherries have a warmth and hominess about them that's as appealing to a man as a huge fire and a big leather chair.

Since there's not a man alive who doesn't like pastry, these cherry foldovers are bound to be doubly potent. The sweet juiciness of the cherries, combined with tender, flaky crust is a sure winner. Allow for seconds all round, because these are real taste-tempters. No need for you to mention how quickly and easily you stirred these foldovers up. Keep mum and let him think you spent hours over them just for him!

Cherry Dessert Foldovers

1 No. 2 can Bing Cherries
2 cups biscuit mix
½-⅔ cups milk
1 tablespoon melted butter

Drain cherries well and pit. Save juice to thicken for sauce. Add milk to biscuit mix to form a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board and knead gently four or five times. Roll out into rectangle about 10 inches square. Cut dough into eight small rectagles approximately 2½" x 5" long. Brush with melted butter. Place three or four cherries on one-half of each strip. Fold other end of strip over fruit. Press edges together with fork tines. Bake on greased cookie sheet at 425 degrees for 15 to 18 minutes. Serve hot or cold with fruit sauce made from juice and remaining cherries in can.

Cherry Sauce

1 cup cherry juice
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
3 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoons lemon juice

Mix cornstarch thoroughly with sugar. Combine with cold cherry juice. Add lemon juice. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly until thickened. Add 1 teaspoon red food coloring, if desired. Put remaining cherries in syrup and heat through. Serve over Cherry Dessert Foldovers. Makes eight.

Traditional Holiday Pies Have Interesting History

It's pumpkin-pie and mince-pie time again! These traditional favorites in America since before the War for Independence now are being featured by bakers throughout America, to grace the tables in millions of homes at the Holiday Season.

The exact origin of mince pie has been lost in antiquity, but it is known that the pie's ingredients once symbolized the gifts of the Magi and its shape, originally oval, represented the cradle of the Christ Child.

Frequent reference to this Christmas favorite in English literature dating as far back as the Fifteenth century, enabled the American Bakers Association to reconstruct the appearance and contents of the mince pie and customs surrounding it over the centuries.

Always considered an essential part in the Christmas observances in England, the pies once were more of a main course than a dessert. They contained a large portion of boiled pork mixed with minced dates, cloves, mace, raisins, salt and ginger during the reign of King Henry V.

Boiled pork was replaced by finely shredded mutton as the chief ingredient in the mince-meat pies at the time of Henry VIII, Edward VI, and Queens Mary and Elizabeth. Thick rolls of dough were used to line large deep-sided dishes and this in turn was covered with another layer of thick pastry to form the top crust of the pie.

In America, the fruit content of the pie gradually was increased until today the mince pie has become a mixture of fruit and spices, with the addition of meat optional.

While the pumpkin pie always has been synonymous with the holiday season in America, it has changed its appearance and taste much more drastically over the years than has its mince-meat cousin.

Shortly after the Pilgrims arrived in the New World, failure of the grain crops resulted in a shortage of flour for pastry. However, their craving for bakery delicacies was satisfied because of the never-failing pumpkin crop which the Indians had taught them to raise. Pilgrim women used pumpkin flour to make pastry goods and the filling also was made from the pumpkin after it had been cooked and sweetened with sugar and honey.

And it was the early Pennsylvania Dutch cooks who are credited with developing the flat pie as we know it now and with making the greatest improvements in all types of pies.

Fee Is Planned For Certificate Of Discharge

In case you're a veteran who has lost his discharge and will be in need of a certificate in place of the discharge, then you had better apply for one prior to February 1, 1955—that is if you don't want to pay a fee for it.

Richard C. Manning, Maryland Veterans' Commission State Service and Executive Ofifcer, has received notification from the Defense Department announcing a new policy with respect to providing such certificates.

Defense Secretary Wilson has issued a directive which provides that on and after February 1, veterans must pay a fee of $1.50 for certificates, plus an hourly fee of $2 for each hour spent in searching the records.

Charges will be made for certain other information and documentation, including a fee of 50 cents to validate a document with seal, or 25 cents without seal.

Officials point out that sometimes much time is needed to search for records. Local veterans may secure applications for duplicate discharges from Thomas G. Kilduff, assistant state service officer, at his office in the County Building on Union Street.

Tax Air Passengers

PARIS, Dec. 2 (AP) — Paris airports have begun collecting a take-off tax of $3.42 on each passenger bound for the United States and elsewhere overseas. The tax is to pay for airport maintenance.

Soldier Acquitted In Traffic Death

BALTIMORE, Dec. 2 (AP)—Master Sergt. Thomas L. Moore, 33-year-old Negro stationed at the Aberdeen Proving Ground, has been acquitted of a manslaughter charge brought in the traffic death last February of Edgar Kassan, an advertising man.

Kassan was fatally injured and a female companion walking with him hurt last Feb. 21 at Belair Road and Raymor Ave.

Students Visit Magistrate

A group of girl students from Fort Hill High School visited the Union Street building Wednesday and talked with Trial Magistrate Donald Mason about court procedure and the duties of trial magistrates.

The girls, from social studies classes in Fort Hill's Ninth Grade, have been making a special study of all phases of county government and its operation.

Magistrate Mason gave them copies of warrants and various other forms used in the court and court procedure, along with a copy of Maryland's Motor Vehicle Code. He complimented them upon their interest and upon the type and intelligence of questions they asked.

The group included Eleanor Leatherman, Linda Fuller, Barbara Haller, Suzanne Browne, Joan Shanski, Barbara Fisher, Whilmina Nelson and Norma Schade.

Increases Are Given British Pensioners

LONDON, Dec 2 (AP) — Substantial increases in all state pensions were announced by the Churchill government. Old age pensions and war disability allowances will be boosted by up to 20 per cent beginning next April.

The standard weekly old age pension for a single person will go up from $4.48 to $5.60 and for married couples from $7.56 to $9.10.

Sunday School Time Is Changed

KEYSER — A change in time for conducting Sunday School will begin Sunday, according to Rev. Fred M. Bowman, pastor of the Church of the Brethren. The session will begin at 9:45 a. m. The change was determined at a recent meeting of the congregation, in order to allow more time for the discussion of the lesson of the day. The time has been 10 a. m.

The morning church service on Sundays will remain at 11 o'clock.

Minors Vote To Restrict Radio-TV Baseball Coverage

Majors Expected To Turn Down Proposal At New York Meeting

Lower Player Limits Favored; Early Date For Recalls Rejected

By JACK HAND

HOUSTON, Dec. 2 (AP)—Commercial broadcasts and telecasts of baseball games on stations outside a club's home territory were banned by the minor leagues today, subject to approval by the majors at New York next week.

Action on the amendments and continued negotiations to move the St. Louis Cards' Columbus franchise in the American Association to Omaha, now in the Western League, dominated convention talk.

Although the minors' radio-TV amendment exempted sustaining or non-commercial broadcasts, it was obvious there would be a few ball games on the air if there were no sponsors.

Removed Rule From Books

The majors, however, are expected to turn down this latest attempt to regulate radio-TV at their meetings in New York. They had a similar rule years ago but removed it from the books under pressure from the Justice Department. Some of the minors feel the exemption of sustaining programs would remove the Justice Department's objections.

Home territory was defined as that within 50 miles of a club's home ball park. If this rule were to become baseball law, it would mean the end of all commercial network broadcasts or telecasts of ball games, except in the case of the All-Star game or World Series.

Although the radio-TV problem attracted most attention, two other amendments passed by the minors probably have a better chance of surviving when the majors consider them.

Lower Player Limits

The minors voted for lower player limits, cutting the majors from 25 to 23 men while increasing the number of players they could option from 15 to 17 men. There would be corresponding cuts in minor limits. One major league official said this had a "good chance" of passing at New York.

Minor league clubs will gain financially on proposed changes in the major-minor rules on working agreements, setting a minimum price for the privilege of selecting players from a club in class B, C or D at the end of the season. The majors also would pay spring training costs, traveling expenses for optional players and a portion of the manager's salary.

The radio-TV, player limit cut and working agreement amendments, along with eight others of minor importance, will be considered by the majors. Twelve proposed amendments, including a more liberalized player draft and a new "college rule," similar to the "high school rule," were defeated.

Reject Earlier Deadline

The minors also rejected suggestions to set a June 30 deadline (instead of July 31) for recall of optioned players from their farms. Another proposal to end the practice of players under contract with minor league teams training with big league teams after March 31 was defeated.

A definite break between the majors and minors was averted when a resolution to terminate the major-minor agreement at the 1955 convention was defeated. Although it received a favorable vote, 19-14, it fell short of the required three-fourths vote.

In case the majors do the expected and throw out the radio-TV amendment, the minors adopted another amendment to their own national agreement by which they would agree not to broadcast or telecast into the territory of another club. Of course, that would apply to minor league games.

Sale Of Baumholtz Nullified By N. L.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 2 (AP)—Warren C. Giles, president of the National League, said today the sale of outfielder Frankie Baumholtz by the Chicago Cubs to the Chicago White Sox has been nullified.

Wid Matthews, director of player personnel for the Cubs, failed to obtain waivers on the veteran player from the other clubs in the National League before the sale, Giles told a reporter.

"The other National League clubs have until Dec. 8 to act on Baumholtz," Giles said.

In Houston, where the minor leagues have been meeting, Matthews said he "made an honest mistake."

"I confused the Baumholtz deal with something else I had written on paper," he continued.

GETS NEW JOB—J. B. (Ears) Whitworth, above, yesterday announced his resignation as grid coach at Oklahoma A. & M. at Stillwater, Okla., to accept a similar post at the University of Alabama where he replaces Harold Drew.

UCLA Signs Sanders To Five-Year Pact

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2 (AP)—UCLA signed Henry (Red) Sanders to a new five-year contract as head football coach today.

Terms of the contract were not disclosed by Wilbur Jones, director of athletics, but it was reported reliably that Sanders agreed to remain with the Bruins for another five years with an option for his services for still another five years in the document.

Although the salary was not announced, Sanders' pay is reported to be $18,500, and unofficial sources say that he did not at any time ask for an increase.

The Bruins finished the 1954 season untied and undefeated.

Green Bay Retains Coach Blackbourn

GREENBAY, Wis., Dec. 2 (AP)—Coach Liz Blackbourn, preparing to take his Green Bay Packers to California tomorrow for the wind-up of the 1954 National Football league season, was given a new contract today with an increase in salary.

The Packer office said the new contract—exact terms and duration not announced—was offered Blackbourn now "in view of the fine performance' of the club during his first year as coach.

This year the Bays, prostrate for several seasons, have won four games and lost six.

Murray Named Coach Of Year

Duke Grid Mentor Is Honored By ACC

GREENSBORO, N. C., Dec. 2 (AP)—Bill Murray of Duke was named football "Coach of the Year" in the Atlantic Coast Conference in a poll of 43 members of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Assn.

Murray, in his fourth season at Duke, guided the Blue Devils to the conference championship and a berth in the Orange Bowl Jan. 1 against Nebraska. Duke's 7-2-1 record earned it 14th place in this week's final Associated Press poll.

Murray gained 145 points in the voting, conducted on a 5-3-1 point basis. All eight conference coaches received votes.

The voting for second place saw Jim Tatum of Maryland, No. 1 last season, nose out Earle Edwards, serving his first year at North Carolina State, 76-61. Rex Enright of South Carolina was fourth with 39 points, followed by George Barclay of North Carolina with 37.

21 Hunting Deaths Exceed Total Killed In Civil War Battle

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Dec. 2 (AP)—More persons have met death since the West Virginia hunting season opened Oct. 1 than were killed in the state's biggest Civil War battle, conservation officials noted today.

An unofficial tally showed that since the fall season opened 21 persons have died of gunshot wounds, heart attacks or exposure.

Conservation officials said this was more than the 17 men killed in the Battle of Carnifex Ferry, largest Civil War engagement fought in West Virginia.

Copped Seven In Row

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—When Oklahoma won the Big Seven football crown it marked the Sooners' seventh consecutive season as champions. They also won in 1938, 1943, 1944, and tied Kansas in 1946 and 1947.

THE PIKESVILLE Sportsmen's Club is experimenting with San Juan rabbits which were imported from San Juan Island off the State of Washington, which is infested with the animals. The same breed now overruns parts of Australia and New Zealand.

Pikesville sportsmen have liberated 15 pairs and 15 pairs have been turned over to members to raise and study in captivity.

Some game technicians are fearful of their importation, pointing to the San Juan species as a bad character. He is said to multiply too rapidly, burrows, destroys vegetation and crops and menaces other game.

University of Wisconsin wildlife experts feel that if importations are continued farmers may be faced with the worst pests yet. They think the importations are extremely dangerous. Pennsylvania has liberated some of the San Juans.

The bunnies could become valued game, replacing diminishing native cottontails. Shooting pressure might prevent them from becoming an agricultural menace.

BROTHER Joseph, former director of athletics at LaSalle and authority on bridge, is now teaching at Central Catholic High School, Canton, Ohio.

The Christian Brothers opened the school this year and they already have football and basketball teams.

THE PENNSYLVANIA Game Commission reports the first hunting accident where a bow hunter shot himself with an arrow.

A 31-year-old man with 18 years' hunting experience was hunting deer with a bow and arrow. As he cautiously tip-toed from tree to tree in hopes of sneaking upon a buck, he tripped over an unnoticed brush pile, at the same time releasing a too taut bowstring and sending a freshly sharpened arrowhead into the calf of his leg.

Ryff, Zulueta Fight Tonight

Lightweight Scrap Is Set For Garden

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP)—Frankie Ryff, a talented, unbeaten New York lightweight, tests his skill and risks his perfect record against experienced Orlando Zulueta in Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

The 22-year-old blond boxer is an 8-5 favorite to beat the Cuban in the 10-rounder even though he's ranked a notch behind the fifth-ranking 135-pound contender.

Although Frankie is only three years out of the Golden Gloves ranks, there are many veteran observers who believe the rangy youngster is ready right now to knock the crown off champion Jimmy Carter's brow.

Frankie has scored only three knockouts in his 15 pro starts. In Zulueta, Ryff will meet a clever boxer with the best left jab in the division. He has stopped only six opponents in 81 scraps. The 26-year old Cuban's record is 51-21-9.

Taylor's, Clingerman's Score League Upsets

The Cumberland K. of C. moved into the runner-up spot in the Allegany County Men's Shuffleboard League by scoring a 3-0 win over the Frostburg K. of C.

Fisher & Robinette defeated the Frostburg American Legion, 2-1, and now leads the league by five games with a 30-6 record. The local K-C shufflers have won 25 and lost 11.

Two upsets were recorded last night when Cas Taylor's blanked Stadium Inn, Frostburg, 3-0, and Clingerman's knocked off Hann's Tavern by the same margin.

In other matches, the Frostburg Eagles downed the Cumberland Redmen, 2-1, Golden Nugget topped the Goodfellowship Club, 2-1, and Purple Heart Club defeated Mt. Savage V.F.W., 3-0.

Potomac State Wins 97-93 Thriller From Westinghouse

Guarilia Leads Cats' Offense, Gets 33 Points

Meshes 17 Of 20 Free Throws; Noble Posts 36 For Apprentice

KEYSER, Dec. 2 — Eugene "Gene" Guarilia, sharpshooting 6-foot-6 center from Wilkes Barre, Pa., who scored 23 points Wednesday night at Altoona, poured 33 tallies through the hoops tonight to lead Potomac State College to a thrilling 97-93 triumph over Westinghouse Apprentice of East Pittsburgh on the Potomac State court.

A good-sized crowd saw the Catamounts make their home debut and register their second win in as many nights.

Guarilia hooped 17 of 20 foul shots and scored eight goals from the field to attain his total of 33 markers. George Morgan, Plymouth, Pa., banged in nine fielders and 19 points, Glenn Smith has 13 markers and Gene Becker 12 for the winners.

Bill Noble, of Irwin, Pa., sparked the Westinghouse scorers with an output of 36 points. He tossed in 13 fielders and connected for 10 points in 12 attempts at the charity line. Dezort was the runner-up with 10 baskets and 22 points.

Westinghouse out-goaled the Catamounts 38 to 34 but the Cats held a twelve-point edge in foul conversions, 29-17. Potomac had 44 free throws to the Pennsylvanians' 25.

Three Westinghouse players left the game on personal fouls, namely, Watt, Wilson and Dezort. Twenty-seven personals were called on Coach "Bucky" Dearbeck's quint and 14 on the home team.

The score was knotted 11 times and the lead changed hands eleven times in this court thriller. Potomac State pulled ahead 10 minutes before the final whistle and never was headed.

Beard Named Most Valuable In Virginia

NORFOLK, Va., Dec. 2 (AP)—Dickie Beard, star halfback of Virginia Tech's once-tied but undefeated football team, today was selected by the Norfolk Sports Club as the most valuable college player in Virginia in 1954.

He will receive the Leigh Williams Memorial Trophy at the Sports Club's Jamboree here Dec. 14.

Drew Replaced As 'Bama Coach

Whitworth Chosen As His Successor

TUSCALOOSA, Ala., Dec. 2 (AP)—Harold Drew was replaced as head football coach at the University of Alabama today by J. B. Whitworth, head coach at Oklahoma A.&M. for the past five years.

Drew, under heavy fire from alumni after a .500 season in the Southeastern Conference, will remain here as an assistant professor of physical education and track coach.

Drew became head coach on Frank Thomas' retirement at the end of the 1946 football season. During his eight seasons Alabama teams won 53, lost 26 and tied seven. His club won the conference title in 1953.

Whitworth was a guard on the 1929, 1930 and 1931 'Bama teams. He was an assistant coach here until 1934, then was at Louisiana State and at Georgia before going to Oklahoma A.&M.

There was no announcement concerning the fate of the assistant coaches here.

Marines And Navy Win In VFW Shuffle Loop

The Marines remained four games in front of the Navy in the V. F. W. Mixed Shuffleboard League by taking two out of three games from the Air Force last night.

Paul Mudge led the winners with 30 points while C. W. Rice paced the Air Force with 26.

The Navy scored a 2-1 win over the Army. Alice Small headed the winners with 25 points while Chloe Reynolds sparked the Army with 26.

The standings: Marines 16-8, Navy 12-12, Army 11-13 and Air Force 8-16.

'Jesse' James, Former Pitcher, Is Jailed, Took $5400 From Safe

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2 (AP) — Walter L. (Jesse) James, 40, Rockville, Md., former pitcher for the Richmond Colts, was sentenced today to 90 days in jail for taking $5,400 from a safe in a hotel where he was employed as a clerk.

Municipal Judge John J. Malloy imposed the sentence after James pleaded guilty to taking the money which had been deposited in the safe by a South American guest at the hotel.

Police said James told them he spent $105 on a drinking spree. He had $295 on him when arrested, and led police to a locker in a bus depot where they recovered the remaining $5,000 of the missing money.

James came to the Washington area in the 30s and did some sandlot baseball playing.

Dallas Fans Are All Keyed Up For Notre Dame-SMU Game

Irish Are Favorites, 75,504 Seats Sold

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 2 (AP)—Notre Dame is causing blood pressure to soar again in this Texas city that prides itself on:

(1) Itself.

(2) Pretty women.

(3) The Cotton Bowl (home of Southern Methodist University football teams—the "stadium Doak Walker built" — and the place where each New Year's Day they reel off a major post-season game).

Southern Methodist plays host to the Irish Saturday and people here are as excited about football as they were when Walker played for SMU and Notre Dame came down to play in 1949.

Irish Are Favored

Notre Dame is favored to win by two touchdowns or more.

"That's what they said last time," is the general tone of conversation about the "big one" Saturday.

The "last time", Kyle Rote ran the undefeated Irish ragged and it took a final minute drive for Notre Dame to win, 27-20.

SMU doesn't have Rote this time, but it does have a collection of hard-running backs that many think is most complete stable in the Southwest Conference.

Frank Eidom, John Marshall and Hal O'Brien, each lean and fast, lead this herd of ball carriers.

All Tickets Sold

Every ticket for the 75,504 seats has been sold for months. A couple of thousand more people will get into the stands somehow. And millions over the nation will watch the action on television.

Notre Dame has lost only one game this season. SMU has dropped two and tied one. The Mustangs finished second to Arkansas in the Southwest Conference.

In Minors One Year

CLEVELAND (AP)— Bobby Avila, who won the American League batting crown, spent only one season in the minor leagues. He played 56 games for the Baltimore Orioles in 1948 when they were members of the International League. He hit .220. He led the American League with .341 during 1954. His best previous mark was .305 with Cleveland in 1951.

Southern Methodist plays host to the Irish Saturday and people here are as excited about football as they were when Walker played for SMU and Notre Dame came down to play in 1949.

Irish Are Favored

Notre Dame is favored to win by two touchdowns or more.

"That's what they said last time," is the general tone of conversation about the "big one" Saturday.

The "last time", Kyle Rote ran the undefeated Irish ragged and it took a final minute drive for Notre Dame to win, 27-20.

SMU doesn't have Rote this time, but it does have a collection of hard-running backs that many think is most complete stable in the Southwest Conference.

Frank Eidom, John Marshall and Hal O'Brien, each lean and fast, lead this herd of ball carriers.

All Tickets Sold

Every ticket for the 75,504 seats has been sold for months. A couple of thousand more people will get into the stands somehow. And millions over the nation will watch the action on television.

Notre Dame has lost only one game this season. SMU has dropped two and tied one. The Mustangs finished second to Arkansas in the Southwest Conference.

In Minors One Year

CLEVELAND (AP)— Bobby Avila, who won the American League batting crown, spent only one season in the minor leagues. He played 56 games for the Baltimore Orioles in 1948 when they were members of the International League. He hit .220. He led the American League with .341 during 1954. His best previous mark was .305 with Cleveland in 1951.

Mineral County Deer Kill For Season 967

KEYSER, Dec. 2—A total of 967 deer were slain by hunters in Mineral County during the three-day season which ended Wednesday.

Wednesday—Total 345 (149 bucks and 196 does).

Five High School Games Scheduled Tonight

Valley Plays Home Opener With Huskies

Wardensville Visits Romney; Bobcats Will Face Westinghouse

Westinghouse Apprentice's basketball team of East Pittsburgh will conclude a two-day road trip in this section by battling Frostburg State Teachers College tonight in the Bobcats' home opener in the Mountain City.

Frostburg dropped a 76-62 contest to Shepherd College on the Rams' court Wednesday night. Westinghouse played Potomac State in Keyser last night.

Clyde Green, former West Virginia University and Wheeling Blues star, will make his debut tonight as coach at Romney High School with the Pioneers slated to play host to the Wardensville High Warriors in the first P.V.C. contest for both quints.

Northern High's Huskies of Garrett County will pry off the lid with Valley High's Black Knights in Lonaconing tonight.

Roofers Hold Lead, LaGratta Posts 526

Don't Spoil That Venison

In view of the fact that the deer season is now open in Pennsylvania and Maryland's 6-day season opens Monday, December 6, the following article gives some timely tips on how to properly prepare, cook and serve venison.

There is an old saying "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." This applies, to a certain degree, in the sport of hunting, for the sportsman who spends long and arduous hours in the deer woods and returns home only to have his prized venison spoiled through improper cooking misses much of the pleasure provided by the final chapter of the chase.

"Deer meat makes good eating," says Henry P. Davis, public relations manager, Remington Arms Company, Inc., "but full enjoyment of it comes only when it is properly prepared. There are many ways to cook and serve it, and any and all can make up a banquet fit for the most deserving sportsman IF the cook treats it with the respect due such a delicious morsel.

Tips On Cooking

"Here are a few tips that should help in cooking venison. None of them are original with me but are gleaned from the fruits of the experience of others. Pounding with the back of a heavy knife will do much to tenderize venison steaks and chops. If you will lightly roll your cuts in dry flour before placing them in the pan, this will keep in the juices. In frying or sauteing, lean meats are much more tasty and tender when cooked quickly. Long cooking, at low heat, causes toughness. In frying venison, do not cover the pan until a few minutes before serving, as covering too soon will cause the meat to boil. Rubbing a few dabs of butter into dry meats will generally restore moisture. Do not salt your venison too soon, as this may cause the loss of juice and flavor. However, fried or sauted venison should be salted before taking it from the pan.

"Venison tenderloin is a dish to whet the jaded appetite of the most fastidious gourmet . . . when properly cooked. Here is a fine recipe for it. The oven should be set at 450 degrees. Put a sufficient number of heavy skillets on a medium fire on top of the stove to hold the steaks you intend to cook. Rub the inside of a wooden bowl with a cut clove of garlic. Sprinkle in some onion salt and black pepper, and rub each steak around the bowl and in this mixture.

"In the meantime bake one potato for each venison serving, open them up and saturate with butter, seasoning with salt, pepper and paprika. Set these in the warming oven.

"When your potatoes are prepared, open up the gas under the skillets. When they are white hot, put in the steaks. Cook about five minutes on one side, three or four minutes on the other. When you turn them, use a pancake lifter, never a fork. Serve piping hot with gravy o mushroom sauce. Garnish to suit your preference . . . and you'll have a dish that will eat right where you hold it.

Sauted Chops Delicious

"Sauted venison chops make a delicious meal. Chops should be at least an inch thick for best flavor. Rub a little bacon or suet on the bottom of a hot skillet. If it is hot enough, the skillet will smoke. Take out the fat and press the chops down until you feel them sear. This happens quickly. Turn with a pancake lifter and sear on the other side. Now turn down your heat and keep turning the meat to prevent burning. Cover the skillet when the intense heating is over. This will keep the steam in, retains the flavor and tenderizes. Don't overcook. Tough meat is caused by either over-cooking or using insufficient heat in the beginning

"Cooking venison is not particularly difficult. It is seldom tough and even the toughest pieces can be made deliciously tender by proper preparation and cooking. It is far too precious a viand to be wasted through careless treatment."

Five High School Games Scheduled Tonight

Valley Plays Home Opener With Huskies

Wardensville Visits Romney; Bobcats Will Face Westinghouse

Westinghouse Apprentice's basketball team of East Pittsburgh will conclude a two-day road trip in this section by battling Frostburg State Teachers College tonight in the Bobcats' home opener in the Mountain City.

Frostburg dropped a 76-62 contest to Shepherd College on the Rams' court Wednesday night. Westinghouse played Potomac State in Keyser last night.

Clyde Green, former West Virginia University and Wheeling Blues star, will make his debut tonight as coach at Romney High School with the Pioneers slated to play host to the Wardensville High Warriors in the first P.V.C. contest for both quints.

Northern High's Huskies of Garrett County will pry off the lid with Valley High's Black Knights in Lonaconing tonight.

Roofers Hold Lead, LaGratta Posts 526

In other matches Queen City Dairy swept three games from McIntyre's and Baltimore Pike Fire Department took a pair from the C.&A. Gas Company.

High scoring honors went to Joe LaGratta, of Queen City Dairy, who rolled 200-526. Other high scores were turned in by B. Athey, Baltimore Pike, 196-517; "Ike" Law, McIntyre's, 222-505; Tom McGeady, Schute's Roofers, 205-506; Gene Grapes, Super Concrete, 180-500; J. Don't Spoil That Venison

In view of the fact that the deer season is now open in Pennsylvania and Maryland's 6-day season opens Monday, December 6, the following article gives some timely tips on how to properly prepare, cook and serve venison.

There is an old saying "The proof of the pudding is in the eating." This applies, to a certain degree, in the sport of hunting, for the sportsman who spends long and arduous hours in the deer woods and returns home only to have his prized venison spoiled through improper cooking misses much of the pleasure provided by the final chapter of the chase.

"Deer meat makes good eating," says Henry P. Davis, public relations manager, Remington Arms Company, Inc., "but full enjoyment of it comes only when it is properly prepared. There are many ways to cook and serve it, and any and all can make up a banquet fit for the most deserving sportsman IF the cook treats it with the respect due such a delicious morsel.

Tips On Cooking

"Here are a few tips that should help in cooking venison. None of them are original with me but are gleaned from the fruits of the experience of others. Pounding with the back of a heavy knife will do much to tenderize venison steaks and chops. If you will lightly roll your cuts in dry flour before placing them in the pan, this will keep in the juices. In frying or sauteing, lean meats are much more tasty and tender when cooked quickly. Long cooking, at low heat, causes toughness. In frying venison, do not cover the pan until a few minutes before serving, as covering too soon will cause the meat to boil. Rubbing a few dabs of butter into dry meats will generally restore moisture. Do not salt your venison too soon, as this may cause the 'oss of juice and flavor. However, fried or sauted venison should be salted before taking it from the pan.

"Venison tenderloin is a dish to whet the jaded appetite of the most fastidious gourmet . . . when properly cooked. Here is a fine recipe for it. The oven should be set at 450 degrees. Put a sufficient number of heavy skillets on a medium fire on top of the stove to hold the steaks you intend to cook. Rub the inside of a wooden bowl with a cut clove of garlic. Sprinkle in some onion salt and black pepper, and rub each steak around the bowl and in this mixture.

"In the meantime bake one potato for each venison serving, open them up and saturate with butter, seasoning with salt, pepper and paprika. Set these in the warming oven.

"When your potatoes are prepared, open up the gas under the skillets. When they are white hot, put in the steaks. Cook about five minutes on one side, three or four minutes on the other. When you turn them, use a pancake lifter, never a fork. Serve piping hot with gravy o mushroom sauce. Garnish to suit your preference . . . and you'll have a dish that will eat right where you hold it.

Sauted Chops Delicious

"Sauted venison chops make a delicious meal. Chops should be at least an inch thick for best flavor. Rub a little bacon or suet on the bottom of a hot skillet. If it is hot enough, the skillet will smoke. Take out the fat and press the chops down until you feel them sear. This happens quickly. Turn with a pancake lifter and sear on the other side. Now turn down your heat and keep turning the meat to prevent burning. Cover the skillet when the intense heating is over. This will keep the steam in, retains the flavor and tenderizes. Don't overcook. Tough meat is caused by either over-cooking or using insufficient heat in the beginning.

"Cooking venison is not particularly difficult. It is seldom tough and even the toughest pieces can be made deliciously tender by proper preparation and cooking. It is far too precious a viand to be wasted through careless treatment."

Bags Typical W.Va. Deer

Typical of the many fine deer killed in nearby Mineral and Hampshire Counties, West Virginia, during the three-day season which ended December 1, is this 250-lb white-tail buck killed by the widely known veteran hunter and former State Conservation Officer, Walter A. Ansel, of near Springfield. This buck is outstanding in that he is considered by authorities to be the true native West Virginia deer, and according to State Conservation Officer Sam Saville, represents the direct strain of the Virginia White Tail Deer. Warden Saville also pointed out that numerous other deer taken in the area which have a marked tendency to dark colors and large thick antlers are not native to West Virginia but are descended from the Michigan deer which the State Conservation Commission purchased in the past for stocking purposes.

Virginia Man Sentenced In Assault Case

Alonzo R. Hylton Sent To County Jail

LONACONING — Alanzo Russell Hylton, Roanoke, Va., was sentenced to 60 days in the County Jail and fined $100 on charges of assault, destruction of property and resisting arrest when he was tried Saturday by Magistrate Melvin Sloan in Lonaconing.

Magistrate Sloan said that the assault took place when Hylton raced from a tavern on the Main Street in Lonaconing and knocked George Stafford through a seven-foot window, wrecking approximately $750 worth of radios and watches on display in the window.

The street incident occurred when Mayor Virgil Alexander was stopped on the street by Joseph Hobell, who is on a one-year probation for assaulting the mayor in September. Mayor Alexander told Hobell that he didn't want to talk with him, and continued on his way.

Hylton was standing inside at the bar and witnesses reported him saying, "I'm going out there and give that mayor a working over."

Dewey Burns, owner of the jewelry store into which Stafford was knocked, filed charges against Hylton. Magistrate Sloan suspended the charges against Hylton on the condition that he pay Burns the $750 damages and remain out of Lonaconing.

Frostburg Board To Induct Three

FROSTBURG — Draft Board 30 will send three volunteer inductees to Fairmont (W. Va.) December 9.

Slated for military service are Clayton R. Brode, RD 2, Frostburg; Ray C. Elliott, Westernport, and Robert Keister, Midlothian.

The draftees will be accompanied by 12 other registrants scheduled for pre-induction physical examinations, according to Earl Hill, clerk.

Cub Pack No. 44 To Plan Yule Party

FROSTBURG—Cub Pack No. 44 will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock, at the Hill Street Elementary School.

ON CRUISE — Pfc. Maxwell Dale Simpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Simpson, 2 John Street, Ridgeley, W. Va., is on a Mediteranian cruise with a U. S. Marine detachment aboard the destroyer, USS Latimer. Simpson enlisted in Cumberland April 6, 1954 for four years. He attended Ridgeley High School and took his basic training at Parris Island, S. C.

VHS Art Students Making Christmas Favors For Patients

LONACONING — Art pupils at Valley High School have begun a project to complete paper sculpturing of the Christmas scenes to distribute to the hospitals of our area.

The goal set is to make from 500 to nearly 1000 art items in the school art room. Elmer M. Eide, faculty art instructor, stated that it is a creative activity, having students experiment with their own design for 3-dimentional paper decorations. Seventh, Eighth and Ninth grade classes are making the designs, which must be simple in construction to make packing easy.

Westernport Group To View Problem Of Water System

WESTERNPORT—At a meeting of the town council Wednesday plans for a gathering with a group of 20 business and civic leaders were announced.

The session is scheduled for Thursday, December 9 at 7:30 p. m. at the town clerk's office at which time various matters pertaining to a proposed filtration system for the town's water system will be discussed.

Means of financing the project will be among the topics on the agenda. Refinancing of the town's $100,000 bonded indebtedness will also be discussed, according to Mayor Okey Michaels.

A report of the engineering consulting firm of Glace and Glace of Harrisburg, Pa., lists the estimated cost of the least expensive filtration plant for the community at $110,000, exclusive of land acquisition, engineering costs and miscellaneous items such as the expense of marketing a bond issue for the project.

The engineering firm said the most suitable kind of filtration system for Westernport would be the Darroco Aldrich perifilter system.

Student Council At Keyser High Sponsors Award

Sportsmanship Trophy Offered In Basketball

KEYSER — The annual Sportsmanship Award for excellence in sportsmanship in the Mineral County Basketball League, will be sponsored again this year by the Keyser High School Student Council. The league opened its season at Piedmont when Elk Garden was the opposing team and the first checking of sportsmanship was conducted for that game on Wednesday.

As other teams in the circuit play in county school contests, the league grading system will function. The other schools in the league are Fort Ashby, Keyser and Ridgeley.

Coach John R. Shelton, at Keyser High School, was the originator in this area of the contest, having suggested the plan in 1952, and the sportsmanship rules have been applied to all the league games since then.

The objectives of the contest are to promote and foster high ideals of sportsmanship and fair play in all games.

The first winner, in 1952, was Elk Garden High School, and that school won again last season. In 1953, the award was not given because some of the schools did not turn their score cards in for checking.

Teams participating in county league games are judged for sportsmanship display by their team, coach and spectators. Judging is done by officials who rate both teams, and by the coach or school principal, who rate only the opposing school.

Hunting Club Takes Seven Deer

Pictured above are members of the newly formed Buckridge Hunting Club located on the Edgar Alt Farm in Hampshire County near Springfield, W. Va. By mutual agreement, only buck deer are killed, and the dues are used for conservation and general stocking. While most of the members are area residents, Ray Reichenbach comes from Roanoke, Indiana, and Lawrence O'Brien is presently serving with the U. S. Army at Ft. Monmouth, N. J. Kneeling, left to right: Bob Alkire, Springfield; Edgar Alt, Springfield; Lee Roy Lewis, Martinsburg; Fred Alt, Springfield; Jim Alkire, Romney; Roy Alkire, Springfield; and Melvin Alkire, Springfield. Standing, left to right: Ralph Allender, Springfield; Frank Koncer, Martinsburg; Sam Alkire, Fort Ashby; Lawrence O'Brien, Ft. Monmouth, N. J.; John O'Brien, Springfield; Melvin Shanholtzer, Springfield; Ray Reichenbach, Roanoke, Ind.; and Forrest Alt, Springfield. Not present when the picture was made, and the only other member of the club, is the Rev. William D. Keller of Springfield.

Keyser To Name Citizen Of Year

KEYSER — The Kiwanis Club of Keyser plans to recognize the Citizen of Keyser who has contributed in greatest measure to the city during the year of 1954, by presenting an award for service beyond the call of duty and preferably outside his or her profession. The award will be presented at the meeting of the Kiwanis Club on Wednesday, December 29.

The final selection will be made by a committee composed of one member from each of the service clubs in Keyser, Kiwanis, Rotary, Lions and Soroptimists.

Any citizen of Keyser, desiring to nominate a candidate for the award, may do so before December 11, by sending a letter, addressed to Citizens' Committee, P. O. Box 192, Keyser. The letter should state the name of the candidate and reasons for the writer's selection. The name of the recipient will be announced and the award will be presented at the Kiwanis Club meeting, as stated.

Ham And Egg Show Planned At Keyser

Lions To Sponsor FFA Presentation

KEYSER — Kiwanis Club of Keyser will sponsor a ham and egg show and sale to be held in the Keyser Fire Hall Tuesday, March 15, presented by Future Farmers of America Clubs.

This is one of the groups that has presented these shows and sales in other parts of the state with such success that the FFA will follow through by introducing the same type of show in Keyser.

The Mineral County FFA will be given an opportunity to show to the people of Keyser the difference in quality of specially processed hams in comparison with the general offering of such meats.

Chapters of FFA participating in the presentation here will be made up of the units that have perfected their processing work through training and experience, from Hampshire, Grant, Hardy, Pendleton and Mineral counties.

Active in aiding the FFA in its plans for its show and sale are Bradford Swecker, head of the agricultural department at Potomac State College and Joseph Wimer, Mineral County Agriculture agent.

McCoole PTA Sponsors Social

MCCOOLE—The PTA of McCoole School will hold a social at the school today at 7 p. m. Tommie Karis and his orchestra will furnish the music. Santa Claus will also be present.

Sandwiches, homemade pies, cakes, cookies, candy, popcorn and other things will be sold. Mrs. Pauline Kitzmiller is chairman of the affair.

For Sale, gas logs for fireplace. Practically new. Phone 6921, Lonaconing. Adv. N-T Dec. 2-3

Keyser Church Sponsors Men's Work Supper

R. E. Mohler Will Be Guest Speaker

KEYSER — A capacity crowd of men is expected to attend the District-wide Men's Work supper, in the basement of the Keyser Church of the Brethren tomorrow at 6 p. m. About 25 men from the local church, together with men from other churches in the First District of West Virginia and neighboring districts, are expected to participate.

R. E. Mohler, executive secretary for Men's Work in the Church of the Brethren, will be guest speaker. M. Mohler is a resident of McPherson, Kansas, and is spending two weeks touring the Southeastern Region on behalf of Men's Work. The supper will be served by the Ladies Aid of the local church.

Preceding the supper, there will be a service, beginning at 4:30 p. m., at which time Mr. Mohler will speak briefly. After the supper he will also speak at an evening service, scheduled for 7:30 o'clock. Representatives from a number of churches in the area are expected for all of the services.

These services have been planned by Irvin W. Whitacre, Ridgeley, the district president of Men's Work, assisted by C. A. Bobo, Keyser, who preceded him as district Men's Work executive. According to Mr. Whitacre, the speaker of the evening is expected to "give us a new insight and knowledge of Men's Work, what it is, how it works, better preparing us to do the work of the church."

The average United States worker is absent about eight days a year because of temporary illness.

Army Engineers To Meet With Westernport Council

WESTERNPORT—An estimate of the damages suffered by property owners due to the high waters has been requested by the U. S. Army Engineers.

The communication from Lt. Col. Robert V. Dague, was read by Mrs. Katherine Dailey, city clerk, at the regular meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michael and Town Commissioners which also stated that a representative would call the week of December 6-10.

The letter also stated that their office wanted to make a study to evaluate flood control requirements for the community.

Commissioner Carl P. McMillen was authorized to purchase a Christmas tree to be erected at the inter-section of Main Street and Church Street.

The streets in the business area will be trimmed with holiday decorations. The work is to be done by Donald Fazenbaker and the streets and tree will be lighted nightly beginning Monday, December 13 continuing through New Year's Day.

The city clerk was instructed to write the Western Maryland Railway Company for a conference by the mayor and Commissioners with the district superintendent.

Attention was called to the hazardous condition by parking on both sides of Church Street and the town seeks permission to secure the use of vacant ground of the company in that area to be used for parking.

Commissioner Maurice Brundige reported he had contacted Harry Miller, president of the Westernport and Luke Lions Club relative to securing additional street signs for new sections of community taken into the corporation and some that have to be replaced.

Miller advised him that he thought he could get the approval of the club to provide them next spring.

It was decided that town employes be requested to be inoculated with typhoid serum. Mayor Michael stated that the State Health Department informed him that the employes would be given the serum free of charge at the Westernport Health Center.

The clerk was requested to write to Charles See, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates for a conference with the Allegany County delegation for the purpose of discussing with them two pieces of legislation.

It was announced that the blackboard to be placed in the city clerk's office had arrived.

About 25 men from the local church, together with men from other churches in the First District of West Virginia and neighboring districts, are expected to participate.

R. E. Mohler, executive secretary for Men's Work in the Church of the Brethren, will be guest speaker. M. Mohler is a resident of McPherson, Kansas, and is spending two weeks touring the Southeastern Region on behalf of Men's Work. The supper will be served by the Ladies Aid of the local church.

Preceding the supper, there will be a service, beginning at 4:30 p. m., at which time Mr. Mohler will speak briefly. After the supper he will also speak at an evening service, scheduled for 7:30 o'clock. Representatives from a number of churches in the area are expected for all of the services.

These services have been planned by Irvin W. Whitacre, Ridgeley, the district president of Men's Work, assisted by C. A. Bobo, Keyser, who preceded him as district Men's Work executive. According to Mr. Whitacre, the speaker of the evening is expected to "give us a new insight and knowledge of Men's Work, what it is, how it works, better preparing us to do the work of the church."

The average United States worker is absent about eight days a year because of temporary illness.

Army Engineers To Meet With Westernport Council

WESTERNPORT—An estimate of the damages suffered by property owners due to the high waters has been requested by the U. S. Army Engineers.

The communication from Lt. Col. Robert V. Dague, was read by Mrs. Katherine Dailey, city clerk, at the regular meeting of Mayor Okey E. Michael and Town Commissioners which also stated that a representative would call the week of December 6-10.

The letter also stated that their office wanted to make a study to evaluate flood control requirements for the community.

Commissioner Carl P. McMillen was authorized to purchase a Christmas tree to be erected at the inter-section of Main Street and Church Street.

The streets in the business area will be trimmed with holiday decorations. The work is to be done by Donald Fazenbaker and the streets and tree will be lighted nightly beginning Monday, December 13 continuing through New Year's Day.

The city clerk was instructed to write the Western Maryland Railway Company for a conference by the mayor and Commissioners with the district superintendent.

Attention was called to the hazardous condition by parking on both sides of Church Street and the town seeks permission to secure the use of vacant ground of the company in that area to be used for parking.

Commissioner Maurice Brundige reported he had contacted Harry Miller, president of the Westernport and Luke Lions Club relative to securing additional street signs for new sections of community taken into the corporation and some that have to be replaced.

Miller advised him that he thought he could get the approval of the club to provide them next spring.

It was decided that town employes be requested to be inoculated with typhoid serum. Mayor Michael stated that the State Health Department informed him that the employes would be given the serum free of charge at the Westernport Health Center.

The clerk was requested to write to Charles See, a member of the Maryland House of Delegates for a conference with the Allegany County delegation for the purpose of discussing with them two pieces of legislation.

It was announced that the blackboard to be placed in the city clerk's office had arrived.

"Macbeth," the shortest and tightest of William Shakespeare's great tragedies, is also the most televised. It's been on at least three times now. The latest, Maurice Evans' production on Hallmark "Hall of Fame" Sunday afternoon was far and away the most spectacular and to me the most satisfying.

"Hall of Fame" normally runs a half hour, but the Hallmark people like to make an occasional big splash, especially around holiday time when they sell a lot of greeting cards, and they bought up a full two hours. This meant "Macbeth" could be presented practically uncut—even the drunken porter scene, one of the more dispensable scenes in Shakespeare, was left in—and the grand design of the play could shine forth in all its meticulous and powerful detail.

"Macbeth" is the story of the corrosive effects of ambition and power on the soul of a man who was once a noble creature. If Macbeth had not been quite a fine man, this bloody tale would have no stature—but he was, and the dissolution of his character from the very moment of his first murder is a very moving, almost clinical study of the conscience of man. Shakespeare's foreknowledge of modern psychiatry, one of the most wonderful mysteries of literature, is most clearly revealed in this play, especially in the sleepwalking scene.

Maurice Evans, who played Macbeth, and Judith Anderson, who played Lady MacBeth, are two of the most leather-lunged players on our stage. Happily, someone got to them with the intelligence that television is an electronic miracle, that a whisper will carry all the way to Chicago and beyond. Their performances were models of restraint and Evans' performance, while still too mannered and declamatory, was the best he's given on television to date. His sibilance—especially with such lines as "Stars hide your fires. Let not light see my black and deep desires"—is still a little distressing, filling the living room with little hissing noises that would be more appropriate in an Alka-Seltzer commercial.

Miss Anderson, who has not always been my favorite actress, was perfectly wonderful here and her sleepwalking scene was as fine and touching as anything I've ever seen. "Macbeth" is not the most poetic of Shakespeare's plays but it has some of the best theater the old master ever wrote. Besides the sleepwalking scene and Banquo's ghost at a banquet, there is the scene where Macduff hears the news that his wife and children have been murdered, as economical and moving a bit of playwriting as Shakespeare ever did.

It was a scintillating production, conceivably too scintillating. I saw it in color. There's a lot of pageantry in "Macbeth" and the costume department ran amok, adorning the actors in reds and yellows and purples. I'm a great one for lavish use of color, but I think maybe there was just a little too much.

It was a great big production, too, with an astonishing variety of settings — castle courtyards, corridors, stairs, battlements which were photographed from all angles including one shot from almost directly overhead. It was a dazzling display of live television's ever increasing virtuosity and flexibility and I thoroughly enjoyed it. Shakespeare, I think, would have loved television and would have been a very fine writer for it.

"Macbeth" is a bloody play and there was, I'm afraid, entirely too much blood for the home screen. Both Macbeth's and Lady Macbeth's hands were the bloodiest I have ever seen after the murder of Duncan. Banquo's ghost was smeared with the stuff. Even Macduff's wife, who in the play is simply chased offstage by the murderers, was killed right before our eyes, as was her son. It was a little unnecessary.

On the whole, though, it was a fine two hours of television and I hope Hallmark gives us some more Shakespeare some time. Hallmark's next big production will be Gian Carlo-Menotti's fine opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on December 19 (NBC-TV 5 p. m. EST).

There's a lot of pageantry in "Macbeth" and the costume department ran amok, adorning the actors in reds and yellows and purples. I'm a great one for lavish use of color, but I think maybe there was just a little too much.

It was a great big production, too, with an astonishing variety of settings — castle courtyards, corridors, stairs, battlements which were photographed from all angles including one shot from almost directly overhead. It was a dazzling display of live television's ever increasing virtuosity and flexibility and I thoroughly enjoyed it. Shakespeare, I think, would have loved television and would have been a very fine writer for it.

"Macbeth" is a bloody play and there was, I'm afraid, entirely too much blood for the home screen. Both Macbeth's and Lady Macbeth's hands were the bloodiest I have ever seen after the murder of Duncan. Banquo's ghost was smeared with the stuff. Even Macduff's wife, who in the play is simply chased offstage by the murderers, was killed right before our eyes, as was her son. It was a little unnecessary.

On the whole, though, it was a fine two hours of television and I hope Hallmark gives us some more Shakespeare some time. Hallmark's next big production will be Gian Carlo-Menotti's fine opera "Amahl and the Night Visitors" on December 19 (NBC-TV 5 p. m. EST).

100 YEARS ARE BETWEEN THEM

CELEBRATING HER 100th birthday, Mrs. Charlotta Hedin presents her great-grandson, Nils Anders Henning, for baptism at the Church of Hatuna in Raby, Sweden, where she has lived all her life. The centenarian has outlasted the reigns of 5 Swedish kings. (International)

Stock Market Turns Around To Score Substantial Gain

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP) — The stock market turned around today after two losing sessions and scored a substantial advance.

Plus signs were generous. Many went to between 1 and 2 points while some kept right on going to around 6 points. Losses usually were fractional.

Leadership on the rise was firmly founded in the railroads, steels, aircrafts, and oils, and higher as well were the mail order houses, distillers, radio-televisions, chemicals, coppers, and utilities.

Tobaccos deserve a special mention. They have been under severe selling pressures for some time because of discussions on the connection between lung cancer and cigarette smoking. Late in today's session they assumed a new buying popularity and stepped ahead smartly. Closing prices included American Tobacco up 2⅝, Reynolds Tobacco "B" up 2⅞, Liggett & Myers up 3¼, and Lorillard up 1½, and Philip Morris up 1⅞.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which lost $1.80 in the past two days, gained $1.30 today to close at $147.60, only a short distance under the 1954 top scored last Monday—$148.10, equal to Oct 10, 1929.

The industrial component of today's average was up 90 cents, railroads gained $1.80, and utilities were ahead 70 cents.

It was followed by Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton up ⅞ at 11, Boeing Airplane up 1¼ at 69½ (including a block of 11,000 at 69¾), International Telephone up 1⅜ at 26⅛, and Armour & Co. up ½ at 12⅝.

Western Union gained 4¾ at 75-7⅞. Among other gainers were Northern Pacific up 4¼, Hertz Corp. 6, Fruehauf Trailer 2¼, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 2, Douglas Aircraft 1⅛, Radio eCorp. ¾, American Telephone ½, International Telephone 1⅜, Union Carbide 1⅛, New York Central ⅞, Standard Oil (NJ) 1⅛, Cities Service 1½ and Amerada Petroleum 2⅜.

Stock Market Turns Around To Score Substantial Gain

NEW YORK, Dec. 2 (AP) — The stock market turned around today after two losing sessions and scored a substantial advance.

Plus signs were generous. Many went to between 1 and 2 points while some kept right on going to around 6 points. Losses usually were fractional.

Leadership on the rise was firmly founded in the railroads, steels, aircrafts, and oils, and higher as well were the mail order houses, distillers, radio-televisions, chemicals, coppers, and utilities.

Tobaccos deserve a special mention. They have been under severe selling pressures for some time because of discussions on the connection between lung cancer and cigarette smoking. Late in today's session they assumed a new buying popularity and stepped ahead smartly. Closing prices included American Tobacco up 2⅝, Reynolds Tobacco "B" up 2⅞, Liggett & Myers up 3¼, and Lorillard up 1½, and Philip Morris up 1⅞.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks, which lost $1.80 in the past two days, gained $1.30 today to close at $147.60, only a short distance under the 1954 top scored last Monday—$148.10, equal to Oct 10, 1929.

The industrial component of today's average was up 90 cents, railroads gained $1.80, and utilities were ahead 70 cents.

It was followed by Baldwin-Lima-Hamilton up ⅞ at 11, Boeing Airplane up 1¼ at 69½ (including a block of 11,000 at 69¾), International Telephone up 1⅜ at 26⅛, and Armour & Co. up ½ at 12⅝.

Montgomery Ward was active up 2⅛ at 76.

Western Union gained 4¾ at 75-⅞. Among other gainers were Northern Pacific up 4¼, Hertz Corp. 6, Fruehauf Trailer 2¼, Youngstown Sheet & Tube 2, Douglas Aircraft 1⅛, Radio eCorp. ¾, American Telephone ½, International Telephone 1⅜, Union Carbide 1⅛, New York Central ⅞, Standard Oil (NJ) 1⅛, Cities Service 1½ and Amerada Petroleum 2⅜.

Traffic Signal System To Get Expert Study

Keegan Asks Firm To Prepare Program

Police Commissioner William V. Keegan announced yesterday that an expert from a traffic light manufacturing company will be here Monday to make a study of this city's traffic light system.

He said he will ask the traffic control engineer to study plans for traffic signals which will be used on the approaches of the new Blue Bridge at Riverside Park.

Commissioner Keegan said he will also request the signal representative to make a study of the Baltimore Street traffic light system.

Wants Plan Ready

He said he wants plans prepared for modern traffic lights on Baltimore Street, so they can be ready for use when needed.

The time may not be far off, he added, explaining that the Police Department is replacing a broken traffic light at Baltimore and North Mechanic streets.

This light, which has been broken by passing trucks on a number of occasions, is being placed further back and toward the railroad tracks this time.

But the commissioner said that if the light has to be replaced again, he will instead adopt a new system which offers more flexibility than the present six-wire plan.

Will Use Conduits

Plans are being prepared, he said, to place the conduits for the Blue Bridge approach traffic lights during the construction of the road, so there will be no unsightly poles in the area.

He said the modern bridge approach will be controlled by three traffic lights, and that plans call for a separation curb and safety island for Greene Street pedestrians.

The commissioner spent considerable time, during a visit to the New York area last week, studying the traffic light system used in New York City and nearby communities.

He also checked on the location of police sirens on vehicles, saying the trend is to place the siren and blinker lights on the tops of cruisers, adding that in the past sirens have been placed on the sides of cars, where they are often damaged in collisions.

The signal firm which will make the survey is located in East Norwalk, Conn.

Discuss Dial Progress

W. G. Morrell, vice president of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Baltimore City, chats with Mrs. Helen Johnson, Cumberland chief operator, as Morrell and other top phone company officials reviewed progress in the local dial conversion program yesterday. At a dinner for civic leaders last night at the Cumberland Country Club, Morrell presented Mayor Roy W. Eves with the first dial telephone set in the city, a modern soft green phone with transparent plastic dial face, gold-plated face plates and an inscription noting the occasion.

Community Yule Tree Lighting Ceremonies Set

Buchholtz Names Civic Committee

The City of Cumberland will hold its traditional Christmas tree lighting ceremony Sunday, December 19, at 9:15 p. m. on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, according to Street Commissioner Willia mH. Buchholtz, chairman of the city's Christmas committee.

A similar ceremony will be held for residents of South Cumberland on Tuesday, December 21, at 7:30 p. m. on the city park area at Race and Seymour streets.

He said a Christmas tree will also be erected on another park area at Valley and Furnace streets for residents of North Cumberland.

Plans for the celebrations will be made by the committee named yesterday, which includes:

Mrs. Marguarite Findlay, lighting and decorations; Wallace G. Ullery, program; Andrew Heller, supplies and labor; George M. Hitchcock, materials, and James Scarpelli, co-chairman for the South Cumberland ceremony.

The city ceremony will be held on the grounds of historical Emmanuel Church which stands on the site of old Fort Cumberland, due to construction work now underway at Riverside Park.

Commissioner Buchholtz said the city celebration has been scheduled on Sunday at 9:15 p. m., so that church goers may attend after evening devotions.

He said the committee is preparing unusual displays which will be of interest to all citizens of the Tri-State area.

Drive Starts Early

Woodrow W. Osbourne (left) smilingly presents a filled March of Dimes drive container to Victor M. Hebb, chairman of the 1955 drive in South Cumberland. Tax Exemption Meeting Planned By Delegation

Conference Set With Rt. 40 Association

Allegany County legislators have scheduled three meetings, and rescheduled another in a series of conferences planned in preparation for the 1955 General Assembly.

Included are meetings devoted to the problem of industrial tax exemption and the improvement of Route 40 in this area, according to Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the Assembly.

Senator Robert B. Kimble and all of the newly elected delegates from Allegany County plan to be present at the meetings being scheduled to allow constituents to present views on legislative matters.

Rt. 40 Meeting Set

A meeting has been scheduled Monday at 7 p. m. in the council chamber at City Hall with a McCoole delegation, headed by Thomas Nash, who want to discuss plans for police protection for the community, according to the Delegation spokesman.

The legislators will continue this December 6 meeting at 7:45 p. m. at a conference with officials of the Route 40 Association, which has been waging a vigorous campaign for modernization of the historic highway.

Rescheduled for December 16 at 8:15 p. m. at City Hall is a meeting with Friends Aware of Handicapped Children. Senator Kimble announced yesterday the meeting was deferred from December 6 since two officials of the State Department of Education could not attend on the earlier date.

Plan Tax Meeting

Delegate See said the Delegation and Sen. Kimble will meet with the Allegany County Commissioners and others interested in the subject of industrial tax exemptions in City Hall on Friday, December 17, at 2:30 p. m.

He said the Industrial Promotion Committee of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce will present its study of the problem at the meeting.

The legislators urged that any others interested, including spokesmen for labor and industry, attend the meeting and express their views on the vital subject.

Several meetings are scheduled today at the Union Street County Building, including a conference at 7 p. m. with the District 16 Improvement Association.

Work Of Local Missioners Described In Publication

The work of three Cumberland missioners in various parts of the world is described in a book just published, "The Meaning of Maryknoll," by Father Albert J. Nevins, assistant editor of Maryknoll Magazine.

The book was written by Father Nevins to tell the human story of a foreign mission society in terms of the men who compose it.

Bishop James E. Walsh, brother of William C. Walsh, 12 North Smallwood Street; Miss Mary G. Walsh, 101 Washington Street; and Sister M. Rosalia, of Mission Helpers Convent, Towson, was the former Superior General of Maryknoll and is now in Shanghai, one of the last three Maryknollers left in Communist China.

Father John E. Coulehan, son of Mrs. Etta Coulehan, 531 Cumberland Street, is working in the Hawaiian Islands. Brother Francis Wempe, son of John F. Wempe, 523 East Oldtown Road, is now in Hong Kong after having been expelled from China by the Reds.

Except for his 10 years as Superior General of Maryknoll Bishop Walsh has been stationed in China since 1918. He was in the first group of four Maryknollers assigned to the mission posts. In 1936 he was named Superior General of Maryknoll and returned to the United States to take up his administrative duties. At the completion of his 10 years as Superior General he again left for the mission fields of China.

Father Coulehan has been working among the people in the Hawaiian Islands since 1937. Father Nevins describes an incident when Father Coulehan was honored by the Juvenile Court for his work among the youngsters. Father Nevins writes:

"He caused the judge who was presenting him with the award to look up in surprise when he protested, 'I deserve no award for my work with Hawaiian youngsters. I was trying to perform my priestly duties to the best of my ability.'"

Brother Francis Wempe has been with Maryknoll since 1924. In China he performed outstanding dispensary work, and played a large part in the preparation of a standard Cantonese-English dictionary. Since his arrival in Hong Kong he has made repeated trips to the Chinese mainland border to assist the various people, both priests and civilians, who are being expelled from Red China.

FRANK A. PERDEW

Rites Planned Tomorrow For Frank Perdew

A funeral service for Frank A. Perdew, of 414 Goethe Street, former State's Attorney of Allegany County and a Trial Magistrate in Cumberland for 20 years, who died early yesterday in Memorial Hospital, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. in the Kight Funeral Home.

Rev. Edgar W. Hammersla, pastor of Central Methodist Church, will officiate, and interment will be in Hillcrest Burial Park.

Mr. Perdew ran for the Democratic nomination for state's attorney in 1911 and was the first state's attorney candidate in his party under the primary system. Prior to that, nominations were made at conventions. He was successful in the general election.

Several weeks ago Mr. Perdew went to Valparaiso, Ind., to attend the 50th anniversary celebration of the graduation of his class of Northern Indiana Law School of Valparaiso University.

Ill Three Weeks

Three weeks ago he became ill and was admitted to Memorial Hospital.

The former magistrate was born May 29, 1876, at Bean's Cove, Pa., the son of the late Elijah and Melinda (Wilson) Perdew.

Mr. Perdew left this section in the nineties to reside in Valparaiso where he attended Valparaiso University. After two years in college, he taught school two years in Indiana.

Choosing law as his vocation, he then entered the law school, graduating in 1904. He returned to Cumberland in 1905 and was admitted to the Allegany County Bar August 17, 1905.

He first established law offices in South End and practiced there in 1906, 1907 and part of 1908 when he moved to the Baltimore Street business section.

After winning the nomination in 1911, Mr. Perdew went on to win over the Republican candidate, David A. Robb. He served from (Continued on Page 20, Col. 4)

Regional School Leaders Discuss Language Arts

Four Counties Are Represented

About 55 supervisors, principals, teachers and students from four Western Maryland counties attended an all-day regional meeting on the program of foreign languages in the secondary schools of Maryland held at Mt. Savage High School.

This was one of a series of such meetings being held around the state this year.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer extended greetings to the visitors from Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties along with those attending from Allegany County. Willis H. White, state superintendent of high schools, then presided at the various sessions.

"Background History of the Foreign Language Program in Our High Schools" was the topic discussed first by Dr. James E. Spitznas, director of the Division of Instruction of the State Department of Education.

Miss Madeline H. Gainer, Mt. Savage High School Teacher, then talked on "Selected Techniques in Teaching a Beginning Class in Latin." Harvey J. Mason, an Allegany High School teacher, then made a presentation of materials of instruction for Latin classes.

Miss Ellen Bear of Hagerstown High School brought along 15 first-year French students for a demonstration on selected techniques in teaching a beginning class in French. Another Hagerstown High School teacher, Mrs. Margaret E. Towson, presented materials of instruction for modern foreign languages in the last discussion period before lunch.

After lunch there were discussions of the teaching of Latin and modern foreign languages and a general discussion concerning trends in the foreign language program.

Rec Department Publishes New Baby Sitter Directory

The City Recreation Department announced yesterday that the 1955 directory of baby sitters is now available at the Recreation Department office.

Robert E. Pence, city rec director, said the new list includes 89 baby sitters located in all sections of Cumberland and its suburban area.

He said the available workers are listed according to the area in which they live and in alphabetical order.

All of the baby sitters, he said, have been screened by police, juvenile court and school authorities.

Although the majority of the baby sitters are teen-agers, 32 adults are included, and some of them are available for practical nursing duties.

Regulations set up by the City Recreation Department provide for rates of 35 cents an hour until midnight, 50 cents an hour after midnight, and a 50-cent fee for periods less than an hour and a half.

Suitable arrangement home should be planned for the sitter, who should not be accompanied by dates or friends during working hours. Duties of the sitter are confined to the care of children unless agreement is reached on additional duties.

The regulations point out that reasonable refreshments for the sitter will be appreciated.

Parents are reminded that they should provide written information giving their destination and phone number, and some alternate person who could be contacted in an emergency.

Toy Drive Ends Here Tomorrow

The 1954 "Toys For Tots" campaign comes to a close here on Saturday and residents are reminded that a discarded toy which may be lying around the house will be welcomed at the workshop at 75 North Centre Street, across from City Hall.

Captain Henry W. Tubbs, inspector-instructor of the local Marine Corps Reserve unit, sponsor of the drive, yesterday said it is "going along nicely" and a large number of toys will be distributed to deserving children.

Members of the Marine Corps Reserve and of the Naval Reserve are presently carrying on a big job of repairing and repainting sleds, bicycles and tricycles.

The Associated Charities is also pitching in by doing repair and repaint work on some of the smaller playthings.

Residents who wish to give their discarded toys may take them to the headquarters which is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

New toys may be taken to the office of the Associated Charities in City Hall at any time prior to Christmas Eve.

Salvation Army Yule Aid Fund At $222 Mark

The Salvation Army's Christmas fund drive has reached the $222.95 mark, according to Capt. Daniel Biggs, commander of the Salvation Army Citadel.

He said the funds which will be used to finance Christmas food orders and baskets for needy families of the area include $176.30 from kettle collections, $21.65 collected at Christmas Kettle Houses Saturday and a $25 donation.

Capt. Biggs said a second kettle house was placed yesterday in front of the Second National Bank and that kettles manned by Salvationists will be in operation Saturday in front of the Montgomery-Ward, Murphy, Cumberland Cloak and Suit and Burton's stores.

Lt. John Ray, assistant at the Citadel, has begun the Christmas War Cry sale, Capt. Biggs said.

The Citadel has taken about 200 applications for Christmas food orders, and the total applications are expected to reach or exceed the 800 mark.

Capt. Biggs said all applications for Christmas aid should be in by December 15.

He added that all applications for January surplus foods should be in by next Tuesday, due to the Christmas rush.

Rawlings Youth Faces Two Vehicle Charges

A 19-year-old Rawlings youth yesterday afternoon was lodged in the County Jail pending a hearing this morning in Trial Magistrate's Court on two motor vehicle law violations.

State Trooper L. D. Cook, who arrested Paul Gordon along McMullen Highway at Rawlings, said the youth was driving on a revoked driver's license and was driving an automobile equipped with a tag issued for another one. He had no registration papers or title for the automobile he was driving.

Gordon told the trooper that he had bought the car from a used car dealer in Keyser.

The Weather

It was a wintry day yesterday with a few snow flurries felt in Cumberland. Highway travel west of Frostburg remained hazardous last night as snow was falling in that area of Route 40. State Police recommended chains. The forecast for today calls for partly cloudy skies with cold temperatures. The high temperature yesterday was 35 degrees with a low temperature of 29. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 63 per cent.

Farmers' Group Backs Program

Allegany County's Agricultural Resources Conservation Committee met yesterday afternoon and recommended 21 conservation practices for 1955 compared with 14 now in effect in the county.

The recommendation will be referred to the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee for approval or rejection.

Others present were the three members of the County ASC committee, Albert O'Neal, James H. Weimer and Joseph Silber, and Miss Elizabeth Hoover, office manager; County Agent Joseph M. Steger; Floyd Buser, Charles Harvey and Ernest Slider, supervisors of the County Soil Conservation District; Assistant District Forester Harry Hartman, Martin M. Gordon and Stuart Delbrook of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Beall, Butler Split Again On Move To Condemn M'Carthy

Maryland Senators J. Glenn Beall and John M. Butler split again yesterday on a vote to "condemn" Senator Joseph R. McCarthy.

Beall and 21 other Republicans voted to censure the Wisconsin Senator for his criticism of the Watkins Committee, which had recommended his censure. Butler and another 21 GOP Senators voted against the motion.

On Wednesday, Beall voted to censure McCarthy and Butler opposed the motion. Earlier the same day, both Butler and Beall had backed an unsuccessful move by Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) to prevent the censure move from coming to a vote.

Flue Fire Checked

Cumberland Jaycees Vote To Meet Twice Each Month

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce has gone on record in favor of two meetings a month instead of the once-a-month policy that has been in effect for years.

Action on the twice-a-month plan was taken at the regular December dinner meeting Wednesday night at the Ali Ghan Country Club. In addition to the dinner meeting on the first Wednesday each month there will be a business meeting on the third Wednesday, immediately before the Board of Directors meets. There will be light refreshments but no dinner at this second meeting.

Winners in two recent Jaycee-sponsored contests were special guests Wednesday night. Linda Cover, 13-year-old Bowling Green girl, who won the $25 "Mr. Blooper" contest, was there. So was "Mr. Blooper," Robert W. Young, who explained something about his experiences the day during County Safety Week in which he was identified.

All of the 12 school winners in the annual "I Speak For Democracy" contest were special guests too. The top three contestants in the county-wide competition also gave their talks. They were George Eskin, Fort Hill, first; Dora Lee Lovell, Girls' Central, first runner-up, and Wilda Joyce Smith, Allegany, second runner-up.

The loving cup which goes for one year to the school with the county winner was presented by George L. Carney Jr., president, to Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School. It is retired after one school wins it three times.

William Porter, former Olympic hurdler, was introduced and spoke briefly. The Jaycees collected $191.02 at the Fort Hill-Allegany football game toward the Olympic Fund Drive to send the American team to the 1956 Olympics in Australia.

Dr. Morris Named To UMW Position

Dr. Samuel J. Morris, a member of the staff of West Virginia University, Morgantown, has accepted a position as southern district medical director for the United Mine Workers' welfare and Pension Fund, with headquarters in Charleston.

He will end his 33-year tenure at WVU next June 30. Dr. Morris has taught in both the Medical and Physical Education schools and has served as physician for Mountaineer athletic teams.

Strother Joins Business Firm

W. A. Strother, 809 Trost Avenue, will become associated with Harry B. Simpson, real estate and insurance broker at 113 Frederick Street, beginning January 1.

From 1947 through 1950 Strother was state and county tax collector for the county's District No. 1. During the past four years he has been assistant collector in the tax office under Collector Ernest B. Treat. He resigned from that position Tuesday.

Before his appointment as tax collector, Strother was employed by the Kenneweg Company, wholesale grocers, as a salesman for 22 years. A native of Doddridge County, W. Va., he was a school teacher in Ritchie and Harrison counties of West Virginia for a few years before moving to Cumberland in 1909.

An active member of Centre Street Methodist Church, Strother is a past president of the Men's Bible Class there.

Simpson has been engaged in the real estate and insurance business in this city for more than 10 years.

Clinics Planned Today

The Health Department has scheduled child hygiene clinics today at 9:30 a.m. in Bowman's Addition and at 10 a.m. in Mt. Savage, and a chest clinic from 9 a.m. to noon in City Hall.

West Side PTA To Hear Clergy

West Side Parent-Teacher Association will meet Tuesday at the school, with teachers in their home rooms from 7:30 to 8 p. m. to greet parents.

At the meeting, called for 8 p. m., there will be a discussion on the subject, "Moral and Spiritual Education in Home, School and Community."

The speakers will include Rev. Regis F. Larkin of St. Michael's Catholic Church, Frostburg, speaking on the "Community"; Rev. C. Lloyd Voll, pastor of St. Matthew's Evangelical and Reformed Church, Bowling Green, will speak on the "School;" and Rabbi Joseph Schimelman of Beth Jacob Congregation will discuss the "Home."

Preceding the discussion a program of Christmas music will be presented by a chorus from Allegany High School, under the direction of Miss Dorothy Willison.

Regional School Leaders Discuss Language Arts

Four Counties Are Represented

About 55 supervisors, principals, teachers and students from four Western Maryland counties attended an all-day regional meeting on the program of foreign languages in the secondary schools of Maryland held at Mt. Savage High School.

This was one of a series of such meetings being held around the state this year.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Richard T. Rizer extended greetings to the visitors from Garrett, Washington and Frederick counties along with those attending from Allegany County. Willis H. White, state superintendent of high schools, then presided at the various sessions.

"Background History of the Foreign Language Program in Our High Schools" was the topic discussed first by Dr. James E. Spitznas, director of the Division of Instruction of the State Department of Education.

Miss Madeline H. Gainer, Mt. Savage High School Teacher, then talked on "Selected Techniques in Teaching a Beginning Class in Latin." Harvey J. Mason, an Allegany High School teacher, then made a presentation of materials of instruction for Latin classes.

Miss Ellen Bear of Hagerstown High School brought along 15 first-year French students for a demonstration on selected techniques in teaching a beginning class in French. Another Hagerstown High School teacher, Mrs. Margaret E. Towson, presented materials of instruction for modern foreign languages in the last discussion period before lunch.

After lunch there were discussions of the teaching of Latin and modern foreign languages and a general discussion concerning trends in the foreign language program.

Flue Fire Checked

Rec Department Publishes New Baby Sitter Directory

The City Recreation Department announced yesterday that the 1955 directory of baby sitters is now available at the Recreation Department office.

Robert E. Pence, city rec director, said the new list includes 89 baby sitters located in all sections of Cumberland and its suburban area.

He said the available workers are listed according to the area in which they live and in alphabetical order.

All of the baby sitters, he said, have been screened by police, juvenile court and school authorities.

Although the majority of the baby sitters are teen-agers, 32 adults are included, and some of them are available for practical nursing duties.

Regulations set up by the City Recreation Department provide for rates of 35 cents an hour until midnight, 50 cents an hour after midnight, and a 50-cent fee for periods less than an hour and a half.

Suitable arrangement home should be planned for the sitter, who should not be accompanied by dates or friends during working hours. Duties of the sitter are confined to the care of children unless agreement is reached on additional duties.

The regulations point out that reasonable refreshments for the sitter will be appreciated.

Parents are reminded that they should provide written information giving their destination and phone number, and some alternate person who could be contacted in an emergency.

Toy Drive Ends Here Tomorrow

The 1954 "Toys For Tots" campaign comes to a close here on Saturday and residents are reminded that a discarded toy which may be lying around the house will be welcomed at the workshop at 75 North Centre Street, across from City Hall.

Captain Henry W. Tubbs, inspector-instructor of the local Marine Corps Reserve unit, sponsor of the drive, yesterday said it is "going along nicely" and a large number of toys will be distributed to deserving children.

Members of the Marine Corps Reserve and of the Naval Reserve are presently carrying on a big job of repairing and repainting sleds, bicycles and tricycles.

The Associated Charities is also pitching in by doing repair and repaint work on some of the smaller playthings.

Residents who wish to give their discarded toys may take them to the headquarters which is open from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

New toys may be taken to the office of the Associated Charities in City Hall at any time prior to Christmas Eve.

Dr. Morris Named To UMW Position

Dr. Samuel J. Morris, a member of the staff of West Virginia University, Morgantown, has accepted a position as southern district medical director for the United Mine Workers' welfare and Pension Fund, with headquarters in Charleston.

He will end his 33-year tenure at WVU next June 30. Dr. Morris has taught in both the Medical and Physical Education schools and has served as physician for Mountaineer athletic teams.

Strother Joins Business Firm

W. A. Strother, 809 Trost Avenue, will become associated with Harry B. Simpson, real estate and insurance broker at 113 Frederick Street, beginning January 1.

From 1947 through 1950 Strother was state and county tax collector for the county's District No. 1. During the past four years he has been assistant collector in the tax office under Collector Ernest B. Treat. He resigned from that position Tuesday.

Before his appointment as tax collector, Strother was employed by the Kenneweg Company, wholesale grocers, as a salesman for 22 years. A native of Doddridge County, W. Va., he was a school teacher in Ritchie and Harrison counties of West Virginia for a few years before moving to Cumberland in 1909.

An active member of Centre Street Methodist Church, Strother is a past president of the Men's Bible Class there.

Simpson has been engaged in the real estate and insurance business in this city for more than 10 years.

Clinics Planned Today

The Health Department has scheduled child hygiene clinics today at 9:30 a.m. in Bowman's Addition and at 10 a.m. in Mt. Savage, and a chest clinic from 9 a.m. to noon in City Hall.

Briner Recuperating

Edgar William Briner, who was cut while working at Swift's, November 29, has returned to his home, Bowling Green, from Sacred Heart Hospital, and is reported recuperating.

Salvation Army Yule Aid Fund At $222 Mark

The Salvation Army's Christmas fund drive has reached the $222.95 mark, according to Capt. Daniel Biggs, commander of the Salvation Army Citadel.

He said the funds which will be used to finance Christmas food orders and baskets for needy families of the area include $176.30 from kettle collections, $21.65 collected at Christmas Kettle Houses Saturday and a $25 donation.

Capt. Biggs said a second kettle house was placed yesterday in front of the Second National Bank and that kettles manned by Salvationists will be in operation Saturday in front of the Montgomery-Ward, Murphy, Cumberland Cloak and Suit and Burton's stores.

Lt. John Ray, assistant at the Citadel, has begun the Christmas War Cry sale, Capt. Biggs said.

The War Crys are being distributed during the day, and collections made the following night. Any donation above the 15 cent price of the War Cry will go for the Christmas aid program.

The Citadel has taken about 200 applications for Christmas food orders, and the total applications are expected to reach or exceed the 800 mark.

Capt. Biggs said all applications for Christmas aid should be in by December 15.

He added that all applications for January surplus foods should be in by next Tuesday, due to the Christmas rush.

Rawlings Youth Faces Two Vehicle Charges

A 19-year-old Rawlings youth yesterday afternoon was lodged in the County Jail pending a hearing this morning in Trial Magistrate's Court on two motor vehicle law violations.

State Trooper L. D. Cook, who arrested Paul Gordon along McMullen Highway at Rawlings, said the youth was driving on a revoked driver's license and was driving an automobile equipped with a tag issued for another one. He had no registration papers or title for the automobile he was driving.

Gordon told the trooper that he had bought the car from a used car dealer in Keyser.

The Weather

It was a wintry day yesterday with a few snow flurries felt in Cumberland. Highway travel west of Frostburg remained hazardous last night as snow was falling in that area of Route 40. State Police recommended chains. The forecast for today calls for partly cloudy skies with cold temperatures. The high temperature yesterday was 35 degrees with a low temperature of 29. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 63 per cent.

Farmers' Group Backs Program

Allegany County's Agricultural Resources Conservation Committee met yesterday afternoon and recommended 21 conservation practices for 1955 compared with 14 now in effect in the county.

The recommendation will be referred to the State Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee for approval or rejection.

Others present were the three members of the County ASC committee, Albert O'Neal, James H. Weimer and Joseph Silber, and Miss Elizabeth Hoover, office manager; County Agent Joseph M. Steger; Floyd Buser, Charles Harvey and Ernest Slider, supervisors of the County Soil Conservation District; Assistant District Forester Harry Hartman, Martin M. Gordon and Stuart Delbrook of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Beall, Butler Split Again On Move To Condemn M'Carthy

Maryland Senators J. Glenn Beall and John M. Butler split again yesterday on a vote to "condemn" Senator Joseph R. McCarthy.

Beall and 21 other Republicans voted to censure the Wisconsin Senator for his criticism of the Watkins Committee, which had recommended his censure. Butler and another 21 GOP Senators voted against the motion.

On Wednesday, Beall voted to censure McCarthy and Butler opposed the motion. Earlier the same day, both Butler and Beall had backed an unsuccessful move by Sen. Everett Dirksen (R-Ill.) to prevent the censure move from coming to a vote.

Collection Day Today

Cumberland Jaycees Vote To Meet Twice Each Month

The Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce has gone on record in favor of two meetings a month instead of the once-a-month policy that has been in effect for years.

Action on the twice-a-month plan was taken at the regular December dinner meeting Wednesday night at the Ali Ghan Country Club. In addition to the dinner meeting on the first Wednesday each month there will be a business meeting on the third Wednesday, immediately before the Board of Directors meets. There will be light refreshments but no dinner at this second meeting.

Winners in two recent Jaycee-sponsored contests were special guests Wednesday night. Linda Cover, 13-year-old Bowling Green girl, who won the $25 "Mr. Blooper" contest, was there. So was "Mr. Blooper," Robert W. Young, who explained something about his experiences the day during County Safety Week in which he was identified.

All of the 12 school winners in the annual "I Speak For Democracy" contest were special guests too. The top three contestants in the county-wide competition also gave their talks. They were George Eskin, Fort Hill, first; Dora Lee Lovell, Girls' Central, first runner-up, and Wilda Joyce Smith, Allegany, second runner-up.

The loving cup which goes for one year to the school with the county winner was presented by George L. Carney Jr., president, to Victor D. Heisey, principal of Fort Hill High School. It is retired after one school wins it three times.

William Porter, former Olympic hurdler, was introduced and spoke briefly. The Jaycees collected $191.02 at the Fort Hill-Allegany football game toward the Olympic Fund Drive to send the American team to the 1956 Olympics in Australia.

School Play Scene
